SENATE KILLS PINCHOT UTILITIES BILL

Today

Prayer vs. Airplanes.
Big Liquor Bill.
Cash for 3 Things.
John Swadling's Dog.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AFTER THE great display by Army airplanes over New York City many clergymen preached sermons denouncing the exhibition, saying there should be no fighting airplanes. Everything should be lovely and peaceful.

So it should be, and so it isn't. What would the clergymen suggest as a substitute for airplanes in case of war? Would they suggest prayer?

IN ANOTHER war, as in the late war, there would be praying on both sides, and sincere praying. How dare we assume that our prayers would be more efficacious than the prayers of others? What do we know about the divine mind?

At best the result must be uncertain.

On the other hand, there is no uncertainty about airplanes. Their speed, carrying capacity, the power of bombs and poisons that they would drop can be calculated definitely.

THE PEOPLE of the United States spend almost three billions of dollars a year with the bootleggers of the country. The exact amount mentioned is $2,848,000,000 and that places bootlegging among the biggest industries, on a par with the automobile and other great businesses.

The amount does not include home brewing or home distilling, which might double the total.

The worst of it is the KIND of drinking. Of the total paid to bootleggers $2,200,000,000 goes for whisky and gin. The country spends now for "hard liquor" three times as much as it did before the war.

GOOD TIMES or bad, men will find money for three things, RACING, GAMBLING, SMOKING. And the worst of the three is gambling.

The Irish Sweepstakes, to help to build Irish hospitals, total amount $12,500,000. Hospitals will get more than $3,000,000, gamblers about $9,000,000, expenses will eat the rest. There will be many prizes of $150,000, $75,000, and $50,000, and smaller prizes, totaling 4,000 prizes in all.

Five millions have bought tickets, and whether they win or lose, they are a little nearer to the certainty that they will never make any permanent success. Gambling prevents that. And the chances are more than 1,000 to 1 against winning any prize.

JOHN SWADLING, 96 years old, will surely march in the Oskaloosa Memorial Day parade next Saturday, but is not quite sure about his dog, Teddy.

That faithful creature is 23 years old, and Mr. Swadling says:

"That's pretty old for a dog, but 96, that is young for a man."

Ninety-six really will be young for a man, in days to come. Each mammal lives about 10 times the age at which it reproduces its kind, some much longer.

Man, therefore, should live to 150, and be able after 100 years of work to say, with certainty:

"Now for 50 years of relaxation, to think, see the earth, contemplate the stars."

GEN. VON LUDENDORFF predicts another European war in July, "more ferocious and disastrous than the World War." England, allied with Italy, would attack and blockade France.

Fortunately, it is only a nightmare. England knows too much about the size of the French air fleet to undertake any blockading, now out of date so far as Europe is concerned.

French airmen would fly over the British ships, sink them, on the way, and move on to destroy London, Liverpool and Manchester.

TO SAY, as Ludendorff does, that the next war will be worse than the last, is to discuss an uncertainty. We don't know yet how bad the last war was. And shall not know until this depression, born of that war, is ended.

THE LATEST British air news recalls the statement of Lieut. Williams of our Navy:

"Americans talk fast and fly slowly. The British talk slowly and fly rapidly."

In trial flight at Calshot, a British pilot recently attained a speed beyond the world's record, also British, of 357.7 miles an hour. The English "supermarine" firm has built two machines, expected to do better than 400 miles an hour.

The United States will not compete in the European speed race, with France, Italy and England. That is just as well, for we should only be ridiculous in that race.

FOUR KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

'Tandem Motor' Type Ship Falls While Attempting To Set New Speed Record

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP.)—Four men comprising the crew of the Chicago Daily News plane Blue Streak were killed today when the specially designed sesquiplane fell while attempting to set a 2,000-kilometer speed record north of Glen Ellyn, Ill.

The dead are Shirley J. Short, chief pilot; Richard K. Peck, co-pilot; Lewis S. Rice, radio operator, and Robert Gormley, mechanic.

The plane was shuttling back and forth between Curtiss-Reynolds airport and Serena, Ill. It plunged into the ground while flying at a low altitude.

The plane was of unusual construction, with a tandem motor design, one motor pulling and a second pushing the ship. Either motor was supposed to be capable of sustaining the plane in flight.

The speed test was being conducted under the supevision of the National Aeronautical Association.

Cambria County Fair Canceled by Schwab

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 26.—The Cambria County fair was canceled today, due to economic conditions.

Decision to close the million-dollar plant at Ebensburg this year was taken at a meeting presided over by Charles M. Schwab at his Loretto estate. Directors said they would make no effort to divert money from channels of home requirements and of industry.

R. K. Mellon Seeks Rail Board Rights

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP.)—Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, a nephew of Secretary Mellon, today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for general authorization to hold directorships in all railroads included in the New York Central System. Specific authorization was asked for permission to serve on the board of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad.

Estranged Daughter Sends Joel Flowers

LONDON, May 26.—(AP.)—Among the hundreds of floral tributes to the late Solomon Barnato (Solly) Joel, financier and racehorse owner, at his funeral today was one from his elder daughter, Doris, who angered her father several years ago by marrying against his wishes. It was inscribed "I love you, daddy."

Hoover and Cabinet Show Optimism

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP.)—President Hoover and his cabinet today surveyed the economic situation and found many factors which they considered favorable.

There was no amplification at the White House of the statement that "factors are favorable."

Reno May Divorces Already Total 300

RENO, Nev., May 26.—(INS.)—The merry month of May, 1931, will probably go down in the record books as the great separation month. More than 300 marriages were dissolved by Reno divorce courts during the first 25 days.

Mate Unwanted Sues for Divorce

MRS. KATHLEEN S. M'CREERY . . . CHARGED WITH DESERTION

Mrs. McCreery, Denniston avenue, whose husband, W. Baily McCreery, Carnegie Steel Company sales executive, today before Judge W. Heber Dithrich testified she demanded he leave home.

TWO RACERS DIE ON SPEEDWAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 26.—(INS.)—Joe Caccia, 31, crack driver of Bryn Mawr, Pa., and his mechanic, Clarence Grove, 23, of Haverford, Pa., were killed instantly when their Jones-Maley special race car plunged over a retaining wall at the Indianapolis motor speedway race track today.

They were qualifying for the 500-mile race Saturday.

The racing car, apparently out of control at a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour, plunged over the wall at the south turn, struck a tree and then caught fire.

The automobile then turned over, imprisoning the two men. Their bodies were badly burned.

Caccia was a veteran race driver.

Edge and Pershing Open U. S. Exhibit

PARIS, May 26.—(AP.)—The American pavilion in France's International Colonial and Overseas Exposition, a reproduction of Mount Vernon was formally opened this afternoon by Ambassador Walter E. Edge, C. Bascom Slemp, the American high commissioner, and Gen. Pershing.

Parking Lot Owner Fatally Shoots Self

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 26.—(AP.)—J. H. Russell, 65, operator of an automobile parking lot, shot and killed himself on the parking lot today.

Steel Executive Testifies Trip Changed Mate's Matrimonial Ideas

His wife got new ideas about freedom for married women and after her return from a trip to the West Indies demanded that he leave home so that she could entertain her friends there, W. Bailey, 51, of Lothrop street, Oakland, Carnegie Steel Company sales executive, testified today in his divorce suit.

McCreery charges desertion in asking a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Kathleen S. McCreery, 41, of Denniston avenue. They were married in 1907. Mrs. McCreery left him May 24, 1929, McCreery said. For two years prior to that they lived in the same house in Penn avenue, Point Breeze, but not as man and wife, he added.

His efforts to reconcile his wife failed McCreery testified and they finally separated. They have three children. The case is being heard before Judge W. Heber Dithridge.

Eye Blacked!

Hill Politician

DAVE B. ROBERTS

Weighmaster Roberts, county employe, Hill ward district chairman, pictured today with the eye blacked in a street attack.

Roberts, Soho Politician, Arrested With Black Eye

David Roberts, Hill politician, was confined to his home in Soho street today with a black eye. What's more, there was a charge of disorderly conduct against him at Center Avenue Police Station.

Roberts, district chairman, political disciple of James F. Malone and weighmaster in the county Bureau of Weights and Measures, said that when he stepped off a street car at Soho street, Peter Montigue, 38, of Wadsworth street, swung the fist which discolored the eye.

Roberts said Montigue accused him of having engineered a raid on a moonshine joint in Center avenue, carried out by Alderman Martin Griffin's constables. Montigue was not arrested in the raid.

Police arrested both Montigue and Roberts, who denied any part in the raid.

MOVE TO SAVE MUSMANNO BILL FAILS

Reconsideration by Senate Defeated After Passage With 'Teeth' Stricken Out

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, May 26.—The Musmanno coal and iron police bill, in its emasculated form, passed the Senate unanimously today.

Shortly after the passage of the measure Senator Samuel W. Salus, who fathered the measure at the behest of Representative M. A. Musmanno, moved to reconsider, and in an address in which he pointed out the defects of the coal and iron police system, asked that the bill be sent back to second reading.

RIAL OPPOSES MOVE

Senator William S. Rial, of Westmoreland County, in whose district he said were more than 50 company towns, pleaded to retain the coal and iron police system.

The Salus motion was beaten, 26 to 15, with Armstrong, Mansfield and Harris, of Allegheny County, voting to reconsider, and Coyne and Einstein missing.

The bill now goes to the House for concurrence in the amendments submitted by the Senate Judiciary General Committee.

HOUSE TO BALK

Concurrence in the House is considered unlikely, and the measure in all likelihood will be returned to its original form.

The bill came up on the regular routine and was passed without debate.

Whether the bill will get back to the Senate in time to be passed before adjournment Thursday is considered unlikely.

While the Allegheny contingent in the Senate voted solidly last night to restore the Musmanno provisions in the bill, other Western Pennsylvania senators voted to defeat them. Senator Rial, of Westmoreland; Senator Bell, of Fayette, and Senator Painter, of Butler, voted to defeat the bill.

Those favoring the Musmanno measure to be returned to its original form were: Senators Armstrong, Brandt, Einstein, Gelder, Harris, Harvey, Mansfield, Prince, Salus, Snyder, Sordoni, Trainer, Weingartner and Williamson.

Against the amendments were: Apple, Baldwin, Baumer, Bell, Bowers, Boyd, Buckman, Chapman, Clippinger, Early, Ernest, Frazier, Freeman, Homsher, Howell, Hunsicker, Lanius, McClure, Norton, Painter, Pethick, Quigley, Rial, Scott, Sprout and Daix.

Things Brighter For Brokers; They Can Win Duels

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

And now to put an old spring bonnet on the climax we have had a real duel in New York City.

Doctor and broker met on the field of honor. The doctor fell. Things are getting better for the brokers.

No fun to be in a duel. During the Democratic convention in San Francisco in 1920, we were challenged by Ring Lardner to coffee and pistols for two.

A real duel in 1931 proves the world is upside down. The Wickersham committee is walking on its hands. Justice is doing a headspin. And like the long-legged farmer on the little burro we don't know whether we are on foot or hossback.

Hundreds of airplanes flew down the Hudson on Saturday. Every one went over the English convict ship lying at her wharf. And sometimes we think the English were right when they named that boat Success.

We don't know whether we are progressing or not. We have discovered one thing overlooked by O. O. McIntyre and Winchell. The new Rockefeller radio city is being built on the site of 372 former speakeasies.

Husband, Orphaned Nephew And Two Boarders Die in Home

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret Summers, 47-year-old widow, was held for the grand jury on four charges of murder today at the recommendation of a coroner's jury which heard evidence that four men who died in her home were victims of slow poisoning.

Mrs. Summers was found to have been made beneficiary in life insurance policies of 10 persons, five of whom died while living at her home.

Dr. Clarence Muehlberg, coroner's chemist, testified that he found the woman's husband, Thomas, 37; her orphaned nephew, Thomas Meyers, 17, and two boarders, WiWilliam Reman and Thomas Lanagan, succumbed to poison, the first three apparently from small doses over a long period and Lanagan of acute poisoning.

Mrs. Summers sobbed from behind the bars of a police station cell.

"The trouble with me is that I've always been too good to everybody. They're saying I poisoned my husband, Thomas. Why, we never had any trouble.

"As for my nephew—I slaved for that boy, took care of him when he was orphaned. I did everything for him and always had him under a doctor's care."

P.S.C. RIPPER PROVISION REJECTED

House to Stand Pat on Howell Measure, Making Extra Session Certain

HARRISBURG, May 26.—(AP.)—The Senate today voted to refuse to concur in the amendments inserted in the House in the Howell bill.

By a vote of 30 to 20 the Senate refused to give the Governor the right to dismiss members of the Public Service Commission at his pleasure.

Those voting to uphold the Governor included Coyne, Einstein, Harris, Mansfield and Weingartner.

Those voting against him included Armstrong, Aron, Baldwin and Brandt.

The bill now goes back to the House, which is expected to insist upon its amendments and conference committees then probably will be appointed.

The Senate's decisive action, by a majority of ten voters, was regarded as making certain that a special session of the Legislature will be called by Gov. Pinchot. He was announced that he would take that action if his utility regulation program were not enacted.

Meanwhile the Senate Judiciary General Committee today reported for passage the administrating code as amended. The committee struck out the provisions for a Fair State Board in lieu of the present Public Service Commission and that for a mine research bureau.

Royal Traffic Rules Aid Helen No More

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 26.—(AP.)—Traffic police were instructed today not to signal the approach of Queen Helen's automobile or carriage at street intersections. Heretofore all other traffic was stopped at the approach of her royal vehicle.

It was also reported today that incidental to her rumored expulsion from the royal family, Helen's portraits are to be removed from beside King Carol's.

Wales Called World's Outstanding Traveler

CARDIFF, Wales, May 26.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales is "the outstanding bagman of the day," in the words of Lord Mayor Snook as expressed in a speech to the Commercial Travelers' Association.

ROME, May 26.—(INS.)—Plans were completed by the Fascist authorities today for the trial Thursday of Michele Schirru, a naturalized American, on charges of plotting the assassination of Premier Mussolini.

Yeats, Irish Poet, Gets Oxford Degree

OXFORD, Eng., May 26.—(AP.)—W. B. Yeats, the Irish poet who won the Nobel prize in literature in 1923, today received the honorary degree of doctor of letters from Oxford University.

War Mothers to Aid In Paris Memorials

PARIS, May 26.—(AP.)—American Gold Star mothers will participate in Memorial Day ceremonies at five cemeteries in France.

GIN TRIAL NEAR JURY AGAIN

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 26.—(INS.)—Closing arguments by attorneys continued today, with the prospect that the fate of Virgil Kirkland, Gary (Ind.) high school football star, charged with the murder of his sweetheart, Arlene Draves, would be in the hands of the jury this afternoon for the second time.

Kirkland's life imprisonment conviction in his first trial was set aside when errors in the court procedure were discovered.

Edmund J. Freund, of the state, brought yesterday's oratory to a close with a demand for the death penalty. He said to the jury:

"The whole country is waiting for your verdict, by which you can put a stop to young men calling on your daughters and mine with a bottle of gin instead of a bouquet of roses in their hands."

Slot Machines Taken In Lunchstand Raid

On orders of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, county detectives today raided a lunchstand at 1705 Boulevard of the Allies and reported confiscating two slot machines. The proprietor was absent, but an information was sworn against him, the detectives said. He was named as Jake Soltz.

Child Run Down by Auto Unconscious 260 Hours

Billie Armitage, 8, Valley Heights school pupil, at noon today reached his two hundred and sixtieth hour of unconsciousness in Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

Injured in an auto accident May 15, as he returned from school, the boy has since been in a coma, and during all the hours since, either his father or mother has been at his bedside. The boy shows no improvement, but physicians are hoping that his condition will change slightly to permit an operation.

A blood clot on the brain is said to have caused paralysis of his right side.

Returning from school, with other pupils, the boy's hat blew off in Leechburg road, near his home, and in reaching for it he was struck by an auto, said to have been driven by P. H. Oberfield, 5703 Hobart street, employed by the Liberty Dairy Products company. Oberfield sent the boy to the hospital in another machine.

HARRIS, DAIX TO PICK VOTE MACHINE INVESTIGATORS

QUIZ APPROVED UNANIMOUSLY BY SENATE

Resolution Gives Committee Power to Scan Records; Report at Next Session

HARRISBURG, May 26.—Senator Frank J. Harris, of Crafton, today is to confer with President Pro Tem Daix as to the personnel of the committee to investigate the voting machine situation.

The committee was authorized last night by a unanimous vote of the Senate.

President Daix, given the power to name the five, asked Harris to confer with him.

The committee under the resolution will have power to call any person or records into the inquiry pertaining to the voting machine situation in the state.

The resolution is aimed particularly at Allegheny and Philadelphia counties in which delays in the purchase and installation of voting machines have occurred.

The findings of the committee will be made to the next session of the Legislature and to the secretary of the commonwealth Richard J. Beamish.

The resolution points out that the people of various counties voted to have the machines to prevent fraud, that failure in many places to install them was due to subterfuge and legal entanglements, that charges and counter-charges apparently are made by companies involved in competition, that public officials were charged with financial interests in various concerns, and that state and municipal employes are agents of these concerns.

WILKINS PLANS TO SAIL JUNE 1

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 26.—(Universal)—Preparations were going forward here today for the speedy departure of the trans-Arctic submarine Nautilus on her long voyage to the North Pole.

Sir Hubert Wilkins and the submarine's skipper, Lieut. Commander Sloan Danenhower, believed the boat would be mechanically ready by tomorrow to make a running dive to a depth of 150 to 200 feet.

That accomplished, it was planned to sail for Provincetown, Mass., for underwater standardization tests. Hence it was expected the vessel would put to sea for Spitzbergen, Norway, about June 1.

Danenhower yesterday received an illuminated scroll from the governor of Kentucky creating him a "real admiral" of the governor's staff. In presenting the commission, Col. Aubrey Maddock, of Hartford, declared:

"It is the hope of Kentuckians this expedition may be entirely successful and add tremendously to the sum of human knowledge."

WALKER GETS P. S. C. POST

HARRISBURG, May 26.—Samuel H. Walker, of Butler, member of the Public Service Commission assigned to the Western Pennsylvania district, today was in office again for a 10-year term. He was given virtually a unanimous vote last night in the Senate when his name was put forward for confirmation.

The two votes cast against him were those of Senators Howell and Pethick and attributed to the will of their constituents that the present commission is out of sympathy with the people.

Walker, with James S. Benn, was put up for confirmation by Gov. John S. Fisher early in January. Benn resigned several weeks ago, after having been under fire by Gov. Pinchot.

Baltimore Air Line Claim to be Pushed

BALTIMORE, May 26.—(AP.)—Prepared to carry Baltimore's claims as the most logical American terminus for the proposed trans-Atlantic air line direct to the Imperial Airways of Great Britain, Dr. Hugh H. Young, chairman of the Maryland State Aviation Commission, will sail for England Wednesday from New York.

Bank Fails to Open At Smithfield, Pa.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 26.—The First National Bank of Smithfield failed to open today and was turned over to the Federal Comptroller of Currency. Officials declared a slow run had threatened the assets, listed as $725,000 with deposits of $450,000.

Queen Mary Celebrates 64th Birthday Quietly

SANDRINGHAM, May 26.—(AP.)—Queen Mary was 64 years old today and felicitations poured in on her from a wide circle of relatives, friends and admirers.

No public ceremonies were planned but she looked forward with King George to receiving guests at Sandringham Palace.

The queen was born at Kensington Palace, May 26, 1867, the daughter of the Duke of Teck and Mary Adelaide. She was first betrothed in 1891 to the Duke of Clarence, eldest son of King Edward VII but he died in 1892. She married the Duke of York in 1893 and was crowned with him in Westminster Abbey in 1911 on the death of King Edward.

REVENUE BILLS UP IN SENATE

HARRISBURG, May 26.—The Williams bill imposing an 8 mills gross receipts tax on motor buses and taxicabs, is before the Senate for second reading today, having come from the Finance Committee. The Sterling bill, revising the method of calculating corporation tax deductions, which the House passed, was referred to the Finance Committee which will meet today to consider it. Both bills, Gov. Pinchot told the House last week, must pass in order to provide money to grant increases in appropriations to hospitals and charitable homes.

Appropriations for some of these institutions were increased in the Senate last night, and the bills will be up for final action today.

The hospital increases include: Homeopathic Medical and Surgical Hospital, Pittsburgh, $80,000 to $95,000; St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, $123,750 to $160,000, and Jamison Memorial Hospital, New Castle, $24,800 to $34,300.

Increases for homes include McKeesport Day Nursery, $2,000 to $3,000.

4 Dead, 20 Injured In Salvador Clash

MEXICO CITY, May 26.—(INS)—Four persons were killed and 20 hurt in clashes between National Guards and Communists in San Salvador today, according to messages received here. The Communists were demonstrating in sympathy with Augustin Marti, former chief of staff of Gen. Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader, who has been on a hunger strike for two weeks in protest against his imprisonment on charges of Communist activities.

Defeat of Polish Insurgents Marked

ANNABERG, German Upper Silesia, May 26.—(AP.)—Approximately 70,000 persons attended exercises held here commemorating the defeat of the Polish insurgents 10 years ago by German inhabitants.

This little town was the headquarters for the Polish attempt to seize the entire province of Silesia before the plebiscite.

House Again Passes Barber License Bill

HARRISBURG, May 26.—The House, shortly after convening today, passed by a vote of 163 to 15 the Musmanno bill, providing for the examination and licensure of barbers. The bill had been recalled from the Governor after passing both Houses.

POLICE SEEKING JOCELYN LEE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 26.—(INS)—On a complaint signed by Ivan St. Johns, play broker and writer, police today were looking for Miss Jocelyn Lee, red-haired film actress. St. Johns charges her with disturbing the peace by kicking out 12 panes of glass in his dining room.

Judge Georgia Bullock issued the warrant, setting $100 bail.

Luther Reed, film director, former husband of Jocelyn, who is staying at the St. Johns home, told the prosecutor the trouble started over the children. He had gone to Miss Lee's Sunday to take the two for the weekly outing provided by their recent divorce decree, and she insisted on going with them. This he refused to let her do. Later, he said, she appeared at St. Johns' where a number of guests were present. Reed said:

"She took off her slipper and began smashing things."

NURSE ACCUSES MAN OF THREAT

Accused of pointing a revolver and threatening his mother's nurse, William Hazlett, 25, of 118 West McIntyre avenue, North Side, today was fined $25, with the alternative of 30 days in jail, by Magistrate Ray E. Schneider in North Side Police Station.

Mrs. Edna Webster, of Amber street, the nurse, and Elmer Hazlett, father, appeared against the prisoner. According to Mrs. Webster, Hazlett twice pointed a revolver at her, once in her room early yesterday and again at breakfast. She said he was intoxicated.

Gun Regulation Bill Revived, Passed

HARRISBURG, May 26.—The Wilkins bill to regulate and license sale and ownership of pistols and sawed-off shotguns and rifles, defeated last week in the Senate, was revived and passed, 34 to 15.

House Approves Emergency Loans

HARRISBURG, May 26.—(AP.)—The House today passed the Mansfield Senate bill, authorizing the officials of Pittsburgh to make emergency loans to a maximum of $750,000.

PINCHOT PLANS TO OUST FOE JOB HOLDERS

Governor to Swing Ax In Revenge for Defeats; Scores of Victims Slated

HARRISBURG, May 26.—Preparations, in the making for months, are almost completed to give Harrisburg its big clean-out.

The Pinchot administration, packed from end to end with political henchmen of previous administrations, is expected next week to begin its shakeups and turn out hundreds of followers of the "anti-Pincho" politicians.

With the battles in the House and Senate about ended, the fireworks that attended the attacks of the forester on the state organization forces will simmer down.

Behind the scenes clipping off heads will begin. The end predicted is that Pinchot will attempt to, and perhaps accomplish, the destruction of the state organization led by Gen. Edward Martin.

The building of a political organization with some form and cohesion is thought to be not for himself, although he wants delegates to the National Convention. It is presumed that his friends in the Grundy and related political tribes will want to swarm over the state, and make permanent use of the power and structure.

Pinchot's personal interest, it is believed, is purely to destroy the state organization which has balked his efforts to keep his promises to the people.

Pinchot Road Plan Approved by Senate

HARRISBURG, May 26—The Senate passed the Pinchot road extension program to "take the farmers out of the mud." This includes addition to the state road system of 20,000 miles of township highways. To finance the road work the Senate passed bills allocating $30,500,000 for the next two years.

In this sum is $1,500,000 for Philadelphia and $2,000,000 for Pittsburgh and other cities for street maintenance; $18,000,000 to improve present state roads; $6,500,000 to begin work on the 20,000 miles and $2,500,000 for township reward.

Pitt, Falk Clinic Fund Bills Passed

HARRISBURG, May 26.—The Senate passed finally bills appropriating $1,650,000 to the University of Pittsburgh, $60,000 to the Falk clinic at the university, and $346,500 for maintenance of the indigent insane at Dixmont Hospital.

House Passes Labor Bills Pinchot Urged

HARRISBURG, May 26.—(AP.)—The House of Representatives last night passed two Mason labor bills, which Gov. Pinchott urged for passage in a statement yesterday.

'WHISTLE' STILL IN BOY'S LUNG

Another attempt was to be made today by physicians at the Passavant Hospital to remove the small metal end of lipstick container from the left lung of John Ginkel, 7, of Fryburg, Clarion County.

Physicians tried to remove the bit of metal Sunday evening after the boy was taken to the hospital, and yesterday made a second attempt.

His parents said he had used the lipstick container as a whistle, and that when he bumped his elbow while holding the container between his lips, he swallowed the small round end of the holder.

Hampton Township Cancels Bond Sale

The sale for $10,000 school bonds for the township of Hampton was canceled last night when it was learned that enough delinquent taxes were collected to carry school operations through for the fiscal year. Six bids were unopened.

Teller Confesses Bank Holdup Plot

PONTIAC, Mich., May 26.—(AP.)—Gerald F. Grandon, a teller of the Pontiac Commercial and Savings Bank, confessed early today, police said, that he was the instigator of a robbery of the bank last Friday morning in which $12,000 was taken.

COUZENS LEADS FIGHT AGAINST MELLON TAX

Progressive Bloc to Combat Aiding Rich; Proposes Surtax, Estate Increases

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The Progressive bloc, favoring higher taxes on the rich, today declared war on the plans of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to broaden the field of federal taxation to tax a greater number of citizens.

Progressive spokesmen, led by Senators Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, and Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, declared in favor of taxing the rich in order to meet the government's expected deficit of $2,000,000,000 next year. They advocated higher estate taxes, higher surtaxes on incomes above $100,000 a year, and a federal gift tax against the rich. This was in sharp contrast to Mellon's informal suggestion for a reduction in exemptions and imposition of a gasoline tax.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, said the lowering of the exemptions and the taxing of the smaller incomes is on the same principle as cutting wages.

Anti-Drys to Urge Taxable Beer

WASHINGTON, May 26—(INS.)—The serious condition in which the Treasury finds itself—with roughly a half-billion dollar deficit at hand and a still greater one probable for next year—is being watched by no political group more closely than by the anti-prohibitionists.

They believe the situation is playing directly into their hands, and at the proper time they are planning to capitalize it to the utmost by contending that the least onerous and least painful tax would be an excise tax on beers, wines and spirits. They are going to point out that during the years just preceding the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment the excise taxes on liquors poured into the Federal Treasury each year more than half a billion dollars, notwithstanding that two-thirds of the country was then dry.

FAGAN TO CALL MINE STRIKE

Four thousand men employed in mines operated by the Pursglove Coal Mining Company and Paisley interests in the Pittsburgh district will be called out on strike within the next few days, according to Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America.

The Pursglove Coal Mining Company and the Paisley interests also operate mines in West Virginia. Fagan made his announcement today on his return from the northern part of that state, where employes of 20 mines have quit, he reported.

Lower wage scales are paid by these interests, Fagan said, than by any others in the Pittsburgh district.

Fisherman Catches 239-Pound Sturgeon

PIKE CREEK, Ont., May 26.—(AP.)—Ulric Suzor, a fisherman, came home here today with a whopper of a fish story, and, just to back it up, he brought the fish along—a 239-pound sturgeon, believed to be the largest ever caught in Lake St. Clair.

Missing Broker Sought in Swindle

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—(AP.)—Richard Coombs, former Australian army officer and missing investment broker, was sought today on a warrant accusing him of swindling Mrs. Catherine Moyle, of $1,750 and for questioning about losses of other investors, which police placed at $100,000.

Foreign Audiences Like U. S. Film Stars

LOS ANGELES, May 26.—(AP.)—N. D. Golden, of the motion picture division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, finds that American stars remain in favor with foreign audiences despite the competition of native substitutes in foreign version talkies.

Citizenship Oath Fight Carried to Congress

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The battle over naturalization of conscientious objectors today stood transferred from the Supreme Court to Congress as a result of the high court's five to four decision that the present naturalization oath requires aliens to agree to fight in time of war to be naturalized.

Spokesmen for the Friends Church, of which President Hoover is a member, and many bishops of the Episcopal Church, who filed briefs in the two cases, made it plain the fight would be carried to Congress if the court decided against their intentions.

Solicitor General Thacher, in his brief, upholding the refusal of district courts to naturalize Prof. Douglas Clyde Macintosh, of Yale University, and Marie Averill Bland, New York nurse, said their quarrel was with Congress and not the courts.

Since Congress has always exempted people pleading religious or conscientious objections to war from active military service, the new drive will be to have Congress change the oath of naturalization to exempt specifically this class.

NEW YORK, May 26.—(Universal.)—Thousands of members of the Protestant Episcopal Church may be subject to denaturalization as a result of the Supreme Court decision denying citizenship to Douglas C. Macintosh and Marie A. Bland, Miss Bland's attorney, Emily Marx, declared last night.

SCHOOL VICE RAIDS RIDICULED, 'CLEANUP' CALLED FARCE

POLICE EFFORT WEAK, SAYS TELLER

Settlement Official Finds Only Half-Hearted Drive Under Way; Fines Light

As efforts of police to curb vice in the vicinity of Hill district schools were being described as a "farce" by Sidney Teller, of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, two alleged operators of an East End speakeasy, said to number school children as its patrons, were let off with light fines by Magistrate Charles Papale.

Teller declared that the "clean up" lacked sincerity.

RAID SHOE SHOP

The East End raid, made upon a shoe repair shop owned by James Schember, 40, of 7004 Frankstown avenue, was made by Lieut. William Fullerton on orders issued by Inspector Bernard Kirley. Schember was fined $50 with the option of 60 days in the Allegheny County workhouse, and Paul Stewart, 24, of 7425 Finance street, who police say, operated a speakeasy in connection with the repair shop, was sentenced to pay $100 or serve 60 days in the workhouse.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said today that he would investigate the practice of magistrates fining liquor law offenders instead of holding them for court.

Some time ago Park asked that in these cases police magistrates hold for court instead of imposing fines.

Promises of Director James M. Clark, police superintendent Peter P. Walsh and Inspector Albert Beebe, of the Police Department, that the districts would be cleaned out and violators of the law vigorously prosecuted have been pushed only half-heartedly, Teller declared.

CLARK REPLIES

When informed of Teller's comments Director Clark said:

"Tell Teller to tell that to the magistrate, not to me. I have nothing to do with the magistrates."

Asked why the men were fined instead of being held for court, Clark said:

"It is almost impossible to get a conviction in court on a charge of violating the Snyder act. The police inspector who must be the prosecutor if the case is held for court is liable for the costs if there is no conviction. This fact probably influences inspectors to ask magistrates to fine offenders instead of holding them for court.

"My department cannot issue orders to the magistrates. I agree that a $100 fine is nothing to a bootlegger. He looks at it as a license fee. The city charter should be amended to give police magistrate power to sentence such offenders to jail."

BAN ON DOG'S FLAG ASKED

A formal complaint will be made to Congressman Clyde Kelly next week by the Sons of Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars of Verona, and the American Legion of Oakmont, against the decoration with an American flag of the grave of a dog which had seen service in the World War. An act of Congress will be asked, the veterans said, forbidding placing of a dog on the same level as a human being.

The controversy followed a visit by members of the three organizations and members of the Verona Volunteer Fire Department to the Werntz Memorial Hospital for Dogs and Cats, Sandy Creek road, Penn Township, last week, to protest the flag-draped grave of the World War dog killed in Oakmont by a United States mail truck.

Mrs. M. M. Werntz, owner of the pet hospital, said that several persons had been making a practice of placing a flag on the graves of their pets on Memorial Day.

Body Provides Clue To Missing Raider

RATON, N. M., May 26.—(AP.)—Officers sought today to identify the body of a man found yesterday on Raton Pass, 30 miles from the place at which a blood-stained motor car gave one clue to the disappearance of Ray Sutton, prohibition agent, nearly a year ago.

Sheriff's deputies declined to say whether they believed the body, buried in a shallow ditch, to be that of Sutton. The agent disappeared from Raton August 28.

Birth Control Talk Held War 'Hangover'

SEATTLE, Wash., May 26.—(AP.)—Dr. Frederick H. Knubel, of New York, president of the United Lutheran Churches of America, told the Pacific Synod's annual convention here last night that controversy over birth control was but another "hangover from the world war," occurring at a period "notorious for looseness in morality."

Charge Mine Guards With Digging Gold

MEXICO CITY, May 26.—(AP.)—Charges that troops detailed to guard the recently discovered gold field at El Tambor in the state of Sinaloa were themselves digging gold and driving out the prospectors were made today by representatives of a group claiming to be the discoverers of the field.

PRESBYTERIANS GATHER FOR ASSEMBLY

Vanguard of 2,000 Church Leaders Are Arriving For Pre-Conventoin Meetings

Pittsburgh, recognized center of Presbyterianism in the United States, today was receiving the vanguard of the 2,000 church leaders, assembling here for the one hundred and forty-third annual general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

They came to participate in the numerous pre-assembly conferences and meetings which were to start today with the ninth annual meeting of the Presbyterian City Church Extension Council in the Keystone Athletic Club.

LEADERS PARTICIPATE

Several nationally prominent Presbyterian leaders were to take part in a conference on evangelism which is to open in the First Presbyterian Church late today. Speakers include the Rev. John Stuart Conning, of Baltimore; the Rev. Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan, of Los Angeles; the Rev. Dr. Asa J. Ferry, of Chicago; the Rev. Dr. James Ramsey Swain, of Philadelphia; the Rev. Dr. James E. Congdon, Jr., of El Paso, Tex., and the Rev. Dr. Edwin F. Rippey, of Minneapolis. The meetings will continue until Wednesday noon. A dinner meeting on theological seminaries and colleges will be held this evening in the University Club.

MEETINGS CONTINUE

Continuation of these meetings is scheduled for tomorrow, the day's program ending with the finals in the Stewardship oratorical contest at a popular meeting in Syria Mosque. Five district winners: Helen Rarie, of Lewiston, Pa.; Dorothy L. Jones, Columbus; Herbert Foley, Enid, Okla.; Lowell Ewing, Salt Lake City, and Elmer Kanz, Waitsburg, Washington state, will take part.

The sessions of the general assembly will be opened Thursday morning by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, retiring moderator. He will observe the sacrament of holy communion and will retire in favor of the new moderator, who will probably be the Rev. Dr. Lewis Mudge, of Philadelphia, stated clerk of the assembly. A reception for the new moderator will be a feature of the afternoon program.

WELCOMES 2ND SET OF TWINS

Although Mrs. Joseph Dusch, 36, did not marry until she was 24 years old, she is the mother of 10 children. She returned to her home, 2825 Jane street, from Magee Hospital this week with her second set of twins in less than 14 months.

Besides her two sets of twins, Bobby and Melvin, 1 year old, and the newly born boy and girl, she has six other children, Joseph, 11; Paul, 10; Betty, 9; Raymond, 8; Ruth 6, and Madeline, 4. She said:

"When I have quadruplets next year, then you'll have something to talk about. Ten children—why, that's not so much."

The father of these 10 children is employed at the Jones & Laughlin mills.

10-Year Sunday Ban On Movies Lifted

PELHAM, N. Y., May 26.—(AP.)—The 10-year ban on Sunday motion pictures in Pelham was lifted last night, when Mayor McBride and his council rescinded an ordinance. The most steadfast opponent to Sabbath shows, Charles Bolte, was ill at home when council met.

Irate Motorist Tries to Burn Stalled Auto

LOS ANGELES, May 26.—(AP.)—Lynn Hilliker, 26, of Owensmouth, Cal., attempted to start his automobile.

He wore out the battery and unsuccessfully tried the hand crank.

Then he hurled the crank through the windshield, punched two holes in the top, and start a fire of gasoline-soaked rags under the motor.

Investigators booked him at City Hall on suspicion of arson.

PLANES RENEW N. Y. 'DEFENSE'

NEW YORK, May 26.—(INS.)—Streaking in from the north across the sunlit skyline of New York and over the spires of the city's imposing skyscrapers, Uncle Sam's air armada of 600 combat planes thrilled millions of spectators here again this afternoon for the second time within three days.

The mighty air fleet, having successfully completed its tactics in New England, has returned to New York to continue its maneuvers against a phantom enemy—the "coalition of foreign powers"—that was driven to cover in the New York harbor area last Saturday evening.

SPAIN RECEIVES POPE'S NOTE

MADRID, May 26.—(AP.)—The protest of Pope Pius XI against the recent anti-Catholic riots in Spain was being studied today by the provisional government in an effort to frame a suitable reply.

Minister of Interior Miguel Maura announced that the note had been received, but declined to reveal its contents. He said:

"We are not able to do that yet. It would be a breach of etiquet. I assure you the note was very cordial. It seems to be more of a prayer to God for everybody's pardon than an actual protest."

The communication, divided into three parts, it was learned protested the attacks on church property.

Industries Expand In Midwest Section

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP.)—New industries established during 1930 in the territories served by the Middlewest Utilities System will use more than a million dollars' worth of power annually, John B. Reynolds, vice president in charge of industrial development, said today. He added that the establishment or expansion of industries during 1930 in the communities served resulted in the employment of 18,000 additional persons, with an estimated payroll increase of $14,000,000 a year.

Office Created To Arrange U. S. Fetes

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP.)—The social duties of the State Department have become so arduous that it has created an office to handle them.

Its duties will consist of working out proper seating arrangements for White House guests, arranging ceremoniuos functions and planning the entertainment of visiting officials.

The title of its head will be, unofficially, "Marshal of the White House."

2 WITH POPE'S MAIL ATTACKED

VATICAN CITY, May 26.—(AP.)—A purported attack by Fascist youths on the drivers of a Vatican City mail van carrying personal mail of Pope Pius XI puzzled Vatican authorities today.

The drivers reported that while they were crossing the square in front of Palazzo Venezia, Benito Mussolini's headquarters, Sunday morning, a young Blackshirt leaped on their truck and struck one of them with a stick. Simultaneously a Fascist militia officer pummeled the other.

The Vatican van had been caught in a traffic jam and was waiting for a procession of automobiles holding Fascist celebrants to proceed. The latter parade through Rome every Sunday waving flags and singing the party hymn.

One of the drivers sustained injuries to an arm which have incapacitated him for several days. The other received only minor hurts.

WILSON ADMITS DRY LAW FACES MODIFICATION

Moral Depression Defeating Amendment, Methodist Leader Tells Interviewers

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Modification of the Eighteenth Amendment is inevitable—and within a few years—unless the American people pull themselves out of the depths of the moral depression through which this nation is now passing, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, predicted today in an interview published in the Washington Times.

The moral standards of the age are fast failing, Dr. Wilson believes, and a great national revival of religion is need to put the nation back on its moral feet. He asserted:

"We cannot go on at the rate we are going. We must create an interest in observance of the law, or the law will fail.

"We are passing through a serious period, a period of depression that is not only in the world of business but in the moral code as well.

"The church is losing its authority. The Methodist Church, which for generations has been growing, going ahead and taking its place in the world, is losing ground.

"The colleges are failing in giving the moral background they gave before. Boys and girls are sent away to get an education in church schools. They return home skeptical.

"There is no more the self sacrifice of devotion on the part of the wealthy. When we were working on the cause of prohibition, people of wealth were generous. They gave large donations to the cause. Now they give little or nothing."

PASTOR DIES IN M'KEESPORT

The Rev. August E. Hemann, 65, pastor of Trinity Evangelical German Lutheran Church of McKeesport, was found dead in bed at his home, 928 Evans avenue, McKeesport, when his son, Adelbert, went to his room to call him.

Heart disease was the cause. He had been ill for two years but three months ago he was regarded as recovered.

For 17 years, the Rev. Hemann was pastor of the church. His wife died last October.

Surviving are two sons, Adelbert and Lorenz, and three daughters, Flora, Edith and Cecelia.

Fall Appeal Hearing Set for Monday

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court, in a special order, has made it possible to dispose of the appeal of Ex-Secretary Albert Fall, convicted of bribery, next Monday instead of carrying the case over the summer.

The court announced that all appeals in criminal cases filed before Friday of this week will be considered and decision may be announced on June 1, if the government waives its right to file a reply brief.

'Angel of Broadway' Made California Welfare Head

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rheba Crawford Splivalvo, who as a Salvation Army girl in New York in 1922 was known as the "Angel of Broadway," has been appointed state director of social welfare.

Gov. James Rolph, Jr., announced the appointment yesterday, expressing a desire that "our social problems shall be approached with tolerance and with sympathetic tenderness for human needs and a minimum of interference with private rights."

Mrs. Splivalo is the wife of Ray Splivalvo, wealthy San Francisco clubman and poloist. They married February 25, 1930, soon after her first husband, J. Harold Sommers, obtained a divorce in St Petersburg, Fla., on charges that his wife was more devoted to evangelistic work than to him.

The appointee resigned a captaincy in the Salvation Army of New York following her arrest on a charge of blocking traffic in Times Square in October, 1922.

Coolidge Urges Public Officials Protect Banks

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 26.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

The impressive figures published at the convention of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks again demonstrate the far-reaching importance and power of these institutions. They have assets approaching $11,000,000,000 which are owned by 13,000,000 depositors.

Mr. Coolidge

If this sum stood alone it would be worthy of comment but to it must be added $36,000,000,000 more held by the life insurance companies and the savings department of commercial banks. This is the largest accumulation of money savings ever assembled by any people.

These funds have developed the country by financing government loans, public utilities, industry, transportation, agriculture and home building.

The responsibility of the managers of such vast resources is very heavy. The attitude of the government toward them and their investments is most important. By taxation, unwise regulation, or hostile legislation, the properties in which these savings of the people are invested can be impaired or destroyed. If these great accumulations are to be conserved for the benefit of their scores of millions of owners they must have the constantly sympathetic consideration of the government. Public officials can confer no greater benefit on the people than by protecting the property of these institutions.

HOOVER OPENS DRIVE MAY 30

WASHINGTON, May 25. (Universal) — President Hoover will open his campaign for renomination and reelection in a Memorial Day address to be delivered at Valley Forge, Pa., May 30, it has been revealed at the White House.

The address will mark the opening of a speaking campaign that is to carry him into several states.

The President also will appear before the Union League Club, Philadelphia, stronghold of the Republican party, the night before his Valley Forge address, where he is to be presented an oil painting of himself and attend a banquet in his honor.

In his Memorial Day address he will review his past policies in international relations and outline his plans for the future, particularly on the subject of armaments. The President, it is understood, will offer to meet any nation in the reduction of armaments, but will decline to have this country take the lead, or weaken national defenses.

COLUMBUS, O., May 26. (AP)—James Romeo, 30, who shot and killed Charles N. Riblet, 68, former chief of police at Canton, in a $60,000 robbery there, died last night in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary.

Riblet, messenger for a Canton bank, shot and killed Charles Kish, one of the robbers, as he fell mortally wounded. The loot later was recovered in Romeo's room.

Paint Theater Where Lincoln Was Shot

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)—The brick front of the old Ford Theater, where Lincoln was shot, is getting a new coat of red paint. The playhouse soon will become a Lincoln museum.

TRIAL SPEEDED IN PRISON FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., May 26. (AP)—The purported confessions of Clinton Grate and Hugh Gibson, Ohio Penitentiary convicts that they started the prison blaze April 21, 1930, in which 320 convicts perished, were introduced in evidence by the state yesterday in Grate's trial on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the fire.

Grate was quoted as saying they started the fire in an attempt to destroy the new cell blocks being built by prison labor, but denied that their intention was to escape.

Prosecutor Don J. Hoskins indicated that the state would rest its case after hearing the testimony of two newspapermen who had interviewed the convicts.

A defense move to show official neglience in the deaths of the 320 convicts was ruled out by Judge Cecil J. Randall.

Geneva Senior Wins Dry Prize

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 26.—(AP)—John O. Edgar, Greeley, Col., a senior in Geneva College, has been awarded $50, the first prize in the eastern interstate area contest under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association. The second prize, $20, was awarded to Miss Leslie Eugenia Greenlee, of South Brownsville, Pa., West Virginia University student.

SLAYING LAID TO RACKETEERS

LOS ANGELES, May 26.—(AP)—The killing of Charles Crawford, political boss, and Herbert Spencer, magazine editor, for which David H. Clark, former deputy district attorney, is held, was termed a "racketeer murder" by District Attorney Buron Fitts today. Fitts said:

"Racketeers met racketeers and there was murder."

The district attorney said he had found evidence that Clark was agent for a band of racketeers and gamblers, and that Spencer and Crawford were trying to get into this ring when they were slain here last Wednesday.

Ice Cream frozen this new way has richer, creamier texture

No lumps or coarse ice crystals mar the smoothness of Meadow Gold Ice Cream

Buy it in the wrapped, sealed "carry-home" package

IT'S THE ice cream sensation of the day . . . this new way of freezing that brings velvety smoothness, a richer, creamier texture to Meadow Gold Ice Cream. Not a single lump or ice crystal mars its delicious flavor.

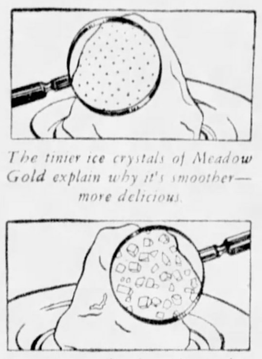
Made of good things

Meadow Gold's "smooth-freeze" method brings out to the full the rich dairy products of which this finer ice cream is made. Sweet farm cream . . . pure milk . . . vanilla and chocolate flavors made right from the beans . . . fresh fruits in season — real fruits always. There's never a substitute used in making Meadow Gold.

Buy this smoother, more delicious ice cream in the Meadow Gold wrapped, sealed, "carry-home" package. Let the children have all they want of Meadow Gold Ice Cream. It's good for them.

Ask your dealer

The dealers who offer you Meadow Gold have been selected because they give this ice cream the same scrupulous care as it receives in the making. Ask for it at your soda fountain.



The finer ice crystals of Meadow Gold explain why it's smoother—more delicious.

Ice cream made the old way has far coarser crystals, as these pictures show.

5 OCEAN HOPS ARRANGED

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y. May 26.—(INS.)—This historic starting point of trans-Atlantic flights hummed today as four planes were tuned for ocean hops and a fifth was en route here.

Wiley Post and Harold Hatty, planning to circle the globe in 10 days, announced they would start for Harbor Grace next week. Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon expect to hop shortly. A nearby hangar houses the ship of Capt. George Endres and Alexander Magyar, who intend to fly to Budapest.

The plane of Holgar Hoiriis and Otto Hillig, who are preparing for a flight to Copenhagen, was expected at the field the latter part of this week. Ruth Nichols, New York girl flier, may beat her men competitors. She is getting set to fly to Harbor Grace, where she will take off on her solo hop over the Atlantic.

BROTHERS FACE KILLING CHARGE

DETROIT, May 26.—(AP.)—Two brothers are battling today over which one killed Simon A. Prenzyna, real estate dealer and contractor, in a vacant building adjoining his office on May 12.

Police said Albert Roza told them his brother, Anthony, had admitted to him that he and two other men killed Prenzyna, then took his money, his automobile and the furnishings from his office.

Anthony Roza, police said, had not made a formal confession, but had admitted he and Albert collaborated in the slaying. Anthony Roza was related to Prenzyna by marriage.

Police said Anthony Roza's fingerprints were found on a porcelain water tank cover which apparently had been used to beat the real estate dealer to death.

SEEK RICH MAN IN GORDON CASE

NEW YORK, May 26.—(INS.)—Arrest of a "higher up" was awaited today in the Vivian Gordon murder mystery.

While police refused to confirm reports, it was strongly hinted that they hoped to arrest a wealthy man whom Miss Gordon was accused of blackmailing. Police, it was said, hoped to be able to prove that the man of wealth, angered at his "shakedown," had hired Samuel Greenberg and Harry Stein to kill her.

Greenberg and Stein, accused of choking the woman to death on February 25 and throwing her body into a park, were indicted yesterday for the crime, after Harry Schlitten, taxicab driver, related how she was strangled to death in an automobile he was driving.

Ex-Court Clerk Held in Shortage

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., May 26.—(AP.)—Edward G. Strickler, former clerk of the Franklin County courts, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with failure to pay over to the County Commissioners $500 deposited as cash bail in a case. In default of $2,500 bail Strickler was committed to jail. L. H. Leiter, chairman of the commissioners, intimated that other charges would be placed against Strickler.

KERR BOND SALE PLANS SCANNED

City Controller Kerr's request for Council to advertise the sale of bonds, totaling $2,355,000 at a low interest rate of 3¼ per cent, was to be discussed by a committee today.

Kerr took advantage of the "easy money market" to secure the low interest rate, he said. The bonds are for a 30-year issue. The ordinary interest rate on such bonds is 4 per cent.

The bonds are to settle property damage claims on various city improvement projects.

At the same time Kerr asked permission to cancel a bond issue of $216,000, series of 1910, in order to increase the city's credit. The bonds were voted by the people in 1910, but an opinion by the City Law Department recently held they could not now be used.

'DOPE' CHEATER PAROLED

Mrs. Betty K. Gannos, 27, of East Diamond street, was placed on probation for one year by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, when she pleaded guilty of forging prescriptions for narcotics. Mrs. Gannos and her husband, Michael Gannos, 28, were arrested April 21 at a North Side drug store, when they presented a prescription for morphine.

Later Dr. Isaac S. Diller was arrested and subsequently indicted on a charge of having dispensed narcotics to Gannos and his wife unlawfully.

PARKING BANS ON 2 STREETS

Bans on parking in two streets at peak traffic hours were announced today by Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

The rules forbade parking from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., on the west side, and from 4:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., on the east side of Chateau street, between Reedsdale street and Blevins street; and from 7:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., on the west side of Twelfth street, and the west side of Thirteenth street, between Liberty avenue and Pike street.

The plan has been given a 60-day trial, Clark said.

RAIL WORKERS WIN IN JAPAN

TOKIO, May 26.—(AP.)—Railway workers, threatening a strike because of a government order for reduction of wages of every employe receiving more than 85 yen (about $42.50) a month, won an important point today by an agreement for continuation of the workers' retirement allowances and semi-annual special bonuses.

The ministry of railways and the railroad bureau chiefs also agreed that the present personnel of 210,000 of the government railways will not be reduced. The government previously had threatened to reduce the personnel should the workers object too strenuously to the salary cuts, which would affect 9,000 railway officials.

The strike would have affected the entire railway personnel, and threatened to spread to all classes of Japanese workers.

Move to Extradite Slaying Suspect

TRENTON, N. J., May 26.—(AP.)—Gov. Larson has signed a requisition for the extradition from Pennsylvania of Anthony Alessia, charged with slaying Charles E. Ullrich, a state trooper, in Mountain View in 1926. Alessia was captured Saturday in Berwick, Pa., by Detective Sergt. Andrew Zapolsky, after a five-year search by police of the United States, Canada and Italy.

Boy Shot in School, Inspecting Revolver

DAISY DE VOE'S PATH CROSSES THAT OF CLARA BOW

'It' Girl Meets Romance In Shadow of Alamo; Engaged Again

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service

(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc. Reproduction in part or in whole prohibited.)

CHAPTER VIII.

Clara has never forgotten to be grateful to directors who have helped her along her pathway to screen fame. Ernst Lubitsch at Warners' was making a picture called "Kiss Me Again," a smart, sophisticated comedy drama of life in Vienna. Clara played the part of the girl who leads the husband astray. Her work was so fine, so sincere, so spontaneous, that Lubitsch, in his interview to the newspapers, said:

"Miss Bow has real talent. She is sympathetic, she is sincere, and she understands the type of girl who appeals to our 25,000,000 working girls. To me, she typifies the young girl whom many American women try to imitate."

To be selected as the ideal young American type by Ernst Lubitsch meant a great deal to the little ex-Brooklyn girl. B. P. Schulberg realized what he had in Clara but had not begun to.

In Cantor Film

She returned to Paramount and was put into the lead opposite Eddie Cantor in "Kid Boots." Here again she was to meet Frank Tuttle who had directed her in her second motion picture.

"It was hard for me to realize that she was no longer a child," he said. "She gave out the impression that she had known an adult's share of tragedy. I have always felt that from her bitter childhood a great actress was born.

"If you are inclined to disagree," Frank Tuttle said, "permit me to point out that Charles Chaplin's great reputation as an artist is founded, not so much on his flair of comedy, as on his ability to bring convincing pathos to his characterizations. Chaplin, with his sad childhood, to me, is a tragic figure, and so is Clara Bow. Clara Bow is a victim of her own talent. The public, having known her as a joy-loving, excitement-seeking youngster, will have her as nothing else. The world she entertains refuses to let her grow up.

Sensitive Girl

"Clara," says Frank Tuttle, "is peculiarly sensitive. When she is making a picture she cannot eat, she cannot sleep. Her hands are cold. She is nervous. It is a Freudian complex, because Clara, among all of my players, is the only one who did not have a double in 'Kid Boots.' We didn't even realize until she was called upon to jump off a cliff into a net that we had no double for her. She took the jump without a whimper. Eddie Cantor rushed over to her and said, 'Clara, you are a brave girl.' Clara looked at him in surprise. 'I only did my job,' she replied."

Frank Tuttle's results with Clara were so satisfactory that he was given four of her most important starring vehicles to direct. They were "True to the Navy," "Her Wedding Night," "Love Among the Millionaires" and "No Limit." The first three were made during the time that Clara was called America's most popular flapper.

Clara chafed at the bit a little but longing to do something really serious. But the youth of the country just wouldn't have her in anything but these young, dancing, pleasure-loving girl roles.

Happiest Year

"Kid Boots" was made in 1925 before Clara had reached stardom. In looking back over the years Clara looks upon 1925 as one of her happiest years, just as 1926 was the most tragic year of her life. In 1926 she broke her engagement to Gilbert Roland. For the first time scandal touched her, she was put in headlines when Robert Savage tried to kill himself because of her. It was this year that Robert Bow married Idella Mowles, who was to bring trouble not only to Clara's father but to her.

Ben Schulberg, who has always been her great friend, sent her to San Antonio in 1926 to play the feminine lead in "Wings." You may call it fate, a coincidence, or whatever you want, but in San Antonio where Clara worked for some months there were two people who were to figure later in her life, two people who, at that time, she did not even know existed.

One of them was Daisy De Voe, a hair dresser, who had been sent by Paramount to San Antonio. Two pictures were then being made by this company. One of them, "Wings," and the other, "The Rough Riders." Miss De Voe was on "The Rough Riders" set dressing the hair of the players.

Daisy on Set

Clara did not even know her, although Daisy—later to be known as Daisy De Voe—must have known Clara, for I've heard it said that, sensing Clara's sweetness of nature, she set out almost from the start to win her confidence.

The other person who was at a future date to figure in Clara's life was Gary Cooper. He played just a small part in "Wings" and was then known only slightly to the motion picture public. Gauche, shy and unused to women, Gary was filled with admiration for the dark-eyed, red-haired girl who wore such beautiful summer clothes.

People who were down at San Antonio on the picture said that every time Gary saw Clara he would blush. He didn't so much as speak to her, for Gary was not given to much conversation. Even today, he talks very little.

Clara's smiles were all for Victor Fleming, the director, to whom she was engaged. The newspapers had carried the story of their coming marriage and Clara was living up to her engagement by dining and dancing with Fleming, talking with him, smiling on him and giving the newspapers all over the country plenty of good romance copy.

Press Agent Story

I don't like to tell tales out of school, but her engagement to Victor Fleming was largely the result of a press agent story. Clara arrived in San Antonio early in the morning, the day before she had admitted her engagement to Fleming. It was a bright idea of a member of the "Wings" company to get world-wide publicity on the air picture.

"We will announce," he said, "the engagement of Clara Bow to Victor Fleming, the director of 'The Rough Riders.'"

Victor Fleming was personal photographer to Woodrow Wilson during the war. He is conservative, a scholar, and not one who would willingly be a part to such a frameup. Yet, when the flame-haired Clara Bow, beautifully gowned in the latest style, with dark eyes dancing, called at "The Rough Riders" set and said:

"Victor—the newspapers have engaged you and me—what can we do?" he replied, "All right—we are engaged until you break our engagement."

Out of the fraudulent engagement, grew a fine friendship. Victor Fleming interested Clara in literature. He knew science. He knew adventure. He knew the poets, and Clara, quick to learn, impressionable and young, was fascinated with him.

When the newspapers flashed the story of her engagement to Victor Fleming, Gilbert Roland, left behind in Hollywood, telegraphed his fiancee frantically, begging for an explanation. Clara, who could never bear to have anyone unhappy, hastened to assure Gilbert that she still loved him and that her engagement to Victor Fleming was only the result of a press agent's dream.

Tomorrow Miss Parsons tells of the first hint of scandal which involved Clara Bow—and her romantic meeting with Gary Cooper, dashing hero of the films.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, May 26.

IT MUST be great to be blessed with a sense of humor. I sometimes wish I had such a thing. I'd like to be one of those people who can grin in spite of everything. Like those popular song writers, you know, who tell us that "when stocks are down to nothing, when your wife elopes with the chauffeur, when you trip and crack your skull, when your home is wiped out in a riot, when there's nothing left to live for—then Smile, Dang You, Smile!"

Yes, sir. That's the way I'd like to be. And I never wished it any more than a few afternoons ago when I was sitting in my office writing a column for the following day. I was just about to kill the hero and break the heroine's left leg when an office boy suddenly popped up from nowhere.

"Hey, Mr. Hellinger," he cried excitedly, "a truck just crashed into your car in front of the building. It's a shame, there's a big dent in your left fender. Your car's better come right down."

Now it just so happened that I couldn't leave my office at the moment. I had to send someone down that was serious. But whom? was I to send? Whom could I trust to give me a complete report? Whom—

"Want me to go, boss?" I heard a voice croak.

When I saw who was talking I almost fainted from the shock. It was Mr. James Burbridge, my secretary. How he ever happened to be in his office at that moment is one of those great coincidences that can occur only in real life. Mr. Burbridge has been with me almost four years, and this was the first time he had ever been around when I needed him.

After they had thrown a few glasses of water on me and I had partially recovered from the shock I gasped out my instructions.

"I knew you'd come through some day, Jimmy," I said. "Now listen. You heard what that kid said. Hop right downstairs and find out what it's all about. If you can find the driver of the truck that smacked my car, bring him up here. Get busy."

Out went my secretary. Although I had been kidding about it, I was really worried about my car. Times being what they are and with the wife finding bargain after bargain in the wholesale houses, the Hellinger bankroll is just about ready to be buried in Potter's Field. There are several million things in this world that I don't need at the moment—and a new car just about heads the list.

Back came Jimmy.

"It's true," he announced gloomily. "Your car's a terrible mess. The front is pretty well gone. One wheel is lying on the sidewalk and the other might just as well be there, too."

"That's good news," I gulped. "Did you find the truckdriver who hit it?"

My assistant nodded.

"Yeah," he replied, "he's outside. Do you want to see him?"

"Certainly I want to see him," I retorted irritably. "Bring him in here."

So, a few seconds later, in marched the truckdriver. He was a young chap with blonde, wavy hair. If I expected to find him on the verge of tears I was very much mistaken. He was quite calm and placid.

"Well," I growled, "what have you to say for yourself? How did it happen?"

Much to my amazement the driver suddenly broke into a loud laugh.

"Ha, ha," he chirped. "My brakes didn't work. When I heard it was your car I smacked into I thought I'd die laughin'. Ha, ha."

It must be great to be blessed with a sense of humor . . .

* * *

OVER at the Ziegfeld office the other day, reports Oscar Bradley, an aspiring song writer marched in with a song for the Follies called "Use Powder, Paint and Lipstick." He played it over for the producer, but Flo shook his head.

"Can't use such a number," he asserted. "All my life I've been preaching against powder, paint and lipstick. How can I turn around now and give them something just the opposite? That's out."

The song writer obviously dejected, left the office. Four hours later he was back again.

"I've changed the number around," he announced excitedly. "It was hard work, but it's all fixed."

So the composer sat down and played his new number. The title was "Don't Use Powder, Paint and Lipstick!"

THERE ARE two young ladies in Pawtucket, R. I., insists Fred E. Allen, who have been carrying on a most successful enterprise for the last year. They stumbled on it by accident, but the manner in which they have worked it up is little less than a science.

Pawtucket is only a few miles from the Massachusetts state line. The young ladies, both rather pretty and appealing, stand just outside of Pawtucket and await the coming of an automobile that harbors a lone man. As a usual thing they haven't long to wait.

With fetching smiles and extensive motions they ask a ride to a town in Massachusetts. Unless the gentleman driver is over 90 he asks them to hop in. And off they go, with the three of them snuggled into the front seat.

Unless the driver happens to be a traveling salesman the conversation is always along the same lines.

"My name is Mabel," says one girlie, "and this is my friend Betty. We're so happy you came along when you did. We hope we're not taking you out of your way."

The driver is generally gallant.

"Not at all, honey," he replies. "I'm going that way anyhow. It's a pleasure to have you with me. Gets pretty lonesome driving alone, you know."

When they near the spot they have in mind, Mabel suddenly asks for money. And the sum she requests is estimated by the appearance of the man and the type of car he is driving.

"Money?" he repeats with a smile. "Quit your kidding."

"If you think we're kidding," she murmurs icily, "you have another think coming. We're just three blocks from a police station. You drove us across the state line—and we'll insist you did it by force."

"Betty is my witness," she goes on. "Will we start to scream—or will you pay?"

In over a year at the game the man has never failed to pay. The racketettes have been collecting fives, tens, twenties and fifties without the slightest difficulty. And what makes the work so interesting is that the girls work exactly the same game going back into Rhode Island!

Nice?

Do Not Submit the Answers Until the End of the Contest

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES:

(1) Under the title, "Know Your Own City," the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph will publish a series of cartoons to run consecutively for 40 days, starting Sunday, May 17. All of these cartoons will represent a public thoroughfare in the territory commonly included in Pittsburgh, and prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the neatest and most nearly correct sets of pictures and answers.

(2) A total of $1,000 in cash prizes will be awarded, divided as indicated in another part of this announcement.

(3) This offer is open to all except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families. You pay nothing. Files of the Sun-Telegraph are available at the Public Library or at the office of the Sun-Telegraph, and you may make tracings of the cartoons if you desire.

(4) Answers in the contest are not to be submitted until the entire set of 40 has been printed. After the last (No. 40) cartoon has appeared, entrants will be allowed 15 days to submit their sets of answers. They are to be addressed to the "Know Your Own City" Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(5) All answers submitted become the property of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and none will be returned. The judges will be appointed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tieing contestant.

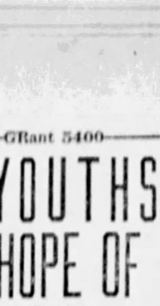
U. S. YOUTHS HELD HOPE OF MISSIONS

Delegates Discuss Future At Bi-Ennial Conference Held in Bellefield Church

The room for missionary endeavor in the world of tomorrow is the question being discussed in today's sessions of the biennial meeting of women's missionary organizations in the Bellefield Presbyterian Church.

The future is bound up in youth, missionaries agreed. Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, Jr., Pittsburgh member of the Board of Foreign Missions, presided this morning. Consideration was given to the total program of youth and special phases of young people's work by speakers.



Dr. Speer

Miss Moore

The Rev. Frank D. Getty, Board of Christian Education; Miss Mary E. Moore, Board of Foreign Missions, and the Rev. Frederick R. Thorne, Board of National Missions, were in charge of discussion.

"Women Living and Heralding the Message" was the subject of the afternoon's session presided over by Mrs. Fred S. Bennett, Englewood, N. J. Pittsburgh has the largest Presbyterial organization in the denomination.

This evening Mrs. Henry C. Swearingen, Board of National Missions, will preside over a session entitled "The Message for the Future," in the Third Presbyterian Church, Fifth and South Negley avenues. The Rev. Joseph A. Vance, president of the Board of National Missions, will speak on "The Unfinished Task on the National Missions Field."

"The Unfinished Task on the Foreign Missions Field" will be discussed by the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions.

Mother of 6 Freed In Husband's Death

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 26.—(AP.)—Indictments charging Mrs. Rosina Volpi, middle-aged mother of six children, and Joseph Carbonara, her alleged admirer, with murdering the woman's husband, were thrown out by Supreme Court Justice Witschief.

Giuseppe Caricari and Alfonse Carrato, awaiting execution as the actual syayers, charged the woman and Carbonara offered them $500 to kill Volpi.

Inquiry Urged in Phila. Arson Ring

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—(INS.)—Startling new disclosures were expected today as police delved deeper into the activities of Philadelphia's "$1,000,000 arson ring," whose confessed "torch," Samuel Greenfield, of Atlantic City, yesterday identified two prominent Philadelphia manufacturers as the man who employed him to set fire to their factories.

DEPUTY QUITS IN SWISSVALE

Edward Goldstein, revocation of whose commission as deputy constable in Swissvale was recently asked by District Attorney Andrew T. Park in a court petition, has presented his resignation to Presiding Judge George V. Moore in advance of the hearing, scheduled later in the week.

The District Attorney said Goldstein had not qualified for the deputyship by filing with the court a written statement from the justice of the peace in his district that he would be given regular employment. Constable Andrew Farina, Swissvale, had asked the appointment of Goldstein, saying he needed assistance.

MINE MISHAPS SHOW GAIN

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(INS.)—Coal mine accidents in April cost the lives of 113 men, the Bureau of Mines announces.

The death rate, 3.30 per million tons of coal produced, was higher than the March rate, 3.00, but below the 4.01 rate in April, 1930. The actual number of deaths from accidents in April was three less than in March and 50 below April, 1930.

Coal production in April was 34,178,000 tons, a decrease of 6,511,000 tons from April, 1930, and 4,437,000 tons below March.

Stunning Frock in Sizes 36 to 46

Pattern 2153

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

A charming frock with a softly draped bodice and slenderizing lines especially designed for later women. Waistline tucks are used in place of a belt, adding height and slimness to the figure. The pattern includes long sleeves as well as those gracefully flared short sleeves that are so very becoming to stout women. A vestee of lace adds a dainty, feminine touch. Design 2153 makes up beautifully in chiffon, georgette, voile, lawn, batiste or flat crepe.

Obtainable only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 5⅜ yards of 39-inch material. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

SEEK GOVERNOR OUSTER IN TENN.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 26 (AP).—Appointment of a committee to consider whether impeachment proceedings should be brought against Gov. Henry H. Horton was sought in a resolution introduced in the Tennessee House of Representatives.

The resolution calls for consideration of reports from the state affairs investigating committee which said state officials were discharged because they would not conduct their offices in a way satisfactory to Col. Luke Lea, publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, financier.

The report also said the committee reviewed testimony which said:

"The Governor appointed a superintendent of banks whom he had never met until the applicant was brought to his mansion by Col. Lea for appointment."

"STORE AROUND THE CORNER" HAS FINE DESSERTS

Desserts, according to nutrition experts, have their place in the normal diet. Aside from their food value, their sweetness satisfies the appetite in an appropriate way.

In these days, when it is the desire of every housewife to reduce kitchen-work to a minimum, the opportunity to get well-made, wholesome desserts at "the store around the corner" should not be overlooked. Pure, delicious ice cream is always available at a low price. So are cakes, pies and cookies. And there is always a wide variety of fresh, dried and canned fruits.

As wholesome desserts satisfy the appetite appropriately, so does sugar improve taste-appeal of essential foods. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt in cooking vegetables and meats makes them pleasing carriers of the vitamins, minerals and roughage they contain. The Sugar Institute.

LANG PROMISES TO FIX STREETS

Edward G. Lang, director of Public Works, promised officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Club that Seventh avenue, Penn avenue and other wood block paved streets in the downtown section would be resurfaced soon. Treatment application of oil and stones similar to that applied to Manchester Bridge will begin within a short time, Lang told C. H. Roth, secretary of the club.

The streets have been the scenes of many minor automobile collisions when the pavement was wet, and drivers are not aware of the menace until they apply their brakes, it was said.

Arnold School Drive Workers Meet Today

Workers in Arnold School's campaign for $200,000 were to hold a luncheon meeting today in the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club. R. E. Withers, general chairman of the campaign executive committee and president of the Arnold School board of trustees, was to preside.

DAMAGE SUITS SEEK $60,000

Alleging she was bitten by a German police dog, Clara A. Boord, of 217 Puritan road, Rosslyn Farms, filed suit against Charles H. Reymer, 215 Puritan road, asking $10,000 damages. She averred the dog attacked her July 21, 1930, biting her on the hand, hip, shoulder and head. She was in a hospital three weeks, the suit said. It charged Reymer, owner of the dog, permitted it to run at large without a muzzle, knowing it to be vicious, and that it had bitten other persons.

Mrs. Anna G. Beam, of Homewood, widowed mother of nine children, asked $50,000 damages for the death of her husband, Floyd Burdell Beam, in a suit against W. J. Swoger, of Verona, filed in Common Pleas Court. The suit averred Beam was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Swoger at Frankstown and Standard avenues April 4 last, dying four days later.

CLASS OF 350 CONFIRMED

The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh Diocese of the Catholic Church, officiated at the confirmation of a class of 275 children and 75 adults, last night in St. James' Catholic Church, Wilkinsburg. He was assisted by the Rev. J. P. Shields, of St. Coleman's Church, Turtle Creek, as deacon, and the Rev. Philip Callery, of St. Lawrence's Church, as sub deacon.

The Rev. Daniel O'Shea, of Holy Innocents' Church, gave the benediction and the Rev. Thomas Bryson, of St. Bernard's Church, Mt. Lebanon, preached the sermon. A carillon recital was given by the Rev. Joseph Casilli, before the services.

URGE 1ST WARD PLAYGROUND

Headed by the name of Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, a communication from more than 200 First Ward residents requesting a district playground, was before Council's committee on parks today.

The communication said dense traffic in the ward menaced children forced by lack of playground facilities to play in the streets.

Council received a petition from residents of South Fifteenth street, requesting resurfacing of the street from Sarah to Carson.

Evangelical Pastor Dies in Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 26.—The Rev. F. D. Ellenberger, 79, former secretary of the Pittsburgh Conference of the Evangelical Church, and who had served more than 15 charges in the conference since he was ordained in 1880, died here yesterday.

COME TO THIS HAPPY LAND

To Connoisseurs of TRAVEL

ARE YOU restless at home and longing to visit pastures new and alluring? All the rare beauty of French-Canada is spread along the shores of the St. Lawrence River and our luxurious ships miss not one point of historic interest or grandeur.

Sunshine and air like wine—deck chairs and pleasant shipmates—a shoreline colourful and picturesque as a Christmas card—sumptuous meals—exacting service—leisure to enjoy it all—and at moderate expense!

The climax of this glorious cruise, starting, if you wish, at Toronto, is the northern spectacle of the Saguenay River. The waters of this mysterious canyon wash the tips of submerged mountains which tower nearly two thousand feet above your ship and descend fathoms below the keel. Here is the forest primeval—the true northern wilderness.

Write for illustrated folder, Niagara to the Sea, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

HAVING TROUBLE WITH YOUR LIFE INSURANCE PREMIUMS?

You can make it much easier to meet your life insurance premiums . . . you can actually reduce them somewhat . . . under a plan offered by The Colonial Trust Company.

One reason why premiums sometimes seem more difficult than other obligations which are really larger is because premiums usually come in lump payments and at somewhat irregular intervals. If your rent came due every three months, or every six months or every year, you would find it much harder to handle than it is now on a steady, monthly basis.

The Premium Payment Plan at The Colonial provides a method of monthly payments. It breaks your payments down into smaller units, which are easier to pay, and it sets them up on a regular, steady basis, which makes it easier for you to plan on them.

This method speedily puts all your policies on an annual-payment basis with the insurance companies. That method insures you the lowest possible rate, and is more economical than semi-annual or quarterly payments.

In addition, there is another saving of money for you. The Colonial pays interest on the monthly payments you make.

If you are interested in handling your life insurance premiums on the easiest and most economical basis, fill in the coupon below.

STOCK SEASON'S CLOSING PLAY REVIEWED; MOVIE AND GOTHAM NEWS

'She Couldn't Say No' Gives Mabel Kroman Chance For 1,000 Laughs

By GEORGE SEIBEL

There was only one thing to do at the Alvin Theater last night while George Sharp's Players gave the opening performance of the last week of their season. The play was "She Couldn't Say No," and the only thing to be done was to laugh.

The audience laughed and even the players themselves had to smile at times when they weren't supposed to do so.

The play, of which the author is B. M. Kaye, is not classified by any descriptive term. It isn't called drama, or comedy, or even farce. It is lighter than the lightest of these categories. The characters are impossible—the plot is impossible—everything about it is impossible. It is even impossible not to laugh.

"Mabel," and I don't mean "perhaps," the skit was written for Mabel Kroman. It fits her like a boxing glove. It gives her the fullest opportunity for clowning, for winking, for the entire bag of tricks which is Mabel Kroman. Whether she is running the law office without any clients, whether she is running the hotel without any guests, or whether she is running the courtroom without any justice—Mabel is running the show. Having been away for so many weeks, the audience accepted her as a new revelation. They tittered—they howled—they yowled. When she asks about the accused defendant in the courtroom if he has any "What would the prisoner at the eighty?" the house rocked.

George Seibel

COMPANIONS IN CRIME

She was ably and amusingly abetted by the entire cast. Sure, there is no need to be natural in this sort of role and to be anything but funny, too. Woody was just as funny as possible. There never was such a sap as the Big Jessiah Jenkins played by Fred Sullivan, but there ought to be. There never was such a plaintiff in a heart-balm case as Elizabeth Potter, but Billy Tank has put him on the map. Robert Fiske, Hugh Banks, Norman Potter, Arthur Marlowe and Alan Treegan added to the merriment.

That leaves Paul McGrath and Gladys George to be accounted for. He looked handsome and intelligent enough; she looked dainty and demure enough. But they, too, had no other function than making the audience laugh. Miss George showed herself as capital a farceuse as last week she had been a tragic figure.

ABOUT THE PLAY

Don't ask anything about the play. It is a circus balloon filled with laughing gas. It would make "Box and Cox" look like "Othello." It would make "Charley's Aunt" look like "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray."

Starting out with a lawyer who has a fictitious parting whose business it is to pay the bills but who is always out of town, it proceeds by letting his stenographer take the place of the mythical Johnson to try a case—and they give her the first name of Portia. The chief member of the firm shows up in time to take the other side of the case, and then all law, all equity, all precedent are flung to the winds in one of the funniest court scenes since Dodson & Fogg tried the case of Bardell versus Pickwick.

It is all hopelessly absurd, hopelessly old-fashioned farce, and only the boundless exuberance of the players makes it what it is—one of the best entertainments the company has presented. It is their farewell week, and last night it was Fred Sullivan, the honorable judge, who said farewell. Aching sides will help the audience to remember them all.

6 Months on Ground Aviator's Penalty

BOSTON, May 26.—(AP)—Robert S. O'Brien, state superintendent of aviation, said Vance Breese, test pilot for the Detroit Aircraft Corporation of Detroit, would be grounded for six months for going aloft during the Army air maneuvers. He said Breese failed to get official clearance papers from any army, state or city official.

Pair of New Shoes Stolen From Horse

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 26.—(AP)—Somebody thinks Deputy Sheriff Ollie Michaels, of Dola, takes the lucky horseshoe story too seriously. He found that someone had stolen two new shoes from his horse while it grazed in the deputy's fields.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

This Town of Ours

The Sidney Blackmers (Helen Ulric) are serious about it this time. . . . The Geoffrey Kerrs (Jane Walker) are blessed-eventing, as are the Alton Brooks (Elizabeth Cobb, Irvin's dotter). . . . The Howard Hughes-Billie Dove middle-aisling plot has been definitely deferred. . . . Phil Plant will fly to erase Barbara Hutton from his heart in India. . . . M. Chevalier is the highest paid entertainer in the world. . . . The betrothal of Princess Murat to Paul Frank, jr., but will be built-in'd any day now. . . . Johnny Walker, of the flickers, is helping his sister collect divorce evidence. . . . Peggy (Old Man Murphy) Conklin and Lt. Henry (U. S. Air Forces) Borden are on fire. . . . What well-known magazine editor is a member of the local nudist cult? . . . Polan Banks, the novelist, and Katherine McGillicuddy are on the verge of merging.

William Leeds' new arm decoration is Reri, the "Tabu" gel recruited for the new "Follies." . . . Katharine Cornell's current play is backed by a famous attorney. . . . Catherine Cornell, of Edgar Dale, will bride it on June 8. . . . Constance (Vanities) Trevor, who was sealed to a chorus boy three years ago, is telling it to a minister. . . . Sylvia Sidney was the last actress interviewed by Bellevue. . . . "If Booth Had Missed," which copped 1st prize in the Little Show Tournament, has been bagged by William A. Brady. . . . Add Exeffuls: Fred Stone's dotter, Paula. . . . "Melo," which has two scenes in which not one word is spoken, folds June 13. . . . Jack O'Gorman observes that the only bank head not contemplating suicide is Tallulah.

Barclays on the liner to Yurrup thefted all of Mrs. S. Jay Kaufman's art. . . . Greta Garbo's brother groomed it in Paris Satdee. . . . William Paley, of Columbia Broadcasting, will Yurrup it to join Gandhi and the ex-Kaiser for WABC. . . . George Jean Nathan departs for London soon and will guest-critic it for The London Express. . . . Put a straw hat on Lew Brice's head at a slant and a long cigar in his mouth—and you have George Jessel. . . . What prominent sportsman was the victim of a swanky midtown hotel stickup? . . . Arthur W. Arentsen, Chicago polo-ist, and Eveglone Tashoff, concert pianist, were secretly blended at Daytona Beach. . . . Seven new spit houses on Central Park West, all within six blocks, are in the paws of receivers already. . . . Phil Baker says Chicago is in a terrible fix. It has run out of X's to mark the spots.

The cry of newsboys, "What do you read?" is from Hamlet. . . . Sign on a shop across from Gimbels: "You'll like our necktie." . . . It's a tie renovating firm. . . . Local restaurants and cafes take $1,250,000 from patrons daily. . . . The Gordon Smiths have foundered and she is Paris-bound. . . . Norman Buckley and Dorothy Irving, once of the Dillingham ensembles, were welded in Calif. weeks ago. . . . The late Ralph Barton showed the pistol which I'll use soon" to the gal in Lew Pollack's vaude act the day before he did it. . . . The miniature golf course owners are wishing it were last year. . . . Martin Ullman, "idea" man, will do the posters for the National Tuberculosis Ass'n. . . . He is the leader in the movement to eliminate the "excessive" use of sex in ad illustrations, which appears to be the only trick that attracts interest.

Recommended to diversion seekers: Willie Howard's imitation of a pipe organ. . . . Bing Crosby's platter of "Wrap Your Troubles in Drams". . . . Louis Sherwin's amusing poke at the tea-shoppes in Forum. . . . Howard Wolf in the Americanmerk. . . . The travesty on musical comedies in the forthcoming "Band Wagon" show. . . . Margaret Sullavan in "A Modern Virgin". . . . Norma Terris' grand mimicry at El Patio. . . . Cab Calloway's version of "Star Dust" at the Cotton Club. . . . The novel, "Seed on the Wind". . . . The "Crazy Quilt" revusical high spots. . . . Arthur Sinclair in "Old Man Murphy". . . . Walter Donaldson's next torch bit, "Where Is That Gal?". . . . And a bottle of Coca-Cola divided in three glasses—and then load to the brim with Bacardi.

Mary Gawthrop, of the Social Register, is the new heart of the recently Reno-vated William de Rham. . . . Boston and Baltimore blue-bloods will thrill over the Frances Fortis (Margaret Bell) blessed-adventure, due soon. . . . What spurned suitor (in the dead of night) broke the gas pipe in Agnes Hill's Washington home? . . . Bertrand Taylor's bathroom is done in solid black marble. . . . Vera King and Carl Hansen is a new combination. . . . Add Things You Can Get in Other Towns You Can't Get in New York: Real thick malted milks. . . . Ten grand was the price paid to Radio City for the food concessions. . . . Sign on 125th St.: "Silk Ties, 25c! real silk ties, 50c."

George Manty, waiter in a restaurant on 3rd Ave., between 82d and 83d Sts., claims he is a cousin to Wilhelm, the ex-Kaiser. . . . The Charles Francis Coes, who were melted, are considering a reconciliation. . . . See the reverse side of Barton's May 16 cartoon in the Nyorker, which might have suggested suicide, if he saw a proof. . . . Chin & Lee's, the most prosperous of the chow mein chains, is run by a Mr. Silverman. No wonder! . . . The vice squad boys have been "demoted" to the softest jobs in their home districts! . . . At the orgy of the departing Texas Guinan on the S. S. Paris, the French Line rigidly adhered to its custom of not letting any of its stewards peddle laughing soup to the guests. . . . If you didn't bring your own—the only way to get it was to buy it from the customs guards.

The Silver Slipper, once a pillar among Broadway asylums, has given up trying to click as a night club, and will become a dime-a-dance-den. . . . Barbara Stanwyck leaped from a 54th St. night club to stardom—Now comes "Willie" Mae, a Guinanymph, who has the femme lead in "Wooden Soldier". . . . The reason the Palace biz is so lean is that it keeps repeating repeaters. . . . Barbara Bennett, who was given the last rites recently, will be out of the ailing room next wk. . . . The local bandits must laugh themselves hoarse reading the legends about themselves. . . . Capt. James Doolittle, first to fly the Andes, has a new Lockheed-Vega to "out-distance" Capt. Hawks. . . . "The Follies" premiere at Atlantic City has been deferred to June 17. . . . The D. Fairbanks thing is strictly another performance. . . . The rumor has a morning tab absorbing an eve'g. . . . The Jack Kirklands (Nancy Carroll) are busying denying that there is a rift.

Add cruel cracks from critics—the one aimed at "Party Husband"—It is the sort of picture a person goes to when it is 4 o'clock and the appointment isn't until 6". . . . The J. Higgins (Nemo Egan) are babying. . . . The investigators are checking up on all garages for cars not being used. . . . Kreisler has written four chunes for "Smilin' Through". . . . Nick the Greek's philosophy: "The gambler bets, the sucker calls". . . . Elsa Maxwell played Juliet eras ago. . . . Bright light advertising may pay, but few people can name eight electric signs in the Times Sq. sector. . . . Depression gag making the rounds: In 1929 he had a Follies gal and a yacht. . . . In 1930 he had a stenographer and a rowboat. . . . In 1931 he had a headache and a pair of water wings.

Donor of Harvard Gymnasium Dead

BILBAO, Spain, May 26.—(AP)—A group of prisoners held in the jail here since the anti-clerical riots, went on a hunger strike yesterday.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Robert Fiske rates 1,000 per cent in the hits and runs columns. He has the distinction of having been on the stage at every performance given by the George Sharp Players this season. Paul McGrath had two weeks' vacation and that put him second. Alice Ann Baker and Hugh Banks are next in line in point of service. Mabel Kroman was even with Fiske until she went to visit her sis, Anne Forrest, in New York.

Bob, by the way, says he isn't the same man he was at the beginning of the season. He has to be a different man every week.

RKO-Pathe announces that Pola Negri has signed a three-year starring contract for talking pictures. Miss Negri has never made a talking picture.

WOMEN ONLY SEE NEW FILM IN PITT

The new screen drama, with talk, sound, music and dancing, "Rio's Road to Hell," opened yesterday in the Pitt. The picture has to do with the carefully veiled methods employed by unscrupulous persons in "trapping young women."

The lead is played by Susi Vernon, German star. Juan Polito, known as the "Caruso of South America," sings.

Women only are admitted to the performances, which are continuous daily.

An added attraction is living models on the stage.

American Believed Suicide in France

MARLY LE ROI, SEINE-ET-OISE, France, May 26.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified man, which police believe is that of an American, because the initials "J. D. U. S. A." were found on a label in the suit he wore, was taken from the Seine near here Sunday. A police physician said he thought the man had committed suicide.

Former U. S. Marine Puts Fireworks in Screen Gangster Drama

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, May 26.

When you see machine gun bullets chipping off a wall, or plunking through a door in a picture, don't believe the cynics—it's not a fake.

There is a man in Hollywood who makes a specialty of spraying bullets around actors working on a set. His name is George Daly, and he was 14 years in the Marine Corps. He has plied his dangerous trade in more than 50 pictures now, and he gets paid from $25 to $100 a volley.

Strangely enough, Daly has won the confidence of some of the biggest stars in the business. He even got the okeh of Dick Barthelmess' insurance company during the filming of "The Finger Points."

Dick Barthelmes

Of course, Daly doesn't shoot right at the actors, as the machine gun appears to be doing in front of the camera. He is off to an angle and his bullets may not come in 10 feet of the star. In at least one case, however, he peppered an "S" on a door, the final bullet coming within three well calculated inches of the star lying prone on the floor.

Cameras and everything else give way to Daly's specifications. He looks a set over and picks his angles first. The cameramen arrange theirs accordingly. On interiors, this super gunman uses Thompson machine guns; on exteriors, regulation government equipment. He knows the exact penetrating power of the bullets of each type and he pads his marks so the missiles won't go through or ricochet.

And the actors have so much faith in his marksmanship they don't insist on a bulletproof vest.

Times are so tough, observes Al Boasberg, that wives and husbands are going back together again.

LATEST GOSSIP

It's easy to see the trend of the day when seven mystery thrillers are in preparation at Paramount. . . . An executive of another studio tells me four writers came into his office within 24 hours to suggest stories on the Crawford-Spencer killings, Los Angeles' current double murder sensation. . . . Al ("Absolutely, Mr. Gallagher") Shean is in town writing gags for the Marx Brothers picture. He is a nephew of the comedians and is said to have been the one who originally suggested Harpo's pantomime characterization. . . . If you're interested in statistics, Paramount has 15 brunettes, nine blondes and four red-heads under contract. . . . Ruth Chatterton is one of those lucky people who can fall asleep wherever they happen to be. She gets as much as two hours a day on the sets. . . . How quickly the miniature golf craze died. Saw a group of kids playing horseshoes in one of Hollywood's deserted courses today. . . . Paul Gerard Smith's latest squelch is: "Your'e as true as a $3 cornet."

'GIRL MARKET' JURY SOUGHT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 26.—(AP)—The trial of Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, and three co-defendants in the "girl market" case continued with the selection of jurymen today and with the prospect that the number of defense attorneys would be increased by one to 13.

Defense attorneys were in a flurry for a time yesterday when William Jobelmann, who with Olive Clark Davis is alleged to have kept lists of young girls for the entertainment of wealthy Los Angeles and Hollywood men, announced he had dismissed his two lawyers and would plead his own case. He indicated he would disclose in detail the operations of the "market," but later said he would re-engage one attorney.

Miss Rogers Gained 15 Pounds in Six Weeks

Skinny Men and Women Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days Or Money Back.

My Dear Friends:

After my attack of Flu I was thin, run-down and weak. I had a sallow complexion, my cheeks were sunk in and I was continually troubled with gas on my stomach. I felt stuffy and had lost my appetite. I had read about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets and decided to give them a trial. At once, I began to pick up an appetite, my cheeks filled out and my complexion became healthy looking and I gained 15 pounds in six weeks and am very thankful for what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets did for me.

Miss Alberta Rogers, Decatur, Ill.

To take on weight, grow strong and vigorous, to fill out the hollows in cheeks and neck, try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets for 30 days. 60 Tablets—60 cents at druggists everywhere. If they don't give you wonderful help in 30 days, get your money back—you be the judge. But be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine.

Colorado Lifts Ban On Auto Speeding

DENVER, Col., May 26.—(AP)—Speed limits have been removed on Colorado highways.

With signature of the Hoover motor code bill by Gov. W. H. Adams, the only restriction is that vehicles must be operated at a prudent and safe speed. Drastic penalties are provided for driving a car under the influence of liquor.

A motorist arrested for reckless driving need not appear for trial for five days and can proceed under the law without giving security for his appearance provided he carries his registration issued by the state.

69 MOTORCYCLE BIDS OPENED

Three bids for 69 motorcycles for the Bureau of Police were opened today by Col. W. R. Dunlap, city supplies director. Because specifications were changed, he returned unopened bids on four trucks for the Bureau of Water.

Dr. C. B. Maits, director of the Department of Health, opened 18 bids for the construction of a new house for the superintendent of Leech Tuberculosis Hospital. There were 16 bids for plumbing and heating. These contracts will be awarded this week.

Use of Holystone On Decks of Navy Curbed

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—We have some husky boys in the Navy, and perhaps petty officers are quite vigorous in discipline.

An order by the Secretary of the Navy, a yachtsman, says the use of holystones wears down the decks so rapidly that their repair or replacement has become an item of expense which cannot be met under limited appropriations. Therefore, the practice has been abolished except for the purpose of removing stains such as grease and paint.

No longer will holystones be used just for scrubbing purposes by an able seaman who has given a chief some back talk.

WIDER STREET PLAN OPPOSED

Property owners in Gould avenue, from Perrysville avenue to East street, have protested to Council against a plan to widen the street.

The petitioners declare the Public Works Department's estimated widening to 30 feet and a 22-foot roadway is unnecessary and would be too expensive. They suggested that the roadway be 18 feet wide and the street from side to side be 25 feet.

G. P. Miller, 3800 Perrysville avenue, in an individual petition declared the street should not be widened. The protests were referred to committee.

What is the effect of modern Ultra Violet Rays upon tobacco? Dr. E. E. Free, one of America's well-known scientists, who was retained by us to study Lucky Strike's manufacturing process, addressing the Illuminating Engineering Society, said:

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette that employs Ultra Violet Rays in connection with its exclusive "TOASTING" Process—the only cigarette that brings you the benefits of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos.

WATER EXPERTS STUDY METERS

Its urging the adoption of universal metering, at the second day's session of the American Water Works Association convention in William Penn Hotel today, Edward A. Johnson, of the Pittsburgh Equitable Meter Company, said:

"By using water meters exclusively, the health of a city is improved. The city does not have to spend so much money pumping a lot of wasted water and can spend that extra money on filtration equipment."

Other speakers at today's meetings included James H. Kennon, managing engineer, Pittsburgh Bureau of Water; Chester F. Drake, division superintendent, Pittsburgh filtration plant at Aspinwall; Paul Hansen, of Chicago; Sheppard T. Powell, of Baltimore; F. N. Speller, J. L. W. Birkinbine and H. R. SLUR OVER WINE TOAST DENIED

DINARD, May 26.—(INS.)—Mayor John C. Porter, of Los Angeles, described as a "misunderstanding" today the situation that arose when he and Mrs. Porter walked out of the traditional vin d'honneur ceremony at La Havre last week when a toast was proposed in champagne to the presidents of France and the United States and the Porters were severely criticized for their seeming lack of diplomacy. He said:

"I admit that I didn't drink because I don't drink and I never will. I admit that I walked out of the room, but it wasn't intentional."

Lack of familiarity with the French tongue was responsible for the action, he said.

Postscript on the Howler

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

We will dash off another rotogravure on the schoolboy howler.

There ain't any pupil as dumb as the professor tries to make him.

The kid knows the distance from the earth to the moon. But what good is it going to do him?

There, when the boy is asked the mileage from here to the moon he yells out, "A grand slam."

The professor glares at the boy who looks back as innocently as a worm measuring an apple with the idea of taking up future residence.

That night the professor talks it over with his good wife. By this we don't mean the professor has another wife who ain't so good. When referring to the professor's wife you always use that expression. It's a quaint old tribal habit.

They laugh themselves silly over the boy's foolish answer. You know that a professor can laugh and relax all he wants to in the evenings. He's only got to be intelligent in the daytime.

He sends the schoolboy howler to a magazine and gets five finickers for it. That ain't hay. Which encourages the prof to encourage the boys to give out silly answers.

So when the prof asks a likely young lad, "Do you read current history?" the boy yells:

"Nope. I like my history without currants."

That's another howler for the prof to shoot along to the magazine that pays collectors for other people's gags.

He inherits the five dollars and packs it away so deep a moth couldn't reach it without suffering from camphor intoxication.

From then out you can bet those schoolboys are going to give forth many howlers and boners. And while the prof is tut-tut-tutting the boys he is making mental notes of the mistakes. He can grab five bills for every one.

If you want pupils to stop snarling foolish answers, eliminate the trouble at its question mark. A schoolboy howler is not ignorance. Rather it's a very rich mixture of intelligence, impudence and the comfortable feeling that dad is still working.

KATE SMITH IN NEW SERIES

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, May 26.—The microphone is Hoover's most reliable ally these days. The President is making the most of his opportunity to stamp his personality upon the ears of the nation now that the battle lines of 1932 are forming.

Hoover has more radio assurance today. He has discarded some of his solemn manner, has ceased his practice of clearing his throat . . . The hosts of Democracy are shooting in the dark, unable to concentrate upon the exploitation of a leader . . . If they provide plenty of fireworks—and it seems to me they need the assistance of ex-Senator Reed, of Missouri—they will not need to chafe at the delay before they choose their candidate for the Maison Blanche.

N. B. C.'s fashion commentator at sports events has copied the machine gun rat-a-tat of Mons. Gibbons. With fashions so varied and time so limited it seems the only technique to follow . . . With Russia occupying so much of the headlines it is strange the radio chiefs don't attempt to snare Stalin for a speech. They would make the front page if they did . . . The radio chiefs might adopt their own five-year plan . . . to subdue commercial ballyhoo. It would take five years to accomplish . . . One of the most tiresome of the ballyhooers at present is a concern that airs sales talk after every musical number. Such programs are causing more and more microphone silence in the parlors.

The most solemn persons in the republic at present are the radio announcers of the networks. Their eyes are fixed steadfastly on the medals of the American Academy of Arts and Letters . . . Aren't naturalness and a sense of humor considered when speaking honors are being distributed? O. H. Caldwell, former high priest of the Radio Commission, says the only bull market on the industrial horizon is that of broadcasting. Caldwell, as usual, is right. While other values go down, prices quoted on broadcast stations keep going up . . . They say the owners of one station recently turned down a cool three million for the plant and its good will.

When WEAF changed hands, back in 1926, with a grandiose gesture of "a million dollars," everybody felt, according to Caldwell, that it was a walk-away for the rich A. T. & T. at the expense of the newborn and helpless N. B. C. "Now figure out for yourself whether the then inexperienced Aylesworth was buying a gold brick or a blue chip." . . . No bust of Victor Herbert or Sir Arthur Sullivan yet decorates the salons of the broadcasters. So negligent, the broadcasters! Politicians hesitate in installing microphones on the front porch. Wise men, the politicians! It is not so much the front porch as the back fence that interests the people today.

Wonder why radio orchestras don't pay more attention to the "Waltz Dream" tunes of Oscar Straus? . . . What has become of Evelyn Laye? . . . The most sentimental of all racial songs, it seems to me, are those of the Irish. But those of the Scotch are not far behind . . . Strange, handkerchief manufacturers don't sponsor Scotch-Irish musical programs . . . How much longer can Ethel Barrymore resist the microphones? Her low voice ought to go well in the parlors . . . The more we hear of Sousa's marches the more we are impressed with the inexhaustible vitality of their composer.

Whenever Charles G. Dawes approaches the microphone he is invariably preceded by the playing of his composition, "Melody" . . . A sort of personal theme song . . . Radio might do well to furnish all political bigwigs with personal theme songs as a music cue to their messages to the nation . . . Most every type of speaker has come to us from Lunnon save the soapbox orators in Hyde Park . . . We have never been able to hear enough of the music of Rimsky-Korsakoff . . . Doctors are forever talking of the improvement in the physical condition of Americans. Can't a large part of it be attributed to the constant jumping of people to the dials to turn off long-winded sales plugs?

QUICK RELIEF FROM TORTURING CORNS

Relief from the stabbing pain of a corn can be secured instantly, even though several days' treatment may be needed for complete, safe removal. So avoid rapid-fire "cures" and dangerous paring, and put your trust in the safe, sane, sensible treatment that has brought comfort to millions of feet for 31 years.

Ask your druggist for a little box of the famous Blue-jay corn plasters. In ten seconds you'll have a Blue-jay softly guarding the tingling spot; cushioning the pressure and chafing that cause the pain. Immediate relief!

After that, it's easy for Blue-jay. Mild medication loosens the corn; soon you're on easy feet. Corns will never bother you if you keep a box of Blue-jay handy. Made by Bauer & Black, noted manufacturers of surgical dressings. At all druggists', 25c.

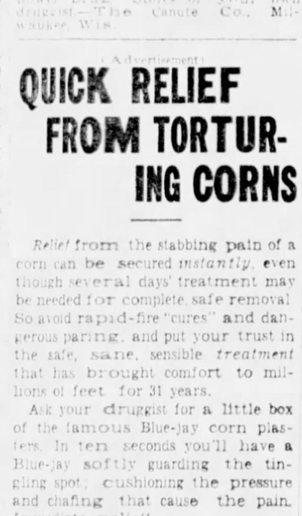
Know the truth

before accepting substitutes for Kotex



DON'T be confused by the careless expression, "just like Kotex." Perhaps the substitute looks the same. But demand to know more. Where was this substitute made? By whom? How? Who stands back of it? Is it hygienically safe . . . the kind of sanitary pad a hospital would select?

Last year more than 10,000,000 Kotex pads were used in hospitals. This is the pad that meets hospital requirements! You should be equally strict in selecting an accessory so definitely related to health. Insist on Kotex. It's the world's standard. In addition, Kotex is supremely comfortable. Shaped to fit. Soft—and stays soft. Adjustable. May be worn on either side.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

No doubt about it. Kate Smith is Columbia's biggest star. At 220 pounds ringside she is to CBS what Vaughn de Leath is to NBC. Come to think of it, maybe Kate left NBC because she and Vaughn couldn't perform in the same studio. Once Kate was a nurse in Washington, D. C. She sings on WJAS at 7.

Ford Miller received an iron and an ironing board from a listener. Next day he received a washing to do. "That's business," comments Bill Moorhouse, who helps Ford entertain on WCAE Noon Novelties.

Pilot Charles Weiblen, hero of that airplane episode at Bettis Field not long ago, was cool as a cucumber in his initial radio appearance at KDKA last night. He explained for the first time the real reason for keeping his craft aloft an hour and 40 minutes after fellow pilots had signaled him that his plane was in distress with a broken landing gear. Said Pilot Weiblen:

"I deliberately kept the plane in the air so that the motor would burn most of the gasoline out of the right wing tank and relieve the landing load on the broken wheel on that side. This also was a precaution against any explosion. I asked the women passengers to strap on their safety belts, and then seat themselves as far back in the cabin as they could. Then I stalled the plane on the runway, and landed. That's all there was to it."

Pilot Weiblen, like all heroes, was modest and succinct in his explanation. What he withheld from the radio audience was the fact that had the plane tilted on its nose in landing he would have been killed outright.

WAGNERIAN BEAUTY

How many conjure mental pictures when listening to the radio?

There's an ideal setting tonight on Howard Barlow's symphony concert, WJAS at 9:30.

The subject is "The Entry of the Gods Into Valhalla," perhaps the most magnificent music in Wagner's entire Ring Cycle, "Das Rheingold."

When you hear it played this evening, imagine the gods and goddesses assembled on the bank of the Rhine opposite the golden towers of Walhalla. They invoke Thor to provide a means of transportation across the river. Thor swings his magic hammer three times around his head, and hurls it over the Rhine, its flight being marked by thunder and lightning. In its path appears the rainbow bridge, and then the deities pass over in stately procession, whilst far below the Rhine maidens can be heard, singing plaintively for the return of their stolen Rhinegold. A beautiful tone picture.

The height of something very inane was the substitution of a popular crooner singing "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" for a still more lovable lyric soprano, on the Victor Herbert memorial tribute over WJZ and WGAR. There's a time and a place for everything. We might elucidate by saying that Herbert music was never meant for crooners, no matter how good.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

Mister Jack Drumm is only 8 years old but he faces a brilliant future. Right now he possesses the ingenuity of a 12-year-old.

William Pfarr

Take the other night, for instance. Dinner was ready at the Drumm home in Mt. Lebanon. The family was at the table. But Jack refused to sit down because his mother was absent.

Mrs. Drumm was in the front room having a few final words with visitors.

Jack was impatient, but still he refused to have dinner without his mother.

Finally inspiration seized him and he rushed into the front room.

"Ma," he fibbed, so that the visitors might hear him, "You're wanted on the 'phone."

And just as Jack concluded his speech, the telephone rang.

And Mrs. Cavanaugh, she likes Boston bullpups, and has them all over the house . . . One of them, six week old, would just fit your coat pocket . . . A certain resident of Bellevue would have won that auto a downtown theater gave away if he had been present at the draw . . . In fact, they drew his number twice! . . . A gentleman wrote in to the Allegheny County Emergency Association the other day and said if the association would kindly lend him three billion, he'd solve everything . . .

Mayor Kline's better . . . And speaking of Mayor Kline, do you know why there's no Courtroom No. 13? . . . It's Mayor Kline's fault . . . He had just been elected to the bench some years ago and they had to assign a new courtroom to him, and the number, by all the rules of graduation, should have been 13, but Judge Kline refused . . . They gave Harry Applestein, the young lawyer, a dinner at the Y. M. and W. H. A. the other night, which was as it should have been . . . Twenty years ago, when the Y was a one-room affair, he was forever trying to make something of it . . . And succeeded . . .

Motorists whose cars have been towed off to the garage for some parking reason or other, will be delighted to hear that in the fairly-long-run there is justice. Here's a story to prove that daring assertion:

A few days ago Charlie Sable, an inspector in the city controller's office, borrowed the auto of his friend, Charlie Calig.

Sable drove downtown, parked the car and went to the theater.

Police thought the car had been parked too long and called a towing garage to haul it away.

The garage they called was one of the official towing garages—the one owned by Calig.

Police Believe 2 Women, 3 Men, Band Spreading Terror in District

CHARLEROI, May 26.—With pleas of guilty from two men and three women, police today say they believed they had broken up the gang which has been terrorizing the Monongahela Valley for months.

The five, arrested after a gun battle in Allenport, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to robbery before Justice of the Peace Paul R. Nutt.

They were Arnold Rahloff, 23, of California; Mike Alter, 28, Jean McCracken, 29, Mrs. Mary Barton, 20, and Alice Cole, 19.

They beat George Edwards, 65, wealthy recluse of Canonsburg, in his home and robbed him of $1.35.

Charleroi police are trying to have the prisoners identified as the bandits who have executed numerous holdups and robberies. The hame of three of them were searched today but failed to disclose any loot.

WHARF REPAIRS TO START SOON

Wharf improvements which will furnish employment to many men will be started within a week, according to Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works.

The plan for terracing the wharves to provide automobile parking space with little slope has been abandoned due to the opposition of navigation interests. Director Lang has decided to improve all of the paving in the wharf area. Some of it will be replaced with brick salvaged from the Noblestown road project and other parts will be repaired.

The department expects to draw on the Allegheny Emergency Association for a part of the labor required.

Prize Beauty Tells for First Time How She So Quickly Rose From Obscurity to Fame

Inset circle, exlusive portrait photo of Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger in France on her honeymoon. The house shows the simple flat (lower) at 5918 Ridge avenue, St. Louis, where Charlotte lived at the time she became a bathing beauty.

This is the second installment of a series of articles by Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, acquitted in Nice, France, of the "murder with provocation" of her husband, wealthy Philadelphia theater magnate. World-wide interest has been manifested in her story of her rise from obscurity to fame by winning a beauty contest and how fear of her jealous husband finally led to his tragic death.

Today Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger tells about her girlhood days and how she was selected to appear in the Atlantic City beauty contest. In passing she compares her own experiences with those of other famous prize beauties.

By CHARLOTTE NIXON-NIRDLINGER

NICE.

If, at the time, I had known, what chances a girl takes by entering beauty contests I'm sure I never would have left my home to appear in the Atlantic City national event. It is true that many prize winners have married happily and settled down to contented lives or achieved stage fame.

But there are others who simply fade right back into obscurity and still others who seem to have ill-fortune and tragedy trail them. I guess I was in the latter class.

It was not until I was 12 years old that people started to notice me and say I was pretty. I never believed or paid any attention to these remarks. Then one day a very pretty lady was visiting our school and I heard her say to her daughter: "That girl is the prettiest girl in the school." This made me begin to think perhaps I was pretty—and I was glad.

But I want to say here that I do not think I ever came under the "beautiful but dumb" classification. Yes, I realize that my present predicament might be proof that I was dumb in one sense. But in my studies I received medium grades, at least, and always was quite interested in history, arithmetic, geography and elocution. At the same time I was always fairly popular and played games very well. In fact, during my grammar school years I was more like a boy than a girl—and to this day sports are my greatest amusement.

In High School

After grammar school I continued my studies in high school. Those were happy days but they were marred by the fact that I was beginning to learn a little something about life as it really is—about people I knew who had suffered. I saw that misery as well as happiness existed in this world. At first, it was a terrible shock, to realize that the world of fairy tales, of princes and princesses, didn't really exist and, instead,

SUSPECT DEATH DUE TO PARROT FEVER

Third Fatality in Family Revives Theory That Bird May Have Carried Disease

The death of Mrs. Eliza Lindner, 60, 836 Lovett way, North Side, today revived the theory that two other members of her family who died early in May, as well as Mrs. Lindner, may have been victims of psittacosis, or "parrot fever."

Mrs. Lindner's death was attributed to bronchial pneumonia. That of her husband, Joseph Lindner, 61, was caused, doctors said, by lobar pneumonia, while their daughter, Mrs. Anna Weiggand, 1966 West Beckert avenue, Reserve Township, was also caused by bronchial pneumonia, according to a diagnosis at the time.

When it was discovered that a parrot in the Weiggand family had become ill and died before the deaths of Lindner and his daughter, doctors suspected psittacosis. A son of Lindner's, Harry Lindner, became ill, but recovered. Doctors investigating the deaths in the Lindner and Weiggand families in Mars were unable to find evidence of psittacosis.

Armstrong Talks On Road Program

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong talked on Allegheny County's road and bridge program last night before 200 members of the Fox Chapel Association at the Field Club, O'Hara Township. He declared himself strongly in favor of a quick start on the proposed bridge over the Allegheny River opposite Guyasuta road, Aspinwall. Ralph Flinn, president of the association, presided.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

Beverly Hills, Cal., May 26.—

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

It used to be quite a friendly and social distinction for a cabinet member to be asked to "week end" on the Rapidan, but it's nothing to brag about nowadays. Invitations read: "You are requested to attend a 'wake' in honor of Mr. Mellon's late lamented 'overdraft.' Don't bring fishing tackle; bring your department's salary list. Yours, Sir Boss."

Next scene on the Rapidan: "Mr. Postmaster General, how much does it cost to run your 'racket?'"

"Eight hundred and thirty-eight million, Mr. President."

Mr. Hoover: "Yeah."

"That's with strict economy and getting all the Congressmen's free mail to the voters on time."

Mr. Hoover: "Yeah, well you lop off the 38 million. We got to get Andy out of the red by November, '32."

Yours, WILL.

Parrot Victim?

MRS. ELIZA LINDNER, 60

Mrs. Lindner, 836 Lovett way, North Side, third of her family to die this month, leading to revival of the theory that psittacosis (parrot fever) is responsible.

FUND FOR EXTRA WORK SOUGHT

Permission to pay for extra work done on the Horace street ramp to the Liberty Bridge, because of "unforseen difficulties," was to be discussed by Council's finance committee at a meeting today. The Public Works Department asked the "favor" yesterday.

The M. O'Herron Company is contractor on the job, now nearing completion. Filled-in material, which was unable to support the heavy loads necessary by construction of the ramp, was given as the "unforseen difficulty."

The bill is for $5,967.50. Included in the extra work items are 135 yards of reinforced concrete, 4,000 pounds of steel reinforcement, 500 yards of slag "borrow," 600 yards of spoil, an item for trench excavations and additional concrete mixtures.

Woman Injured When Hit by Auto

Miss Margaret Wallace, 37, of 7209 Bennett street, suffered bruises when she was struck by an automobile at Beechwood boulevard and Fifth avenue, last night. Albert Fout, of 401 East Ohio street, driver of the car, took Miss Wallace to Pittsburgh Hospital. He was not arrested.

BUREAU READY FOR RUSH OF LICENSING

More Than 200 Retailers Likely to Apply as Council Upholds July 4 Explosives

An appeal to Mayor Charles H. Kline today was the only avenue open to those who seek to ban the sale of fireworks as a measure to prevent Fourth of July accidents.

Final action on the measure, opposed by women's clubs and other civic organizations, was taken yesterday by Council. The vote was 6 to 2. Councilmen Robert Garland and Charles Anderson voted negatively.

The Bureau of Building Inspection was preparing for a rush in issuing licenses, costing $50 each, to the more than 200 dealers who retail the explosives before July 4.

PARK EXHIBITS REJECTED

A motion made yesterday by Garland, after he realized his measure would lose, to appropriate money for public fireworks demonstrations at the parks was defeated.

Councilman Harry A. Little pointed out that the appropriation was a matter to be considered in the 1931 budget. No funds are available, he said.

Taking patriotism as his theme, Councilman W. Y. English declared in voting for the ordinance that:

"We shouldn't try to override the established custom of the nation in celebrating this great Independence Day of ours."

ASSAILS ORGANIZATIONS

Chiding the Chamber of Commerce, the Allied Boards of Trade and Henry Oliver Evans for advocating certain legislation without "knowing what it was all about," English declared:

"Mr. Harry Bastow, of the Allied Boards of Trade; Mr. James Rae, of the Chamber of Commerce, and Henry Oliver Evans shouted to the housetops about the city manager bill. When they were asked what it was all about they couldn't answer. The same thing holds true about the persons who advocate abolition of fireworks. They don't know what the new legislation we are passing is.

"The newspapers will now go after the sick Mayor like they did when the city manager bill was up for passage and assault him if he signs the fireworks ordinance."

RECALLS OWN YOUTH

English went on to point out that there was an "intangible thrill" to American youths in setting off fireworks. He recalled his boyhood days, describing his experience in lighting cannon crackers. He said:

"That feeling hasn't changed one bit in the hearts of our boys and girls."

Herron's legislation provides certain fire regulations for buildings housing pyrotechnics. "Dangerous fireworks," including blank cartridge pistols, cannon crackers, large skyrockets and roman candles are banned. Penalty for failure to observe the regulations is $100 fine or a jail sentence.

Garland's ordinance would have prohibited fireworks within the city limits.

Physician Warned, Finds Doormat Afire

Answering a knock on his door early today, Dr. C. H. Carroll, Negro physician of 1201 Boyle street, found his doormat ablaze, according to a police report. The mat had been soaked with either gasoline or oil, and ignited, police who investigated said.

MOVE TO RAZE OLD BUILDINGS STIRS MANY

Great Interest Evinced by Wreckers, Job Hunters, Owners and Realty Men

Wide public interest in the campaign to raze dangerous and unsightly buildings is reported at the offices of the Bureau of Building Inspection.

Many inquiries have been received from persons interested in wrecking the buildings, from men seeking employment, from owners, and from real estate men. Steps taken have been largely preliminary legal work necessary before the actual demolition begins.

BIDS TO BE TAKEN

On the wrecking jobs let by the city, bids will be taken in the usual manner. Names will be sent to listed wreckers. The successful bidder must be protected with insurance against damage to adjoining property and accidents to workmen.

In many of the outstanding examples of dangerous dwellings, the owners have been difficult to locate. Building inspectors are preparing to post a property at 51 Lawn street extension, Oakland. This house stands on a cliff above the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and can scarcely be reached because the steps leading to it have been torn away.

OWNERS TAKE ACTION

Owners in several cases are acting on their own initiative to take down delapidated houses. An old four-family frame house belonging to the Strunze estate at 2305-07 Glenmawr avenue, near West Carson street, is being taken away by the Espler Wrecking Company for the lumber.

In the Department of Health, sanitary inspectors have reported that a number of houses, yards and streets where bad conditions prevailed have been cleaned.

Hurt by Rum Thief, Envoy Under Knife

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP.)—A skull operation today was expected to speed the recovery of Dr. Carlos Leiva, charge d'affaires of the legation of El Salvador, from the effects of an attack by liquor thieves. Dr. Herbert H. Schoenfeld, Washington surgeon, was called upon to perform the operation to raise a piece of skull he had found to be pressing on the brain.

COUNTY OPENS BOMB DRIVE

As a sequel to a half-dozen bombings in the county within the last month, District Attorney Andrew T. Park has named County Detective James S. McGinley to have charge of bomb investigations. Park made the announcement shortly after an attempt was made to bomb Meyers Bowl, a North Braddock boxing arena.

The bomb and arson squad of the city Detective Bureau, organized several months ago, has made more than a score of arrests in connection with fires and bombings.

Farmer Experts Study Cornborer

WARSAW, Poland, May 26.—(AP.)—The third international cornborer conference opened today in the ministry of agriculture with delegates present from the United States, Denmark, Sweden, Hungary, Jugoslavia and Austria as well as Poland. America was represented by H. T. Ellinger, of Chicago.

CRUISERS TAKE PAIR IN HOLDUP

Isadore Hallman, taxi driver of 2121 Webster avenue, complained to Acting Sergt. Edward Wagner at Center Avenue Station, that four men had robbed him of $3 after he drove them from Wylie avenue and Washington street to the vicinity of Fifth Avenue High School.

Wagner notified the police radio station, and reports sent out were picked up by the Oakland and Center avenue cruisers. At Gist and Locust streets, the cruisers reported arresting James Harper, 24, of 1813 Locust street, and James Ward, 27, of 36 Gist street. Police said the driver identified both men. The suspects denied the robbery and said there had been a fight in which the driver took part, according to police.

A victim of footpads, Speed Condon, 44, of the Argonne Hotel, was in Mercy Hospital today with a laceration of the head. Condon was walking in Bluff street, near the Duquesne University, when two men slugged him and took $35 from his pockets, police said.

BOARD TO LET SCHOOL JOBS

On recommendations made at last night's meeting by the committee on property and supplies, contracts for new school construction, totaling $264,411, were to be let today by the Board of Public Education.

The committee also recommended awarding 33 contracts for new floors, painting, paving, grading and repairs at various city schools, cost of which will be more than $26,000, it was said.

Award of a general contract for the new Mifflin School to the Davis-Smith Company, low bidders at $207,100, was recommended. Other recommendations for the school are heating and ventilating, Steel City Heating and Plumbing Company, $20,604; plumbing, Iron City Plumbing Company, $19,000.

Recommendations for work at the Larimer School addition, the H. B. Davis School, Fairview School and the Clifford B. Connelley Trade School were also made.

JUNEAU, Alaska, May 26.—(AP.)—With a bag of six brown bears, United States Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine; State Senator Samuel Stern, of North Dakota, and Seth Richardson, assistant United States Attorney General, were en route to Ketchikan today aboard the steamer Alaska. Each man killed two bears.

MAN, 2 WOMEN HELD IN RAIDS

Mary Domain, of 2113 Sarah street; Charles Spakjas, of 2119 Sarah street, and Mrs. Goempel, of the Walton road, Baldwin Township, were reported arrested last night by prohibition agents in raids in which home brew was reported seized.

Twelve gallons of home brew were said to have been seized in the Domain residence, with 12 gallons of beer mash; two cases of home brew and seven gallons of moonshine in the Spakjas home, and 10 gallons of home brew in the Baldwin Township house.

EXPERT TELLS OF SKIN CARE

"Pittsburgh women have the most difficult skins in the world because of the particles of dirt in the air—yet they achieve smartness," Manka Rubinstein, sister and co-worker of Helena Rubinstein, at Horne's this week, said today.

To combat this handicap, Pittsburgh women should refrain from merely pasting on their makeup, according to the beauty expert.

The newest trend in makeup is to be natural, she said, using less and lighter rouge and playing up the lips and eyes discriminatingly.

MARKET CURB SALES LEGAL, CLARK SAYS

Unable to Remove Vendors, Director Tells Lease Holders Who Protested

As long as vendors around the Diamond Market House possess permits issued by the Bureau of City Property, Public Safety Director Clark cannot have them removed, he told Council yesterday.

In making a report to Council, following complaint by occupants of the Market House that the vendors were interfering with their business, Clark pointed out the vendors were working on city property and had full authority to do so by reason of the permits.

Clark said:

"The only way they can be stopped is by revocation of their licenses. I have given my officers instructions to arrest any vendor who shouts his wares."

A delegation of florists visited Council yesterday, protesting against curbstone flower sellers. Council was asked to take regulatory action. President John S. Herron said if the florists would bring in facts and figures, something might be done.

More than 2,000 Italo-Americans and representatives of 20 lodges of the Sons of Italy of America and other societies attended the ceremony which marked the anniversary of the entry into the World War.

Speakers included Dr. Giovanni Giurato, the Italian vice consul of Pittsburgh, and Dr. A. E. Abbate, one of the pioneers of the Order of the Sons of Italy. Salvatore Sunseri was chairman of the meeting.

FACTS NEEDED IN ADVERTISING

The kind of advertising that is doing a profitable job is going about its business unobtrusively, but deliberately, based upon facts, not hunches, Layman Hill, of the Geyer Company, Dayton, O., declared before the Pittsburgh Advertising Club at its luncheon today in Fort Pitt Hotel.

He said:

"The new school of successful business executives recognizes that the way to increase profits is not by forcing upon the market that which the company is equipped to make, but rather to find out what the market wants and to force the plant to make it."

"GRANNIE," BOSTON TERRIER, HELPING "WEENIE," DASCHUND MOTHER, WITH HER FIVE AWFULLY HUNGRY LITTLE PUPPIES

A helpful Boston terrier doing her 12-hour stretch with the long-chassis puppies of "Weenie," Daschund mother belonging to Dr. E. Ferron, 715 Arch street. Before he found "Grannie," Dr. Ferron fed the pups 12 hours daily, a friend the other 12!

HELPS MOTHER RAISE PUPPIES

Two mothers are successfully pulling five valuable dachshund puppies through the early days of infancy on the North Side. The pups are full-blooded and just as long as chassis (for their age) as their mother, Weenie, property of Dr. E. Ferron, 715 Arch street.

Born Friday, May 15, the puppies were early embarrassed by a lack of sufficient food, as supplied by their mother. For the first few days, Dr. Ferron spent 12 hours a day feeding them with a nipple and bottle, a friend substituting for him the other 12 hours.

Far more satisfactory, the pups indicate, is the present system, under which Weenie serves for 12 hours and Grannie, a Boston terrier, pinch-hits while the mother recuperates. Weenie has no objections and gets along fine with Grannie, Dr. Ferron reports.

Swinging Crane Breaks Worker's Leg

John Fitch, 57, 408 Sixth street, McKeesport, is in McKeesport Hospital today with probable fracture of the right leg and shoulder. A bricklayer, Fitch was working on a new building for the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Company, Glassport, when a casting lifted by a crane swung and struck him.

The ceremonies, in charge of the 6th Division, 4th Naval district, United States Naval Reserve, of which Lieut. J. H. Cox is commander, will include a brief address by a clergyman.

The division will board the boat at Lock No. 1 in the Allegheny River and move to the Point at 10:30 a. m.

MINE FIRE COST SET AT $26,000

An agreement to divide on a 3-to-1 ratio the cost of extinguishing a mine fire burning on the McShane property, at the Crafton-Pittsburgh line, was in Council's hands today.

Cost of putting out the blaze is estimated at $26,000. The city will pay three-fourths of the bill.

More than $10,000 has been spent already by the city, under a councilmanic appropriation. Work will be resumed soon.

The average wage of the Allegheny County workman has steadily increased since 1923, while the total value of production has decreased, according to a study published yesterday by H. W. Correll, statistician of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. In 1929 the wage had increased from $1,441 to $1,482 since 1923, according to the study.

Allegheny County produced almost 19 per cent of the entire output of the state, while the economic Pittsburgh district, embodying Beaver, Butler, Fayette, Washington, Westmoreland and Allegheny counties, with Pittsburgh as the center of trade and distribution, produced more than 28 per cent of the output of the entire state in 1929. The average wage for Allegheny County workmen was $312 more than the average throughout the state, Correll pointed out.

Hearing on Condition Of Oval Requested

Request for a hearing by the Schenley Matinee Club, relative to condition of the stables and track at the Schenley Oval was to be considered today by a councilmanic committee.

A special committee has been appointed to confer with Council by the club, a communication said. Roof tops are leaking and the stables are in general bad shape, the letter to Council said.

BLACKHEADS?
SUNBURN?

Nurses tell how to end these common flaws

FIVE TINY flaws—and just one of them is enough to ruin a naturally lovely skin.

But there's no need now for your complexion to have even one defect. For nurses have discovered a quick, easy way to end all five of these common skin faults—a way that already has been successfully used by over 6,000,000 women—Noxzema Cream.

Noxzema's special formula is the secret of its many different results. It contains soothing emollients that soften rough, scaly skin. A mild medication that clears away blemishes—rids the pores of poisons and harmful wastes corrects excessive oiliness. Gentle astringents that shrink coarse pores to exquisite fineness. No wonder dull, faded complexions become so youthfully fresh and charming.

See for yourself the glorious new beauty Noxzema can bring your skin. Try it tonight. Instantly you'll feel your skin grow softer and smoother. Tomorrow morning you'll see how much clearer—finer-textured—it has become.

Don't be content with a "pretty good" complexion, when it is so easy to have a really lovely skin. Get a small jar of Noxzema today.

Do You Know How Little It Costs to Own a La Salle?

There are three reasons why it is easily possible to overestimate the cost of La Salle ownership. La Salle prices are now several hundred dollars lower than they were two years ago—a fact which many people overlook. The cost of La Salle service—which you can buy on a yearly basis, for a definite and pre-determined sum—is much less than most buyers estimate. Finally, many forget that a La Salle is kept and driven far longer than the average automobile—thus reducing enormously the item of depreciation. Actually, all things considered, it is more economical to own a La Salle V-8 than a lesser automobile. Won't you come in today—and let us prove this by facts and figures?

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Subscribers For Plays Announced

Before talking about a number of things, one of marked interest in this romantic season, I want to chat about the Professional Players, who will come to Pittsburgh in the winter to present six plays at the Alvin Theater.

A short time ago I mentioned the Players and that Mrs. H. C. Bushman is chairman. And today I want to mention some of the notable subscribers.

Among them are the junior George A. Bergins, the junior William Penn Snyders, the Simon T. Patersons, the William Christopher Robinsons, the T. M. Joneses III, the H. N. Van Voorhises, the Donald C. Bakewells and the G. Faber Downings.

The Alan Magee Seaples are subscribers, and so are the Lewis A. Parks, the Morgan B. Schillers, the Dorwin J. Donnellys, Malcolm McGiffin, George R. Hann, the T. Howe Nimicks and the George Collinson Burgwins.

Others are Dr. and Mrs. Edward McCague, the J. Hanson Roses, the Thomas Robinsons, the John Bissells, Dr. Lester Hollander, the Junior Harmar D. Dennys, the Joseph Dilworths, the Herbert A. Mays, the Theodore F. Smiths, the Carroll Fitzhughs, the George S. Olivers, John Hess, the Charles Flaceuses, and the Paul B. Dickeys.

Support Players

Capt. and Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller have subscribed, and so have the junior William R. Blairs, the Alexander Laughlins, the R. T. Fricks, Miss Dorothy Slack, Mrs. John Neale, Mrs. James B. Laughlin, the John W. Lawrences, the R. H. McClintics, the Lawrence Alderdices, the Lawrence Blairs, the Raymond Hillards, Mrs. Remsen V. Messler, Mrs. Harvey Childs, Jr., the Ledlie W. Youngs, the George C. Hutchinsons, Mrs. Clinton L. Childs, the Richard G. Jenningses, the Harry J. Millers and Mrs. W. H. R. Hillard.

I know you have all been agog to hear just who would be chosen for the bridal party of Elizabeth Dewey Wells, daughter of Mrs. Benjamin Glyde Wells, of the Schenley Apartments, whose marriage to Rowland Erving, son of Mrs. Howland H. Erving, of Cathedral Mansions, is taking place on June 8. And today I can tell you everyone who will be in it. First I want to mention again that the ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the Third Presbyterian Church. Betty, you know, is a granddaughter of the late Calvin Wells, of Pittsburgh, and her fiance is the grandson of the late Mrs. James McKay.

Bridal Party

Louise Dewey Marsh, niece of the bride, will be the maid of honor, and her small niece, Mary Glyde Marsh, will be the flower girl. The bridesmaids will include Mrs. James I. Marsh, Mrs. Calvin Wells, Betty McKay, Elizabeth Rutan and Mrs. Paul Havilland, all of Pittsburgh; Petrice Mutch, of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mrs. Louis B. Wells, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Raymond G. Scarlett, of Baltimore.

Serving as best man will be the bridegroom's cousin, James Chambers McKay, and the ushers will include Morris C. Benney, Willam D. George, Jr., Wilson M. Book, Alan Evans, George Pearson Rhodes, Jr., James McKay and Edward Hill, all of Pittsburgh; Gerder Lee, of Germantown, Pa.; Thomas C. Hughes, of Edgewater Park, N. J., and Louis B. Wells, of Philadelphia.

There will be a small reception in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. James I. Marsh, of Wallingford street, after the ceremony.

Dormont Literature Group Gives Amusing 'Radio' Program at Lunch

Dignity was waved a temporary farewell yesterday by the literature department of the Dormont New Century Club when the members held their annual luncheon at the St. Clair Country Club. The amusing and original program was a "radio broadcast." The radio was there, right enough, and was tuned by the day's chairman, Mrs. F. E. Houghtelin.

Mrs. Richard B. Perry, announcer for "the premier" literature department of Dormont, Station DNCC, gave the correct time and started the program with the aid of an alarm clock and some records. The "Clara, Lou and Em" of Mrs. C. C. Taylor, Mrs. Harry Starke and Mrs. Henry Heck was decidedly clever and a good imitation. Mrs. Clarence W. Scheck gave a reading and, incidentally, the profuse decorations of spirea and purple iris came from Mrs. Scheck's gardens.

Mrs. C. B. Clover, as "Towel Thomas," described department affairs, and then in a "television broadcast" a sextet of members displayed costumes and lingerie and sang (!) songs of the nineties. This group included Mrs. J. W. Young, Jr., Mrs. Houghtelin, Mrs. Donald P. Maxwell, Mrs. William Westwater, Mrs. Fred Mai and Mrs. George Francisco, the new department head.

On behalf of the department, Mrs. G. B. Roberts presented a sterling basket filled with lilies of the valley to Mrs. H. H. Heinrich who has resigned the chairmanship of the department to become president of the club.

The booklet place cards, made of wall paper, were as original as the program, which they carried between their covers.

The annual "in and out" luncheon, at which the outgoing and incoming directors are the guests of those who remain on the board, was the usual gay affair at the Congress of Clubs yesterday. Mrs. G. L. W. Price, chairman, had provided original couplets describing characteristics of each woman present. Mrs. L. F. Wentz and Mrs. H. D. Stark, garbed as a bridal couple, presented Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, retiring president, with a bouquet of sweetpeas and as many roses as there are letters in her name. These she gave to the outgoing directors. Each one present spoke briefly, and a contest was conducted by Mrs. Florence D. Kinney. Mrs. Johnston was presented with a platinum and diamond filagree pin.

PARIS FAVORS PAJAMAS IN GAY HUES FOR SPORTS WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 26.—Add to new outdoor sports the game of wearing pajamas for golf, walking or tennis. For we now have sports pajamas even if the models already shown do look very decorative. Perhaps the new models are called sports pajamas to distinguish them from the indoor variety, for it is rather difficult to think of participating in a tennis or golf game wearing such a costume. But for afternoons on the terrace of some delightful country house, one could think of nothing nicer and more appropriate to the surroundings. Yachting pajamas have been very popular and so perhaps some of the prettiest models are developing land legs. For wear on any vessel afloat from a palatial yacht to a boat with a tiny motor, yachting pajamas are ideal and they have a natty nautical look to them that is simply grand.

* * *

TODAY WE HAVE sent over two sketches showing two smart pajama ensembles culled from Worth's new and very comprehensive collection. The figure without the hat is wearing Worth's new pajamas for sports. The pajamas are in green and white striped crepe de chine of a heavy quality, while the belted jacket is of white silk pique. Over the short sleeves is worn a handkerchief scarf of the pique trimmed with bands of the striped crepe. The pajamas are extremely wide below the knee.

* * *

THE OTHER MODEL is a much more sporty looking affair. The material is navy blue wool jersey. The jacket buttons far over at one side and has a belt which is set in across the back. The sleeves end in ribbed cuffs like a sweater sleeve. There is a deep pleat at each side of the front and there is a tuck-in blouse of white and navy foulard with short sleeves.

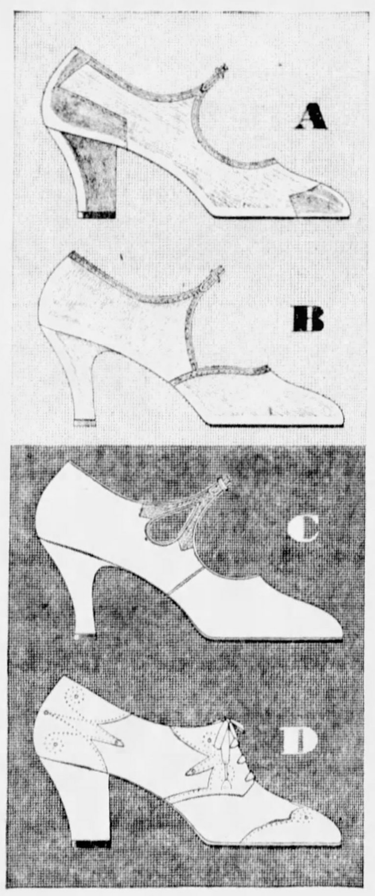
How many shoes make a

Smart Weekend?

$5



THIS is a deep question to decide right now for all summer, since Memorial Day, July Fourth and Labor Day all bring week-end holidays this season. And better one pair of shoes too many than one pair short of the kind that you need with each costume! For types of shoes . . . and heel-heights . . . have great fashion significance now. White vs. Linen needs study, too, and comfort should always be considered!

What You Do Dictates the Shoe:

If you're going away, an "en route" shoe: dark, for train travel . . . or one of our beige-browns for a motor trip.

¶ A rubber-soled sport-calf, if you play golf or tramp along country roads.

¶ A daytime white shoe, for around hotels.

¶ A dressy slipper for late afternoon and summer nights . . . silk pump (tinted like your frock) or milk-white kid.

¶ And don't forget Pajama Slippers, and Hosiery. See our new skin-tone stocking-shades . . . the smart thing with white shoes. Dull twist, $1 and $1.35.

About VALUE in Nisley Shoes:

Our white shoes, of the soft, fine leathers that hold their shape and clean so well . . . are an excellent example of Nisley values. We build all our own shoes in our own plants for our more than fifty stores and sell direct to you at one profit. We shape every shoe over a true-fitting last and carry a wide range of sizes. Finally, we fit you with conscientious care, and accord you the courtesy of a guest in our stores.

A Tosca cloth—a shantung weave, with maple calf.

B Ducklin fabric, natural linen tone, brown trim.

C Evening slipper, white kid with white reptile calf trim.

D White kid oxford with tailored heel.

F Arch Comfort dressy white two-strap slipper.

G White Nu Buck with brown or black calf banding and heel.

H Sport-calf shoe in beige and brown; rubber sole and heel.

OF DENTISTS NOW TELL THE BEST WAY TO CARE FOR TEETH

IT WOULDN'T be strange if you sometimes wonder if you really are taking the most effective care of your teeth and gums. There are dozens of different dentifrices—and countless conflicting theories about oral hygiene. What is right?

An important question! So E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a prominent research institution to conduct an investigation among 50,000 American dentists—a real court of authority. Here is the summary of the answers received:

95% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation;

95% agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet;

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Could you have any more conclusive evidence that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums? It is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia.

Try Squibb's. It cleans beautifully — and safely. Contains no grit, no astringents—nothing which might injure. It refreshes the mouth as it cleans. Great for smokers!

FIRE INSURANCE THE BULWARK OF TRADE

THE volume of trade in the United States is estimated at more than 80 billion dollars annually. Probably 90 percent of this is transacted on credit.

The underlying safeguard of credit is Stock Fire Insurance, with more than 150 billions of dollars constantly at risk in the protection of property in this country against fire losses, with an almost equal amount covering hail, windstorm, earthquake and other hazards.

This background of protection against disaster makes commerce on its present gigantic scale possible.

The Silent Partner of Everyone

Few indeed are the activities of the home or of business that are not benefited directly or indirectly by the stabilizing effect of Stock Fire Insurance and the security that it affords.

Stock Fire Insurance is the silent partner in every enterprise—the Bulwark of Trade. It has rendered its service at a cost which on the average has constantly declined for many years.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

has also contributed in many ways to the greater safety of life and property. Its sponsors believe that the foremost gain to any individual or community lies in preventing those losses which no amount of insurance can cover.

TELL IT TO SALLY

—By SALLY MARTIN—

Are Husbands as Willing To Forgive as Wives?

Should a wife forgive the baby born of her husband's heedlessness? Should she stand by him when he tries to atone by lies? Should she help him right the wrong he has done to an innocent child, or should she break with him?

This was the question bewildered Broadwick Edith A. put up to this department the problem her repentant husband had put up to her.

"Oh, yeah," says Felice. "A man would pick something like that . . . after two-timing his wife . . . but I wonder what he would do if the shoe were on the other foot, and the wife were the cheater? He'd throw her out! That's what he would do—if he was in his right senses. And the chances are you think Felice is right.

Serious Question

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I read your column constantly, and a good many times I've thought I'd like to get in on some of the discussions, but up till now I've kept still. But today I've read something there that has rotten under the skin and I just must speak up. I mean that article about Edith A., whose husband had the nerve to ask her to accept and raise his child by another woman.

"I just want to ask one little question. I think I know ahead of time what the answer will be . . . but I'd like to get in on this anyway. Just how many men would accept and raise a child as their own if it were the wife who had 'slipped'?

"If there's a man in existence who will say he would do it and I'd like to be there when he forgives' the little wife's, then he should have his head examined 'mentally unbalanced' and dealt —or be instantly tagged as with accordingly. Because from what I've seen of men, I know that not one of them, if he were in his right senses, would do any such thing.

"I knew of one case myself. And what did that husband do? Why, he threw his wife out! Got a divorce and shoved her out in the cold. Men can tell you fast enough just what to do. But what a difference it makes when the shoe is on the other foot!

"And it is always very evident that a woman is expected to forgive and forget when her husband gets gay. But the men? Never! There's not built that way! Not if they're normal males.

FELICE."

Disagrees With Felice

No? Well it takes all kinds of people to make a world, sister . . . and I can tell you, from actual experience, that there are risen by enough and fine enough to forgive an erring wife.

I knew of a husband who did exactly what you say no normal man would do. He was a common carpenter. Yet even the common Carpenter could have acted no more nobly in such a crisis. This man loved his wife devotedly. But he was quiet, and unemotive. And she was young, gay, impulsive. And for a little while she secretly strayed. He knew it, but she did not know that he knew it.

Tells of Mistake

Then, one day, she awoke to her shame and sent the other man away. But she could not so easily dismiss the consequences of her act. A babe was to be born. She told her husband that it was his—knowing in her heart that it was not. He knew—but he did not tell. He welcomed the babe and reared it with his own little son—giving it all love and loyalty.

Years later, when her conscience forced her to confess, she discovered the truth. But he only held her closer, while she cried out her terrible abasement. . . . That was love. Love big enough and real enough to understand . . . to know that human hearts make mistakes . . . and be sorry.

The love of a real man.

Window-Box Farming Usually Ends When First Bug Appears—Fay King

By FAY KING

At this time of the year the city pavement pounders go rustic in a big way.

We see them fairly floating along in the clouds of their horticultural dreams, clinging to a small rose bush, a feeble fern or a tiny fruit tree.

His "acreage" may be no more than a small back yard, but no "landed gentry" ever made a more extensive and intensive study of the science of agriculture.

If we see a fellow passenger wearing a look of great ecstasy it is but the manifestation of her great faith in the flower seeds she has just bought.

The enthusiasm for her window-box garden does not abate until that unhappy day when she encounters her first bug—then "farming" is over!

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

—By ADELE GARRISON—

Tense Moments Follow "Accident" to Costly Veritzen Vase.

I think there were but one or two in the startled group around the Christmas tree who had any other thought except anxious commiseration for Dicky as he stumbled and fell while carrying from mantel to table the exquisite crystal and silver container of roses which Philip Veritzen had brought to me.

But I knew that the fall was no accident.

"Oh, I am so sorry, Madge!" he said. "That exquisite thing! How unutterably awkward of me! Is it ruined, Ronald?"

"I am afraid it is," Ronald replied, looking ruefully at the once exquisite thing in his hand. "Will you look at it? But look out, it's hot."

He held out the container, its crystal gone, its delicate filigree work bent in a dozen places, for the thing had been hurled with a vigorous hand, and Dicky shook his head dolorously.

"It's hopeless, I am afraid," he said. "Veritzen, I owe you an apology, too. To spoil anything as lovely as this is a crime."

"An accident is always pardonable," my employer returned, and something in his voice made me look at him sharply and realize that he shared my knowledge of how skillfully planned had been the "accident." His eyelids flickered toward me as he spoke, and I wondered if he intended me to guess his perspicacity. "But fortunately the silversmith who designed that container is still alive. I can have another made."

Dicky's "No!" in answer to Mr. Veritzen's offer was so explosive that I fairly jumped. But the next instant he was volubly explaining.

"What!" he said, "permit you to go to so much trouble and expense because of my carelessness! Never! Just let me have the address of the man, and I'll have this duplicated."

"That is impossible," Mr. Veritzen said coldly. "I do not make gifts in that fashion."

"Nor do I break them without reparation," Dicky began haughtily, but Harry Underwood swung him around as one might a refractory child.

"Lil, you hold Alphonse," he drawled, "while I deal with Gaston, here. First thing you know you'll be fighting to see which pays for the drinks. You're too darned polite, both of you, that's what's the matter with you. Here!" He took the shattered container from Dicky's hand and passed it to me. "Put that away, Mrs. Madge, maybe you can take a few stitches in it later. Just now, may I remind the assembled old folks that we have a job waiting for us in the basement."

"Oh! the surprise!" Helena Brixton ejaculated, innocently completing the diversion which Harry Underwood, I guessed, had deliberately planned. "I've heard so much about it. I'm crazy to see what you're doing. May I help?"

"Of course," I answered, and the next five minutes found us all in the transformed basement playroom, which was rapidly being invested with the furnishings which had been secreted in various parts of our house and that of the Ticers during the days just past.

"My word!" said Helena Brixton, as she gazed around the room. "If this isn't a boy's paradise I never saw one. Work benches, pool tables, a punching bag, a platform with a real curtain, and what's this with a rope around it?"

"That, my dear lady," Mr. Underwood drawled, is a portion of the floor which is to serve as an arena for our youthful pugilists, when they need to let off steam."

"Please pinch me, somebody," she pleaded prettily, "I can't be awake. You people certainly are moderns, or old Romans, I can't decide which. Oh! there's something I understand, that electric train. You don't mean there are two of them!"

"One of them is old," I said. "Junior had his first one three years ago, and we add to it every year. But Roderick never has had one, so this year we bought one for him, and we're setting up two rival systems."

"Which is most fortunate," Lillian drawled, "otherwise Harry and Dicky would certainly stage a duel before morning over the laying of those tracks. As it is they'll have a train apiece to play with, and I hope they sit up all night and get it out of their systems. Otherwise Roderick and Junior will find themselves railroad engineers in name only tomorrow."

Under cover of the laughter which followed her sally, Philip Veritzen put a quick low query to me.

"Did your husband fall with that container on purpose?" he asked.

We hear little these days about "old-fashioned rheumatism." The disease has not disappeared, however, but the name has changed.

"Rheumatism" was a term that covered a multitude of ailments. Regardless of what the ailment might really be, if there was any pain in a joint, it was spoken of as rheumatism.

There were as many patent medicines sold for this ailment as there are planets in the solar system. Grandmother had her own pet liniment, "a cure for rheumatism." In her goodness of heart she was always anxious for every sufferer to try it.

It is the effort of modern medicine to be accurate. Accuracy is important, not only in the treatment of disease, but in the description of diseases. Diseases can be adequately dealt with only when properly understood.

The term "rheumatism" has been placed in the background because more accurate descriptive terms have been found. Though the effects of the complaint and particularly the pain are identical, it is now customary to speak of joint pain as "arthritis."

Likewise, we have special types of arthritis, as "atrophic," or "hypertrophic arthritis" and "rheumtoid arthritis." True rheumatism with involvement of the joints, is spoken of as "rheumatic fever," although it may be associated with true arthritis.

All this may seem unnecessary and unimportant. However, it is quite important for the physician to know whether he is dealing with atrophic or hypertrophic arthritis and as to whether or not there is true rheumatic involvement.

Recourse to the X-ray, examination of the blood and urine, in addition to a study of the symptoms of the sufferer, are needed to determine accurately the nature of the disease. This accuracy is of vital importance for the future welfare of the patient.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. K. Q.—Is it healthful to drink water before breakfast every morning? Will this relieve or help an acid stomach?

A.—Yes, the acidity should be overcome by proper diet and regular elimination.

* * *

A READER. Q.—Would infected or diseased tonsils be apt to affect the bladder?

A.—Not necessarily, although the infection from this source would naturally affect the entire system, to a greater or lesser extent. Have the tonsils removed if they are diseased.

* * *

V. T. Q.—What will develop the legs?

A.—Exercise should be helpful toward this end. Jumping, skating, brisk walking, running, as well as dancing, are of value under the circumstances.

Household Hints

Get the house plants out into the refreshing spring rains and see how quickly they thrive after their long winter. Rainwater contains carbonic acid ammonia, which serves as fertilizer.

If you have no facilities for storing your fur coat and you are doubtful of moths, send your coat and valuable furs to a furrier for over the summer months. The storage is very small and worth the damage one small moth can do.

A great deal of the litter from sewing may be avoided if the housewife will just keep the top drawer of her sewing machine empty and as she sews she will put all the loose threads, clippings, ravelings, etc., in there. At the end of the day she has only to empty her drawer into the trash basket and all the sewing remnants are gone.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A red hat reflects its glowing color on the face; when it is worn, factory blushes should be soft pedaled. If rouge is dark and heavy, it takes on a purple tone when a blue hat is worn. White powder makes rouge of any color look patchy; rachelle or ivory powder is better. White-haired ladies find mauve powder flattering.

Pure Egyptian henna does no harm to the hair. Made into a paste by the addition of boiling water and applied to brown hair, it will give an auburn glint. Henna compounds are something different. In these preparations henna is used as the carrying agent for dyes that impart various hues and shades. A henna paste, with a small quantity of peroxde added, will put new gilt on copper colored hair that has darkened.

Elbows are sadly neglected. The skin is coarse there, due to the fact that the elbow is a hinge and that flesh puckers and huddles when the arm is straightened. Get a tube of lanolin, and rub the contents into the skin surface. It will tend to make the epidermis of finer texture and will do away with grayness that often collects there, not because the skin isn't properly clean, but because it is in need of soothing oils.

Little chignons of half a dozen curls or puffs are being worn by the girls who like to skip ahead of the fashion parade. To sport these chignon ringlets it is necessary to be blessed with naturally curly hair, or to buy a hard-boiled wave at the beauty shop. The best length of hair for the arrangement is six inches. The back hair is tied, and the puffs are fastened with invisible hair pins, supported by a narrow barette.

Blonde hair that has been overbleached is hair that is burned almost to a crisp. It takes on the character of jute and that is why the ordinary soap and water shampoo is so difficult to achieve. Better to use eggs as a cleansing agent. Beat six slightly, adding a tablespoonful of warm water. Rinse the hair, friction in half the eggs, rinse, use the rest of the eggs, give a final flushing with a bath spray. The lemon rinse—juice of three lemons to a quart of water—is a help.

Correct Manners

—By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN—

Don't Leave Them Out In the Cold

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct to invite certain persons whom you would want to visit you, while in the presence of those whom you do not ask to visit you? I have seen this done several times, and it seems to me that it makes people whom you do invite feel very much embarrassed.

2. Also, it is correct to use the left hand to handle the fork when eating, or is there no rule of etiquette about this?

S. S.

1. Indeed, this is embarrassing to the ones "left out in the cold." And when it happens, there is nothing for them to do to cover their natural embarrassment except to smile, smile, smile pleasantly and try to look as if one hadn't been disregarded. There is no excuse for a person's being so rude and thoughtless as this.....is there?

2. We must all choose for ourselves whether we wish to eat in the fork-shifting manner or the non-fork-shifting manner. If we shift our fork to the right hand, after we have cut off a piece of meat, it is quite correct, and indeed is usually done in this country. But the non-fork-shifting method .....about which I am more enthusiastic.....is, we must admit, less fussy, less full of unnecessary motions.

To the Victor Belongs the Bridge Prize

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Not long ago I attended an evening bridge party. There were three tables. At 11 o'clock an extra couple came in. The hostess gave her tally to the late-comers and went to the kitchen to attend to the refreshments. We played four hands more and later the hostess presented the latecomers with the bridge prize. Who was most at fault, the hostess or the late guests. The hostess had high score all evening. Others who had played all evening received no prize at all. And this party was supposed to be in honor of another couple who were leaving the city, but they were not mentioned in any way at all.

The hostess is one who is supposed to do the proper things at all times. Just for my own satisfaction I would like to know what you think about it.

PUZZLED.

I think that the hostess did quite the right thing. Since she herself had had high score all the evening, and since she gave her tally to the guest who took her place, and since apparently the guest kept up the good work, the prize belonged to the guest. There was no reason why the guests of honor should have been given a prize . . . the prize belonged to the winner.

CONSTIPATION BRINGS MANY ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings despondency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WILLEBRANDT FIRM SUED

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP.)—A $250,000 suit for damages has been filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court against Fruit Industries, Ltd., a grape concentrate concern represented here by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition.

The plaintiff, L. W. McCormick, who described himself as an organizer of sales companies here, contended that Donald Conn, managing director of Fruits Industries, Ltd., had engaged him to organize sales organizations to market the grape concentrate in certain sections.

McCormick claimed Conn had later assigned to other sales organizations the activities in these sections.

Suspect in Trooper Killing Goes to Jail

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., May 26.—(AP.)—Marshall Lodge, held on a charge of killing Sergt. T. G. McCarthy, of the state police, has been removed from the Chambersburg Hospital to the Fulton County Jail at McConnellsburg. McCarthy was killed May 12 when he and other officers went to serve a warrant on Lodge at his home near Crystal Springs. During a siege of his house, Lodge was wounded, and his right arm was amputated at the hospital here.

Prize Beauty Tells How She Rose So Quickly To Nationwide Fame

that there was suffering and terror in life.

Up to the age of 15 I had never been to a movie, had never danced or played cards. All these amusements were forbidden to us children. But after seeing that other children enjoyed them, we wanted also to do so and after much persuasion were given the privilege.

At 16 I started to go to dances at country clubs, university dances and private homes. About this time I met a very dear college boy of whom I became very fond. We were—in our youthful way—"engaged." I wore his fraternity pin until shortly after I was married, in fact. He and I spent much of our time together on the Merrimac River, swimming, canoeing and tramping about. I had never got over my childish delight of roaming in the woods and the Ozark Mountains were heaven to me.

During my high school years I played basketball and baseball on the school teams. I was very happy and proud of being selected as star forward on the all-county team. Indeed, I was more proud of my athletic record than I was of my popularity as leading lady in the school plays. One summer, for instance, I swam from Valley Park to Castlewood, a distance of about 10 miles. I suppose you might say that I was really one of the few bathing beauties who could really swim.

Likes Stage

Aside from athletics, I was very much interested in amateur theatrical doings and enjoyed acting in plays. They usually selected me for leading parts, as I have said, at school and once in a while there would flash in my mind the ambition to be a great actress.

You can imagine, then, how thrilled I was after graduating from high school in 1923 to be chosen to model in the annual St. Louis Style Show at the Municipal Opera. I was only 17 years old then. As many of my friends were in the show we all had lots of fun. It was really a pleasure to display beautiful clothes and, in fact, it was then I began to have a desire for fine clothes—to be dressed like a lady all the time!

It was at this time a beauty contest was being held for the purpose of selecting a girl to represent St. Louis at the National Beauty Contest at Atlantic City. A friend of mine sent in my picture. I didn't know anything about it at the time.

One day I received a special delivery letter requesting me to appear at a certain studio and to bring my bathing suit. Twenty girls had been chosen from hundreds of photographs to come in person to this studio.

By a process of elimination I was selected winner by three judges, the Mayor of St. Louis, an artist and a newspaper owner. All my friends were happy for me. I was treated royally and a big fuss was made over me.

Parents Opposed

My parents, however, were very much opposed to my going to Atlantic City, even though they were assured I was to be accompanied by a chaperone. They were terribly afraid it would not be good for me. I laughed about it at the time. But now I wonder. Looking at the careers of some of the beauty prize winners I can see how many of them, as well as myself, might better have stayed at home.

For instance, there was Julia Bruns, who also came from St. Louis. After becoming "Miss North St. Louis" she won fame on the stage in New York, London and Paris. She became wealthy, owned an apartment in fashionable Sutton Place, New York—then popped up suddenly in the news, charged with the theft of $4,000 worth of jewels. Her career ended, I understand, in death.

Then there was Sarah Gillespie, the pretty southern girl who married Clyde Byfield and was enjoying a happy married life when she decided to enter a beauty pageant contest. As a result of publicity the Byfields attracted a lot of attention, began to mingle with the wealthy people of their home town and soon became entangled in lawsuits—finally ending in divorce. Miss Marjorie Smith, who was "Miss Toronto," found a husband, but her romance ended in the divorce courts.

Others Fail

I could tell you several others, but these will serve as a few examples of the misfortune that strangely seems to hover about beauty prize winners. I don't mean to say I am superstitious, yet I now wish my parents had had their own way in the matter when I finally left St. Louis for Atlantic City.

Yet upon my arrival in the seaside resort everything seemed grand. A friend in St. Louis had written to quite a few notables in Atlantic City, telling them of my arrivel there. The moment I descended from the steps of the train I was overcome. Crowds were cheering and applauding me. Everything seemed so bright, so gay then. I was thrilled.

But even during those first few hours in the city I felt the eyes of a man watching me constantly. They were eyes that were to watch me jealously during the ensuing years.

BAN ON CHAINS FOR CONVICTS

JOLIET, May 26.—(Universal.)—The practice of chaining prisoners to cell doors was virtually banished from the Illinois State Prison today by Warden Henry C. Hill. The warden also abolished the system of placing prisoners on a bread and water diet for unlimited periods.

In his order the warden provided that handcuffing of prisoners in solitary confinement to the door bars is to be resorted to only in "more serious cases." Even then, he specified, permission for chaining a prisoner must be obtained from him.

Ever since Illinois has had a state prison, the custom has been to handcuff to the doors all prisoners placed in solitary confinement. Discarding of the system is attributed directly to the revelation in the Hearst papers last March of how Joseph Coakley died in his cell after his hands had been locked to the door.

SHIFTS DENIED BY PENNINGTON

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—(AP.)—John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, said no general organization of the prohibition service in the tri-state area was contemplated for June 1, as reported.

Pennington said the plan of having federal agents co-operate with county officials in respect to bringing small violators to trial in county courts in order to prevent clogging the federal dockets had been in operation in Pennsylvania for five years, and in Delaware for several years. The plan has not been used in New Jersey and there is no immediate prospect of adopting it in that state, Pennington said.

Real Estate

The property at 434 Wood street, 20x60 feet with a three-story building, has been sold to James R. Sterrett, according to L. W. Monteverde, salesmanager of the Real Estate Company of Pittsburgh, brokers in the sale. Although no consideration was made public, Monteverde says the property brought $175,000 at sale a few years ago. The seller's name was not revealed.

R. E. Barber, operating manager of the Oliver Estate, has been appointed vice president of the Building Owners and Managers Association, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Alfred Callender.

A group of individuals and business houses owning or occupying property in the vicinity of Smithfield street have formed an organization known as the Smithfield Street Association. The purpose of the association is the protection and encouragement of trade. The directors are Edgar J. Kaufmann, Philip C. Hodil, C. B. Fergus, J. W. Cree, Jr., Al J. DeRoy, C. Your car painted like new for $3!

3 million car owners say "YES"!

IF YOU saw a shop sign offering to paint your car like a factory finish for $3, you'd grab the opportunity to have a new looking car again at such little cost.

So quick and easy!

Especially when you knew that new paint could also add $50 or $100 to your car's trade-in value.

Yet that's just what you can do yourself with Steelcote the only perfected rubber base enamel.

$3 and you can make your car new with Steelcote—not an amateur job but an expert's finish—without a sign of brush mark or streak. It dries with a smooth, brilliant finish like baked enamel. One coat is usually enough and no varnish is needed.

And it's so quick and easy. You use it right over old lacquer, paint or any finish your car has. Hardly an hour's work. It dries over night. You can paint your car today and drive it tomorrow. Most durable finish of all.

It dries over night

Because it is made of an elastic base, it won't crack, peel or chip off. In all car colors. See a Steelcote dealer today.

Hub Leads in Pennants. • Singer Starts Anew.
Kremer Mars Buc Trip. Injunction Helps Fans.
Overlook Adams' Record. Youthful Golf Star.

BOSTON HAS WON 21 MAJOR FLAGS

IN VIEW OF the fact that Boston has not won a National League pennant for 17 years, it is not to be wondered at that Hub fans are inclined to become excited over the slightest promise of a new flag success and are all steamed up over the great managerial job that Bill McKechnie has done so far in keeping the Braves right in the thick of the Heydler fight. Every other city in the National League has won a championship since the Braves scored their sensational uphill victory in 1914, and Boston's citizens figure that their town is about due again.

Bill McKechnie

Yet the capture of a pennant should be less of a novelty in the Hub than anywhere else, for Boston has won more major league flags than any other city on the baseball map. No fewer than 21 big league championships stand to the credit of the Massachusetts capital, and it has also won the honors in a greater number of major organizations than any rival, having finished first at one time or another in five different big leagues.

FOUR OF BOSTON'S 21 pennants were won in the National Association, the first professional circuit, nine in the National League, six in the American League, one in the Players' League and one in the old American Association. The only cities to approach the Hub in pennant success in the majors are New York with 19 and Chicago with 16.

Boston's clubs also hold the distinction of never having been defeated in a world series. They have figured in six of the modern classics and have come through successfully every time, the Red Sox in 1903-12-15-16-18 and the Braves in 1914. The Hub Nationals also defeated Cleveland in the play-off following the split race of 1892. The only post-season defeat a Hub champion ever suffered was in the 1897 Temple Cup series with Baltimore.

AFTER STRETCHING THEIR winning streak to 17 straight with a double victory over the Yanks, the As today were within two games of the American League record for consecutive wins, set at 19 by Fielder Jones' White Sox, the hitless wonders, in 1906. In one respect the Mackmen's record surpasses that of the Sox, as the latter were held to a scoreless tie by New York after their first 11 victories and then went on to win eight more.

The White Elephants will have to do some tall stepping to equal one of their own previous performances, that of 1914, when though their string of consecutive triumphs was interrupted at 12, they won 39 out of 45 games between July 11 and September 1.

TWO OUT OF three for the Pirates over the Cubs wasn't so bad, all things considered, and if the Bucs can duplicate that showing in the St. Louis series opening today they will return home Friday from their long trip with the creditable record of eight victories against six defeats. In six games with three accepted pennant contenders—the Rollins, Giants and Cubs—since they left home, the Rovers won all but one. But for Remy Kremer's disappointing work the trip would have been a great success up to date. Kremer has pitched only one good game this season and has been lifted from five of his last seven engagements.

Wm. H. McCarthy

NOBODY HAS ANY fault to find with the probability that when the American League holds its special meeting in Cleveland tomorrow Secretary William Harridge will be elected president to succeed the late Ernest S. Barnard. Harridge is well qualified for the office and the choice is a wise one.

But at the same time, fans around the big loops are wondering what happened to upset the original plan whereby William H. McCarthy, former president of the Pacific Coast League, was to have been elected as Barnard's successor. He was the selection of Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and was said to have the support of five out of eight clubs, or enough to elect.

WHAT TURNED UP to change the situation and shift that support to Harridge has never been clearly explained. One rumor now has it that McCarthy was found to be unacceptable to Commissioner K. M. Landis but that report is not generally credited.

In the first place, Landis has nothing to do with the league presidencies, though the American naturally wishes to avoid further embarrassment such as it experienced when Ban Johnson and Landis were on unfriendly terms, and in the second place McCarthy's record on the coast in eliminating gambling and cleaning up the game is right in line with the Commissioner's own policies.

IN A LIST of remarkable pitching achievements credited to Cy Young by American League dopesters he is said to have gone a longer distance in one game without giving a base on balls than any other hurler in major league history. It was a 20-inning contest which he pitched for the Red Sox against the Athletics on the Fourth of July in 1905. Unquestionably a rare performance, but it has been beaten. The real record-holder is old Babe Adams, Pirate star of yesteryear, who in a game against Rube Marquard and the Giants at Forbes Field on July 17, 1914, went through 21 innings without passing a batter.

HAVING BOUGHT HIS own contract from his former manager, Hymie Caplin, for $15,000, Al Singer says he is ready to start all over again from the bottom and hopes to fight his way up to a return match with Tony Canzoneri.

"Caplin was supposed to be the smart fellow," says the former titleholder. "He wanted to get rich over night. He put his money in the stock market. He hasn't got it now. I was the dummox. I bought 5 per cent bonds and still have mine. But I made something like $300,000 in three years with Hymie, so that after all I guess I make my new start with everything even. I have no kick coming."

THE INJUNCTION RESTRAINING Primo Carnera from going through with the scheduled 10-round fight with Jack Sharkey in Brooklyn on June 10 probably spells a break for the fans, though perhaps not for the promoters, if it is made permanent.

Should Tommy Loughran remain firm in his refusal to act as a substitute for Carnera, Mickey Walker probably will get the assignment. There is no doubt that either will put up a much better fight against Sharkey than Carnera could have delivered. It means a better show, even though it may not draw as well with the circus features eliminated.

Martin D. Tenney, Jr.

MARTIN D. TENNEY, JR., 19-year-old golfing sensation of the Cumberland Country Club, of Cumberland, Md., will be in the large starting field at Oakmont on June 8 for the sectional qualifying round of the Toledo national open championship tournament. Tenney won the Penn State College championship last year, being the first freshman golfer in the history of the school to capture such an honor. Last fall he was medalist in the Maryland amateur championship tournament at Baltimore, and won five matches before being eliminated in the semi-final round. Tenney has won numerous championships at the Cumberland Country Club during the last three years, having been a star since he joined the club when only 16.

WESTINGHOUSE MAY UPSET SCHENLEY

The championships of Section I and II in the City League baseball chase are the prizes for which three league nines will tussle today. After today, unless there is a jam in Section II, the respective champions will prepare for the opening of the annual three-game series for the league title on Friday.

In Section I this afternoon Westinghouse and Schenley will meet on the Taylor Allderdice field, the winner to take down the section title, now held by Schenley, along with the league crown. The rivals wound up their regular campaigns in a deadlock necessitating the extra game.

The situation is a little more complex in Section II. Oliver and Carrick will meet at Carrick in a thrice postponed game. Oliver can win the section crown by beating Carrick, but if the Brighton Roaders lose, then they must meet South Hills in a playoff battle. At present Oliver is ahead by half a game.

This game was to have been played yesterday, but because of the condition of the Carrick diamond, it was called off. Last week rain interfered in the third inning with Oliver leading by a 2-to-1 score.

The pitching choices for today's games are not certain, although Schenley figures to send Earl Stratton to the slab against Westinghouse, with the Silver Lakers countering with Joe Ware. Carrick likely will start Kurtz, one of its two no-hit stars.

Eliminations in the W. P. I. A. L. will be resumed today at the Ambridge High School field when McKees Rocks, Section I winner, clashes with Mt. Pleasant, Section II champion. The victor will meet McKeesport, Section V champ, at Forbes Field Thursday.

SCHOOL TRACK TEAMS CLASH

A field of 500 boys and girls are competing today in a Section II district grade school track and field meet at Westinghouse High field. They were scheduled to go into action at 2 o'clock.

Schools involved in today's affair include Andrews, Bayard, Belmar, Bennett, Brushton, Crescent, Homewood, Larimer, Lincoln, Springfield and Washington.

On Thursday afternoon, more than 500 will participate in a Section II district grade school meet at the Wightman Grade School field, beginning at 2 p. m. Colfax, Gladstone, Glenwood, Hays Borough, Theodore Roosevelt, Hazelwood, Liberty, Osceola, Shakespeare and Wightman schools have entries in this meet.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE LONE TRIP OF THE "HELEN E"—In March, 1918, the packet Helen E. then in service between Point Pleasant, W. Va., and Cincinnati, broke from her mooring at the Smith Dock Company in Point Pleasant and made the trip from there to Evansville, Ind., without a crew. An ice gorge caused her to break from the mooring and ice on the river prevented anyone from boarding her before she reached Evansville. The Helen E now is owned by Capt. H. C. Donnally, 1802 Warwood avenue, Wheeling, W. Va.

U. S. DAVIS CUP LINEUP SET

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP.)—The same team which won the North American zone final of Davis Cup play from Canada has been named by the United States Lawn Tennis Association selection committee to represent the United States against Argentine in the interzonn final at Washington, May 28-29-30.

The team is composed of Francis X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York; Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans. Bernon S. Prentice, wealthy New York clubman, is non-playing captain.

Mellon Scores 77 To Capture Tourney

Sam Mellon, caddiemaster at the Oakmont Country Club, came through with a splendid 77 to win the honors in the second tournament of the Caddiemasters' Golf Association, held at the Nemacolin Country Club yesterday. Frank Bruno, home club caddiemaster, was runnerup with a 78, while three others, Bill Stocker, of Stanton Heights; Paul E. Erath, of Edgewood, and Julius Platt, Edgewood, all with 81's, finished in the money.

Andrews Funeral Slated Tomorrow

NEW BRIGHTON, May 26.—Funeral services for Walter Andrews, late pro of the Beaver Valley Country Club, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Christ Episcopal Church, the Rev. M. F. Ashton, rector, officiating. Burial will take place in the Beaver Cemetery.

Oswald in Billiard Exhibition Tonight

Harry Oswald, local pocket billiard star, begins a series of exhibitions today at the Kenyon parlors.

He winds up his engagement tomorrow. Afternoon and evening sessions will be held both days.

Here's Macks' Record of 17 Straight

The Philadelphia Athletics, world baseball champions of last year and the year before, are well on their way toward another title. They are leading the league by five and one-half games as a result of having won 17 games in a row, including a clean sweep on their first Western invasion.

Following is the record of consecutive victories:

Date	Opponents	Score	Winning Pitcher
May 5	Boston	4-1	Earnshaw

ALTOONA LOSES TWIN BILL

Altoona, having taken over the franchise formerly held by Jeannette in the Middle Atlantic League, apparently is not going to get much further than did the Jays. The Altoona nine has played three games since joining the circuit, and lost them all.

Yesterday, Hagerstown sank the Railroaders twice, winning the first game of a double bill, 4 to 3, and the second, 9 to 0. Fryman hurled the shutout.

Cumberland strengthened its position at the top of the heap by beating Fairmont, 6 to 3. Eleven errors were made in the game, six by the Colts and five by the Fairies.

At Johnstown, Charleroi walloped the Johnnies, 7 to 3, and in the remaining game played, Huntington defeated Wheeling, 4 to 1.

GAMES WANTED

The Millviken Brick nine, of Wilkinsburg, a new team in the local sandlot field, would like to book games with the leading first-class clubs of the district. Teams desiring games call Manager George Amick, Churchill 2744.

LOTT, BOROTRA ADVANCE

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Auteuil, France, May 26.—(AP.)—George Lott, Jr., aspiring to the French tennis throne vacated by Henri Cochet, today defeated Charles H. Kingsley, of England, in three straight sets to advance to the third round of singles in the French hard court tennis championships. The scores were 6-0, 6-1, 6-4.

Betty Nuthall, one of the British favorites to take the women's title, easily won her match from Mme. Nanette Le Besnerias, 6-0, 6-2.

Christian Boussus defeated Nat Farquharson, 6-2, 6-2, 2-6.

Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, continued her steady march in the women's singles, defeating 19-year-old Hedwiga Jedrzejowska in the second round, 2-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Jean Borotra defeated the Austrian champion Artens, 6-8, 7-5, 6-0, 6-4 in the second round of men's singles.

Americans Shine In Putting Tourney

ARBROATH, Scotland, May 26.—(AP.)—Americans showed to advantage today in the approaching and putting "championship" being played on the Elliott course as a preliminary to the British open championship at Carnoustie next week.

The "championship" is a test of the short game and consists of four rounds over a 3,000-yard course, where every hole is a "one-shooter" and par is 54. A prize of $2,500 has been set up for the professionals.

Horton Smith was best among the early finishers today with a par 54, his card showing three twos. Other trans-Atlantic returns gave Tony Manero, of the Norwood Country Club, New Jersey, a 57; Tomasco Genta, open champion of the Argentine, 59, and Joshua Crane, the American-born Londoner, 68.

W. Va. Faces Four Games With Team Shot

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 26.—(AP.)—Ira E. Rodgers, West Virginia University baseball coach, faced a problem today with four games on the road before him and only two regular players to make the trip. Coach Rodgers said all the players but Carden and Staub, infielders, must stay here for examinations.

The Mountaineer nine is booked to play Marshall College at Huntington Wednesday and Thursday, and Ohio University at Athens, O., Friday and Saturday. The coach was scouring the campus today for substitutes.

CARDS, CUBS DENY DEAL

ST. LOUIS, May 26.—(AP.)—Rumors of a possible deal between the Cardinals and Cubs, involving Chick Hafey and Hack Wilson, erstwhile sluggers now doing bench duty because of failure to hit often and timely enough to satisfy their managers, had the official denial today of Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals.

In an effort to improve the Cardinals' attack, Manager Gabby Street has ordered daily morning batting drill, effective today. He said the batting practice would continue "until further notice." The team's batting average today was .260.

ST. LOUIS, May 26.—Arriving at the home port of their skipper shortly after midnight, the Pirates are set for a three-game series with the Cardinals, which will get under way this afternoon.

The first clash may bring a battle of lefthanders, for Larry French is Boss Ens' selection and the Buccos would not be surprised to see Bill Hallahan, of Binghamton, step to the mound, in keeping with the policy of rival pilots who seem to be saving their lefthanders for the Buccos.

The Pirate farewell to Chicago was anything but cheery. The Bears played atrocious ball in a defensive way, but their bush league display was not any worse than the Pirate pitching. The net result from a Pittsburgh standpoint was a very sour defeat, the score being 9 to 6.

KREMER DISAPPOINTING

Remy Kremer continued in the disappointing stride that has grieved Skipper Ens in no small way. Kremer's slab work was poor and he booted a slow roller in the third, the error paving the way for the Buccos to lose a lead they had gained in the second. Kremer is a bad fielder at best and when the slowly moving ball got away from him he had runners on first and second with none out.

The regrettable setback threw the Buccos out of the first division, the Cubs going back into fourth place. So you will see that Kremer's bad play and his loose pitching caused quite an upset.

George Grant went to the mound in the fifth and he too received a trouncing. Claude Willoughby finished.

BENNETT MAKES DEBUT

Frend Bennett, new outfielder, made his Pirate debut as he batted for Kremer in the fifth. The sturdy redhead certainly was robbed as he tried to break in with a hit. Bennett found runners on second and first with none out. His wicked liner would have assured a big inning for the Buccos, but Third Baseman Jurges had to

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

BOSTON, May 26.—Now the fans in Cleveland know how Berlin folks felt when Germany started losing the war. The Indians certainly didn't make any detours in their strategic retreat from the top of the league. If we didn't have the good old Red Sox for a foundation, the Cleveland club would drop out of the bottom of the league. The Boston Braves have a pitcher named Ed Brandt who has won seven straight games. I can remember when the Braves couldn't keep ahead for seven straight innings. Anyway, the Boston folks are thinking of pulling Paul Revere off his equestrian statue and giving his place in the saddle to Brandt.

FREEMAN AWARDED WIN OVER M'TIERNAN

A's Pound Way to Seventeenth Triumph in Row; Near League Record

BUCK HAS EDGE, CROWD BOOS VERDICT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion of the world, was sporting a referee's decision over Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, today as a result of their close battle in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night.

As was the case at Hickey Park, Millvale, last Thursday night, when Jimmy Thomas was awarded a split decision over Willie Davies, the crowd booed the verdict in vigorous fashion, not only when it was announced, but also afterward. Because of a sprinkle of rain, the main bout was put on immediately after the first event and the decision against McTiernan left the crowd in such an ugly humor that it refused to permit Announcer Ray Eberle to introduce the principals in the final two bouts, drowning out his attempts with prolonged boos.

BUCK SCORES KNOCKDOWN

Freddie Lux, sitting as a judge, voted for McTiernan, while the other judge, Jock Simco, and Referee Red Robinson scored the bout for Freeman. McTiernan was the actual, if not official, winner, and the crowd knew it. He won five of the 10 rounds, all but one of them by sizable margins, with another one even, while Freeman carried four, none of them any too decisively, and, to boot, McTiernan scored the only knockdown of the battle, with a pip of a short right to the chin near the end of the sixth round. Freeman went groggy under the punch and staggered before going down in a neutral corner. And he still was woozy when he got back on his feet to weather the round by clinching and breaking ground.

It was McTiernan's own fault that the fight was close. After gaining an edge in the first round and being shaded in the second, he won the third, broke even in the fourth, carried the fifth handily and wound up the sixth with that knockdown. Then, far ahead, and with Freeman unsteady, Buck began to coast and permitted the short-armed Freeman to cuff him at will in the clinches, to lose the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds. He appeared to be tired and anxious to rest, and it looked like anybody's fight going into the final round.

MAKES STRONG FINISH

At this stage, McTiernan suddenly came to life again and he was the aggressor throughout the last session, forcing Freeman before him, generally against the ropes, and pounding away to the head and body with both fists in a Garrison finish that should have clinched the bout for him if he didn't have an appreciable edge up to that time.

McTiernan, boxing for the first time after a layoff of several months, showed the need of more work, but he did the sharper hitting, especially early in the fight, when Freeman was a target for his left hooks to the body and head and occasional right crosses. Freeman's best bet throughout was his pounding right to the body and cuffing to the head with both fists in close. McTiernan made little effort to tie him up at this game and thereby let Tommy score many points that he might have avoided. Buck suffered a slight cut under the left eye in the eighth round, while Freeman's left eye was puffed early.

Freeman scaled 154½ pounds and McTiernan 153¼ at 3 p. m.

GOLDBLATT BEATEN

Jimmy Hogan, of Erie, 166, sparring partner of Freeman, outslugged Jimmy Moore, local Negro, 158¾, in the eight-round semi-final, which closed the show, but the unanimous decision went to Moore. Angelo Vergione, of Swissvale, 130, outfought Benny Goldblatt, of the Hill, and formerly of Chicago, 131, in the second bout, which followed the main event, but Judge Simco voted for Goldblatt and it required the votes of Judge Lux and Referee Robinson to swing the decision to Vergione. Johnny Montebano, of Braddock, 131, was too rugged for Young Bordell, of New Kensington, 132, and punched his way to a unanimous win in the six-round opener.

The crowd was not up to expectations. The threatening weather probably had something to do with this. Rain fell intermittently throughout the first half of the main bout. Tommy Grant and A. C. Couch were the timers and Dr. M. R. Goldman acted as the commission physician.

PARK HORSES WIN AT DEVON

DEVON, Pa., May 26.—The horses of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Park, of Pittsburgh, took down several ribbons in the opening day's judging of the twenty-fourth annual Devon horse show here yesterday. The Park horses won a first, two seconds and one fourth place.

Silver Shilling paced Class 125 for victory in the novice saddle. Christmas Morning placed second in the ladies' saddle horse showing with Harviestown Elva, duplicating for the Parks, in Class 104 for ponies in harness. Christmas Morning also placed fourth in the select Class 41 with a classy field of registered saddle-bred brood mares. The summary:

Class 41—Registered saddle-bred brood mares: Won by Whispering Winds, My Hibby stables; second, Mountain Revelry, Nawbeek farm; third, Egyptian Easter, Dr. L. T. Fordyce; fourth, Christmas Morning, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Park.

Class 125—Novice saddle pony: Won by Silver Shilling, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Park; second, Tiptop Black Oak farm; third, Ginger, Willis Brook farm.

Class 104—Ponies in harness, novice: Won by Southworth Majestic, Irving J. and Mary Louise Kiltinger; second, Harviestown Elva, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Park; third, Wee Mite, Mrs. Carl B. Hanna.

Class 52—Ladies' saddle horses: Won by Betty Wright, Pennpack Valley farm; second, Christmas Morning, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Park.

24 PASS TESTS FOR BIG RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 26.—(AP.)—The field of starters in the annual 500 mile automobile race to be run here next Saturday was increased to 24 when five drivers qualified their mounts yesterday.

Jimmy Gleason, Philadelphia veteran, turned in the fastest performance averaging 111.400 miles per hour for the 10-mile trial.

Francis Quinn, sensational Los Angeles youngster, was but a fraction of a second behind Gleason in a four-cylinder part-stock car, averaging 111321 miles per hour.

Lawless Victor, Purses Held Up

CHICAGO, May 26.—(INS.)—The purses of Bucky Lawless and Gorilla Jones were held up following their fight here last night by Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, pending an investigation.

Lawless was given the decision after 10 rounds of "painless punching" which failed to interest 5,250 spectators in the Stadium. Jones complained he had injured his right hand. He floored Lawless for a count of nine in the fifth round.

KISKI LINKSMEN WIN

KISKI golf team completed an unbeaten season by defeating Hollidaysburg for the second time in a return match here yesterday. Kiski won all matches played, six singles and three foursomes. Bill Marks turned in the best score of the day, a 76.

catch the ball to escape injury and a double play resulted.

The Buccos scared the Cubs in the eighth as they made three runs and they probably would have hammered Les Sweetland off the hill in the ninth if any first baseman other than Lefty Grimm had been in action when George Grantham wheeled a vicious drive toward right. Grimm turned in a circus, one-hand stop and Sweetland carried on to victory.

Eddie Phillips started the drive on Sweetland when he opened the third with a walk. Sankey pulled a single into left to advance the catcher, but Kremer was a total loss in his sacrifice attempt and he eventually fanned. Brother Lloyd came through with a double that scored both Buccos. Grantham fanned.

Sweetland pried open the home half with a single and Kremer proceeded to make a mess out of Moore's tap on the grass. English promptly sacrificed and Hornsby walloped a double to left to tie the score. Stevie singled to score Rajah.

MOORE HITS HOMER

Lefty Grimm nicked Kremer for a triple to center in the fourth with one out. Sweetland's fly scored Lefty and Johnny Moore hit a home run into the rightfield seats.

Hornsby started the fifth with a double to left and Stevie pulled one to the same section to score the Boss. Two were out when Jurges singled to produce the second run of the inning.

Cuyler singled at the start of the seventh. Hartnett flied out, but Sankey fumbled Jurges' grounder, Cuyler taking third. Grimm's single scored Cuyler and moved Jurges to third from whence he tallied on an infield out.

By TOM BIRKS

Two big games in the City League hold the interest of local sandlotters this evening. The North Side Civics will appear for the first time this season at the Homewood playgrounds, meeting Daly's champions.

The other battle finds the J. L. Thomas nine crossing the Allegheny River to hook up with Johnny Dunsky's North Side Buicks at the Pleasant Valley grounds.

Both games are more than interesting, with the league race very close. Eddie Quigley will probably oppose the Civics, who are having their worst season in many years. It looks as if Art Rooney will have to get back into harness and give the Civics a winner. Dave Black is trying to instill some pep into the team, but not having much success.

COALERS MEET RELIANCE

Pittsburgh Coal, under the leadership of Manager Munson, playing its first year in the C. & I., will get its real test at Langley Field this evening. The Coalers are scheduled to clash with George Miller and his champions from Reliance Life. Hale, former minor leaguer, will pitch for the Coal nine, with Bill Gormley on the hill for Reliance.

At Burgwin field, B. & O. hooks up with the Joseph Horne entry. Bobby Beitel will twirl for the Store boys.

Two games are carded in the West Penn loop. Jack Fertig and his league leading Homestead Aces go to Hartman Park to meet Linwood.

The Martin Club, of Garfield, will play its first game on the road this evening, traveling to Union High School Stadium at Turtle Creek to meet the Community Builders.

In the Steel City loop, the undefeated St. Elizabeth nine will get a real test at Frazier Street grounds when his club tangles with the De Pasquale outfit.

HYNOCK STAR

Hynock, the pitching star of the Bunola Club, of the Monongahela Valley League, will probably try and boost his strikeout average When the Riverview Club is met this evening. Hynock is the sensation of the season, and has been averaging 15 strikeouts a game.

The undefeated Keenie's go to Van Vooris for the only other league game.

Jeffries, Johnson Carded Tonight

LOS ANGELES, May 26.—(INS.)—James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson both will appear at the Olympic Club tonight—Jeff in the capacity of referee and Johnson as a spectator.

Jeffries will referee the Battling Dozier-George Kerwin 10-round main event. It will be the first time he has officiated in an official bout since he counted out Stanley Ketchel in 1908 when Billy Papke won the middleweight championship of the world.

Johnson and Jeffries are said to have been enemies since the Negro won the heavyweight title at Reno.

WOMEN MEET IN TEAM GOLF MATCHES

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The Women's Team League of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania resumed action today at two courses, Section I playing at the Stanton Heights Golf Club, and Section II at the St. Clair Country Club.

Aside from a women's club match, in which Shannopin linkswomen play in an up-and-on contest, and a tilt in which the University School of Pittsburgh plays at Shady Side Academy, no other golf events of importance are on today's program.

Stanton Heights women started playing opposed to Edgewood's team at 10:30 this morning at the Stanton Heights links in Section I, while Oakmont and the Pittsburgh Field Club were scheduled to tee off at 11 o'clock, and Fox Chapel and Shannopin at 11:30. Allegheny is idle this week.

At St. Clair, in Section II, the home club players began playing against Longue Vue at 10:30; the Country Club of Pittsburgh engaged Westmorland at 11 o'clock, and Alcoma and Butler started their golf fight at 11:30.

Tomorrow the first half of the annual Grogan Cup match, to decide the club supremacy between Shannopin and Highland, is to be held at Shannopin, with a field of at least 100 to a side playing. Shannopin holds the cup at this time. The last 18 holes of the match will be played at Highland in mid-June.

Players not already matched can be paired at the first tee after noon tomorrow, according to Wally Thompson, chairman of the committee in charge.

A buffet dinner will be served in the evening.

The bankers of Mellon will cavort the Stanton Heights Golf Club links tomorrow in their inaugural tournament, while events also are carded for Chartiers Heights, a medal play for women, and at Valley Heights, two-ball foursomes for women.

PITCHER MISSES NO-HIT WIN

Pitcher Hall, hurling for Linwood in the West Penn League against Swissvale Community, missed a no-hit, no-run game by one lone bingle last evening. Linwood won the game, 2 to 0. Hall permitting one hit.

In the City League, Homewood defeated the J. L. Thomas nine in a well played tussle at Bloomfield, 6 to 4. A free-for-all fight marked the finish of this game. Iroquois nosed out the Wally Smiths in a Greater Pittsburgh League fray, 5 to 4.

Grandview won a close one in the McKeesport League from Elizabeth, 6 to 5, and in the North-South circuit, Cronewith Dairy walloped the DeMore team, 9 to 2.

The R. J. Irwins punched out an 8-to-3 victory over the crack Collier Club in a Central League fracas and in the Wagner Minor League, Bellevue defeated Jednota, 9 to 2.

In independent tussles, Oakmont won over North Bessemer, 7 to 4; Sparkie Flashes blanked the Happy Losers, 3 to 0, and St. Clair Frogs downed the Gelberts, 7 to 1.

HEAVY BATTLES IN LIMELIGHT

Following is the latest in the heavyweight boxing situation:

Federal Judge Knox yesterday handed down an injunction in favor of the Madison Square Garden Incorportion, of Illinois, depriving Primo Carnera of the right to meet Jack Sharkey in Brooklyn, June 10, for Promoter Jimmy Johnston. The Garden is compelled to put up two bonds aggregating $60,000 to guarantee Carnera that it will go through with its plan to match him against the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling bout for the heavyweight title in September.

Schmeling, at Conneaut Lake, training for the Cleveland fight, expressed pleasure at the stalling of the Primo-Sharkey fight, which was to be billed as a counter championship affair, with the consent of the New York Commission.

Meanwhile, in Cleveland, Stribling yesterday was a star witness in the suit of a citizen to prevent the staging of his bout with Schmeling there, on the ground that it would be a "prize fight" in violation of the Ohio law. Common Please Judge Thomas M. Kennedy, who from the bench expressed the hope that Stribling would knock out Schmeling, has taken the case under advisement and will render a decision next week.

MILLVALE CARD COMPLETE

Matchmaker Bill Dummer, of the Hickey Park arena, Millvale, last night completed his card for his Battling Gizzy-Eddie Brannon show next Thursday night.

Jimmy Guthrie, of Akron, will box K. O. Redmond, of Detroit, in the eight-round semi-final; Billy Holt, of Homewood, meets Jack Gillespie, of Detroit, in the second bout, and Jack Kelly, of North Lima, O., is in with Carl Cesko, of Uniontown, for the opener.

LOCAL GERMANS TO SEE MAX

Approximately 1,000 members of local German singing societies, clubs and turnvereins will go to Conneaut Lake, Pa., next Sunday to visit Max Schmeling, of Germany, the heavyweight champion of the world, in training there for his title bout against Young Stribling, at Cleveland, July 3.

Included in the party, which will make the trip in a special train, leaving the P. & L. E. station at 7:15 a. m., eastern standard time, will be John E. Loibl, the German consul in Pittsburgh.

The local German Soccer Club will make the trip and will put on an exhibition game against the Cleveland German Soccer Club, beginning at 12:30 p. m.

RHUM TURF VICTOR

WOLVERHAMPTON, Eng., May 26.—(AP.)—A. J. Macomber's Rhum, at 11 to 2, today won the Wolverhampton handicap at one mile for a purse of $1,500. J. Bruetton's First Fancy was second, a length back, and Sir A. Butt's Whopper third. Fifteen horses ran.

MACKS DEFEAT YANKEES IN DUAL BILL

Associated Press.

There was another parcel of bad news today for the large but select group awaiting the official "cracking" of the Philadelphia Athletics. About all Connie Mack's young men appear likely to crack this season is the existing American League record for consecutive victories.

By defeating the New York Yankees in both ends of yesterday's doubleheader at Shibe Park, 4 to 2 and 16 to 4, the champions ran their string to 17 straight and staked themselves to a five-game lead over the field.

NEAR LEAGUE RECORD

If they win from the Yankees the next two afternoons, the Athletics will tie the American League mark for consecutive triumphs, set by the Chicago White Sox in 1906. In a way, they will have bettered the previous record, as the Sox were held to one tie in setting up their long string.

The most signficant feature of yesterday's double win was the pitching of Leroy Mahaffey in the nightcap. The young righthander, one of Mack's "second string" moundsmen, held the Yankees to one hit in the first seven innings and fanned five. Lefty Grove scored his fifth consecutive victory in the first game when he outdueled young Henry Johnson. Twice, with two Yanks on and only one out, he struck out the last two batters.

FERRELL STOPS SOX

Wes Ferrell had to rush to Willie Hudlin's aid in the ninth inning before the Cleveland Indians could record a 7-to-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Going into the final round three runs to the good, Hudlin weakened and put the first two men on base before Ferrell appeared. Both scored while Ferrell was retiring the side. Eddie Morgan hit his first homer of the year with one on in the sixth.

Rain halted the only other game scheduled in the American.

The Chicago Cubs pounded three pitchers for 11 hits to defeat Pittsburgh, 9-to-6, in the National League's lone encounter. Les Sweetland went the route for the winners and had only two bad innings.

RAZOR AD-VENTURES by don herold

YOU can't appreciate how good a shave can be until you've tried the new patented Gem Micromatic Razor.

A lifetime of good shaves is so much better than a lifetime of poor shaves, that a millionaire could afford to pay $1,000 for a new Gem Micromatic if he couldn't get another.

So the dollar you pay for a Gem seems pretty reasonable, considering the 1000's of good shaves it has in it.

It looks as if it had been built to sell for $5—a real job of precision machinery—with many patented new features—automatic handle-twist razor—visegrip and opening for cleaning—all-in-one construction—and new long-life Gem Micromatic Blades of micro-perfect surgical steel.

GENEVA SURE TO KEEP CONFERENCE TITLE

FOUR CHAMPS TO DEFEND LAURELS

By JESS CARVER

Once the annual Tri-State Conference track and field championships are wrested from the state and the district's interscholastic and Inter-Prolastic running, and jumping and weight-tossing season will be packed away in the mothballs and we will be able to go to sleep at night without dreaming of flying batsmen, plopping shots and rip-snorting hurdlers.

The Conference meet will be held at Pennsylvania Stadium, Geneva's home lot, Saturday afternoon and as usual the Covenanters are the heavy favorites. Geneva has won the Conference title in track ever since the league was organized and from the looks of things they'll continue to hold it until other members of the now weakened circuit learn the proper procedure of building track and field squads.

FOUR CHAMPS BACK

Four of last year's champions will be on hand to defend their laurels this year. Two of the five are double, may triple champions, and are as hotly-totsy favorites to keep a firm hold on their laurels as Geneva is to retain the team championship, which is to say that there isn't even a outside chance of their being knocked off.

Fair Pleasee Thomas, Geneva's sprint star, who holds the titles in the 100, 220 and 440; Harry Brownlee, of Westminster, the high hurdle and hammer champ; Nulton, of Geneva, the half-mile ace, and Evans, also of Geneva, the low hurdle king, are the boys you may lay dough on, why, even lay, 10 to 5, that they'll pop up Saturday with new triumphs.

TITANS HOPEFUL

Westminster is the only entry having the slightest chance of outscoring Geneva and then the Titans' chance is so slight that it is hardly a chance at all. All the Titans can hope to do is to hold the score down to respectable proportions.

Brownlee is the most versatile man in the Conference and can be depended upon for a lot of high powered scoring. He competes in both hurdles, in the discus, hammer, broad jump and even fools around with the shot. He was the high individual scorer last year and figures to repeat this.

Geneva has the very commendable habit of presenting a special medal each year at the meet to an outstanding conference athlete and the chances are that Brownlee will be the recipient of the award on Saturday. It is a swell gesture and a credit to the sportsmanship of the Covenanters.

DUKES OUT

With the Dukes out of the league this year, the meet loses some of its attractiveness. It is unfortunate that all the district schools, including Pitt Tech, West Virginia, Wash-Jeff, Grove City and Allegheny do not indulge in one big affair.

This year, such a meet would provide a pip of a battle for top honors between West Virginia and Geneva, for with Pitt and Tech cutting into the scoring rather heavily, neither the Mountaineer or Covenanter squads, powerful though they are, would have a cinch.

MATMEN MOVE OUTDOORS

Outdoor wrestling makes its debut in Pittsburgh tonight at the Hickey Park Arena, Millvale, with five matches scheduled, and Ray Fabiani, of Philadelphia, crashing in as co-promoter with Arthur Sharkey, who broke the ice here with indoor matches at Motor Square Garden.

Ray Steele, of California, meets John Podoubney, of Russia, in the feature bout, and Jim McMillen, former Illinois football star, engages George Tragos, a Greek, in the other one-fall finish match.

In three 30-minute time limit matches, Hans Stemke, the giant German, meets Benny Ginsberg, Chicago Hebrew; Kark Pojello, Lithuanian, grapples with Joe Rogaski, Poland, and Steve Znoski, New York Pole, goes on with Floyd Marshall, of California.

Summer Bowling League Lifts Lid

Competition in Sections I and II of the Summer Bowling League will get under way this evening. The league, recently organized and sponsored by the Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association, will close its season on September 15. This evening's schedule:

Section I—Dispatch at Capitol, Greensburg, at Nuss; Liberty at Wilkinsburg; Elba at Vandergrift, and Haus at Aldine.

Section II—R. G. at Greensburg; Browns at Nuss, Liberty at Iroquois; Elba at Wabash, and Wilkinsburg at Perry.

Schenley Links to Be Open Until 8 P. M.

Director of Public works Edward G. Lang announced this morning that the Schenley Park municipal golf links will be open for play every day, Sundays and holidays included, until 8 p. m. daylight saving time. Heretofore the course was closed, whether the players had finished their round or not, at 4 p. m. on Sunday and 6 p. m. during week days. Director Lang made this popular move after he learned that many players starting shortly after the noon hour on Sunday and holidays were unable to complete their round.

OLIVER QUITS GOLF LOOP

The entry in the Interscholastic Golf Conference has been reduced by one, Oliver High having struck its colors after having played and won one match. The North Side school announced its withdrawal following unsuccessful efforts to secure a course for home matches.

Oliver had sought both Highland and Shannopin as a home course, but as both links had been promised Bellevue, Oliver found itself out. Carrick, Bellevue and McKeesport will continue as the Section II teams.

Yesterday, Taylor Allderdice landed a 14-12 triumph over Langley in a Section I match, the defeat being the fifth in as many starts for Langley. Shutout victories by Yalch, DePietro and Pally secured the victory for Allderdice.

Sam Musico, captain of the Langley squad, had the low medal score, a 74. The match was played over the Thornburg links. The summary:

ALLDERDICE		LANGLEY
Kosan	0	S. Musico	3
Habalnyk	2	Bogazzi	1
Yalch	3	Rowe	0
De Pietro	3	Wilson	0
Pallevich	1	Ambrose	2

DUKES LAND HOME WIN

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Capt. Andy Smeaton played his last Bluffite stand yesterday and in so doing led his Duke racqueteers to their initial home triumph of the 1931 campaign, a 6-1 decision over the Waynesburg College force. Tangling with Patsch, ace of the Yellow Jackets, Smeaton bagged a 6-1, 6-3 verdict and thereby landed his eighteenth singles win in an even score of starts in the past two seasons.

The afternoon's affair likewise beheld the passing of Boland and Jimmy Campbell from the Hilltop varsity scene. The summary:

SINGLES

Smeaton, Duquesne, defeated Patsch, Waynesburg, 6-1, 6-3; Casey, Duquesne, defeated Swanson, Waynesburg, 6-2, 6-2; Evans, Waynesburg, defeated Campbell, Duquesne, 6-0, 6-2; Hutton, Duquesne, defeated A. Warchol, Waynesburg, 6-0, 6-1; Boland, Duquesne, defeated R. Warchol, Waynesburg, 7-5, 6-4.

DOUBLES

Smeaton and Boland, Duquesne, defeated Patsch and Swanson, Waynesburg, 6-1, 6-1; Casey and Butler, Duquesne, defeated Evans and A. Warchol, Waynesburg, 6-1, 6-7, 6-0.

Steel Shares Dropping From Speculative Favor.

Steel stocks are finding themselves dropping from speculative favor since the outspoken discussion of conditions in the industry at last week's spring meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute. Those stocks continued to encounter dribbling but persistent selling as the new week got under way, with Steel common backing off to new low levels for the movement, and the independent shares slipping gradually lower. The group was not inclined to draw any great encouragement from the radio remarks of James A. Farrell, head of the steel corporation. Rather Steel shares still appeared to feel the less favorable implications of his blunt statements on the matters of prices, earnings, and wages, made last Friday.

Brisk selling developed in General Motors with the beginning of the new week. The premier of the automobile group continued to offer a fair measure of resistance to pressure, but it was forced to yield gradually to within striking distance of its low levels for the bear market. Other motor shares were relatively quiet though leaning to heaviness. The selling in the automobile group, it should have been noted, coincided with reports in circulation to the effect that the pace of retail sales had slackened considerably of late. Such a development might be viewed as a purely seasonal occurrence, but presumably the bearish interpretation placed upon these reports was due to the fact that until now it had been expected the motor industry would reach its peak later than usual this year.

Railroad shares were bulwarked by only a nominal demand and in consequence were inclined to sag again yesterday under weight of a moderate volume of offerings. The move for an increase in freight rates which served as something of a sustaining influence last week seemed to have spent its force as a factor in the speculative market for the time being. Perhaps it is realized that some weeks will elapse before the application of the carriers is ready for presentation to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and that in all events it will be some time before the effect of an increase, if granted, will begin to show in railroad earnings. After all what the railroads need urgently is an increased volume of traffic and that will not be forthcoming until business pulls itself out of the doldrums and begins to speed output.

Relative firmness in the power and light stocks had been remarked time and again through the early stages of the present decline. For the last week or more the utility shares have been displaying an increasingly heavy undertone. Yesterday these stocks were inclined to noticeable weakness at intervals, and it was evident that some liquidation was being encountered in that quarter of the list. Recessions of 1 to around 3 points were the rule in the group with little in the way of fresh news to explain the selling. It would seem, however, that the persistent liquidation in progress in American Telephone, Western Union and one or two of the power stocks like American Water Works has been disturbing to confidence of investors in the ability of the group to maintain itself if the decline in the general market continues.

Caution continues to be the watchword in the financial, because leading stocks have not been able to attract a following on rallies. The general tendency among conservative observers is to remain on the sidelines. Interests with funds with which to purchase stocks are not willing to enter the market under existing conditions.

Before many of the market students will be willing to advise customers to pick up stocks, they will insist upon indications that liquidation is nearing its end. So much stock has come out in the past from investors and others that it is felt by conservative interests the market will not be able to stage a good upward movement until the forced selling has run its course.

R. K. Mellon With N. Y. Central Lines

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, nephew of Secretary of Treasury A. W. Mellon, has asked Interstate Commerce Commission authority to hold the position of director of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad and also general authority to act as an officer of any of the New York Central system lines.

Cotton Acreage Decline Forecast

NEW YORK, May 26.—Fairchild Cotton Service forecasts this season's cotton area at 40,983,000 acres, a decrease of 11.1 per cent from the 46,078,000 acres in cultivation on July 1, 1930. The service said 86 per cent of the crop has been planted and 69 per cent of the planted area is up to a stand.

MARKET SHOWS PRONOUNCED UPTURN

Moderate Waves of Short Covering Appear on News Of Stock Questionnaire

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP.)—An irresolute oscillation of share prices in the early trading finally gave way to a pronounced upturn in today's stock market.

It was announced before the opening that the exchange's committee on business conduct had circulated a general questionnaire demanding full information as the scope and identity of the bear interest. Bears were not frightened into any immediate or hasty withdrawal, but moderate waves of short covering began to sweep over the market.

The list had a sinking spell at the opening, and another just before noon, but gained strength thereafter, and early losses of 1 to 5 points were canceled or modified and gains of similar extent were recorded. U. S. Steel, after sinking a point to a new low at 93¼, rebounded 3 points.

Unfavorable developments in foreign markets, such as the suspension of a small London Stock Exchange house and a sharp decline in the Berlin market, were without notable influence in Wall street.

Yesterday's advices indicating that the motor industry has reached its seasonal peak brought further selling in the automotive shares during today's early trading. Current estimates of General Motors second quarter results indicate that the dividend requirements for the first six months of the year will have been fully earned, despite the deficiency in the first quarter. The normal seasonal trend in the industry, however, does not promise so much for the remainder of the year.

The weekly petroleum statistics, on the basis of preliminary figures will be less favorable than those of the preceding week, when a large decline in crude output was achieved. A further cut in East Texas crude prices has been made by Humble, but there is some talk of an increase in California, and Royal Dutch's annual report is less gloomy over the American situation than some domestic interests seem to be, despite the large losses recently suffered by Royal Dutch's American subsidiary.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 26.—The curb market contained fewer air pockets today, although its tone was still heavy. A ripple of covering ran through the list in the forenoon, but the upward move was indecisive and small declines predominated during the greater part of the session. Trading was more active than on Monday.

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

NO. 241.

AN ORDINANCE—Amending an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance authorizing an Agreement with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company for the purchase by the City of Pittsburgh of certain lands owned by said Company for the widening of Smithfield Street," approved March 14, 1931, by inserting in the Agreement certain provisions relating to the overhead railroad of said Railway Company over the second described parcel of land.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance authorizing an Agreement with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company for the purchase by the City of Pittsburgh of certain lands owned by said Company for the widening of Smithfield Street, Carson Street," approved March 14, 1931, be amended by inserting after the second described parcel of land the following provisions and reservations, viz:

"EXCEPTING AND RESERVING, and subject to the right and easement of said The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company, its successors and assigns, to maintain and operate its railroad as now constructed, or as the same may be hereafter constructed, over, and across said last described parcel of land and West Carson Street, in the same position as may hereafter be located or widened, the nature and character of said easement so excepted and reserved and the uses and purposes, rights and conditions and limitations upon which it is excepted and reserved being as follows:

(a) The said easement is hereby reserved and hereafter be used for the purpose of maintaining and operating the railroad structure of said Railway Company of the same is now located and erected upon and over said Smithfield Street and West Carson Street, and for the purpose of repairing and reconstructing the same for the purpose of operating on and over said Smithfield Street and West Carson Street as the same now is or may hereafter be widened, by means of an overhead viaduct or bridge, a single track railroad together with the necessary appurtenances.

(b) It is understood and agreed that the land above described is being acquired by the City for the purpose of widening West Carson street and constructing approaches to the new West End Bridge now being constructed over the Ohio River, and the said Railway Company shall be compelled, at its own cost and expense, in the event of constructing said bridge for the County of Allegheny, with the consent of the said City and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company, its successors and assigns, and the Pittsburgh, Chartiers & Youghiogheny Railway Company, to reconstruct the existing railroad viaduct and structures extending over West Carson street and the second parcel above described, and the County of Allegheny shall have the right to reconstruct the existing railroad structures so far as may be necessary, under such terms and conditions and according to such plans as shall be agreed upon between said Railway Company and said County of Allegheny, with the approval of the Director of Public Works of the said City.

(c) Said Railway Company shall have the right at all times to renew, repair, reinforce, reconstruct, change or alter the existing structures, including the bridge piers and supports, the pedestals and abutments, crossing said land or any part or parts thereof, or the structures as the same may be hereafter changed, altered or reconstructed, by agreement with the County of Allegheny, or otherwise, in any way or manner it sees fit, and shall continue to have that right, provided that said alterations, renewals, repairs, reconstructed, changed or altered shall consist of an elevated viaduct and shall afford a clearance over West Carson street, at the same point above described not less than fourteen feet and not less than that to be afforded by the said viaduct and structures as the same shall be reconstructed by the County under agreement with said Railway Company as aforesaid, provided further that the said overhead structure crossing Carson street over and the second parcel above described shall be constructed with a closed or tight floor so as to prevent any dripping of seepage from the bridge, and that for such type as is approved by the Director of Public Works of said City before the necessary work is started.

(d) In case in the renewal, repair, reinforcement, reconstruction, change, alteration or replacement of the said railroad structures and the supports thereof, it shall hereafter become necessary for the Railway Company, its agents or employes, to occupy the lands and tracks of the said described and West Carson street and upon any other land of the City immediately adjacent together with equipment, materials and the like, the Railway Company shall have the right so to do but only upon the condition that the said right of entry shall be exercised in such reasonable manner by the Railway Company, its agents or employes, as shall cause as little inconvenience to the said City and County of Allegheny, its or their successors or assigns, in the free use and enjoyment of its property of the said street as is reasonably practicable and that the entry upon the said land and street of said City for the purpose aforesaid shall be subject to the rules and regulations either as to the manner of performing the work of the time thereof as shall be prescribed by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, or his successors in office. Subject to the rights hereby reserved to the Railway Company, the said City, and its successors and assigns, shall have the right to the free use and enjoyment of the said tract of land over which said railroad is now or may hereafter be constructed, and every part thereof, for every lawful purpose, and the right to erect and maintain thereon such streets, highways, buildings or other structures as may be convenient for said City, provided however, that said City, its successors and assigns in such manner as not to injure the said structure and the supports thereof of the Railway Company, or the same now constructed or hereafter be constructed or to interfere with the operation thereover of the trains of said Railway Company, its successors and assigns.

SECTION 2. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Passed in Council May 18, 1931.
Approved May 22, 1931.

NO. 242.

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the Pittsburgh Smelting and Refining Company the right to attach three (3) guy wires to the north concrete walls of the West Approach to the Elizabeth Street Bridge and to attach a bracket to connect a wooden platform with steps over the north side of Elizabeth street to connect their building with the north sidewalk of the said approach, subject to the terms and conditions herein set forth.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Pittsburgh Smelting and Refining Company, their successors and assigns be and are hereby given the right and authority, at their own proper expense to attach and maintain three (3) guy wires to the north concrete walls of the said approach to the Elizabeth Street Bridge and to connect, maintain and use a wooden platform with steps over the north side of Elizabeth street to connect their building with the north sidewalk of the said approach. The platform and steps are to be for the use of pedestrians only and are to be built in accordance with plans, designs and specifications to be approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 2. The said Pittsburgh Smelting and Refining Company shall, prior to the beginning of the construction of said platform and steps, submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, a complete set of plans, together with specifications, in quadruplicate showing location and all details of construction of said work and no work shall be commenced thereon until the said plans have been approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works, who shall have the right at all times to inspect the said construction, operation and maintenance and any and all orders issued by him shall be complied with.

SECTION 3. The said Pittsburgh Smelting and Refining Company shall, upon notice from the Director of the Department of Public Works, make such repairs to installation herein authorized as the latter may order and shall further do such painting on said installation at the times and in the manner indicated by the Director.

SECTION 4. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers over city streets and to the ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and to such additional ordinances of any general ordinance which may hereafter be passed relating to the construction, maintenance and use of walks, bridges, platforms or other structures over city streets or portions thereof and which may provide for compensation for the use thereof.

SECTION 5. The rights and privileges granted by this ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, without liability, reserves the right to cause the removal of the said platform and steps upon giving thirty (30) days notice thereof, through the proper officers of the city pursuant to Resolution or Ordinance of Council, and that the said grantee when so notified at the end of the expiration of the said thirty (30) days, forthwith remove the said platform and steps and close the opening left by such removal in the manner ordered by the Director of the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 6. The said grantee shall be responsible and shall assume any liability whatsoever, either of the said grantees or of the City of Pittsburgh, for damages to persons or property by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of said platform and steps, and it is a condition of this grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of this grant.

SECTION 7. The foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to all the foregoing conditions and to the further condition that this Ordinance shall become null and void unless within thirty (30) days after the passage and approval of this Ordinance, the Pittsburgh Smelting and Refining Company shall file with the City Controller its certificate of acceptance of this Ordinance, duly executed.

SECTION 8. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Leslie Says That She Is Married to Berry

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XVII.

Jennifer and Berry crept to the edge of their ledge, which looked down from an eminence onto the half-natural, half-contrived grotto. Slim silhouettes, all rays in the moonlight, sat on the coping, along which crawled Henrietta Edgerton's little betes noires, and dangled bare legs into the moon reflecting pool.

A slope of hillside marched down to the pool, inclosing it like a crater. Figures were strewn over the hillside, helping one another down declivities, in monkey-chains of twos and threes. The Spanish dancer, clad in a mere dash of suit, the exact henna of her flesh, leaped down from crag to crag like a bit of lightning, zigzagging off the edges of rock. The Falstaffian figure of the over-stout young Philip Londo swaggered down in an improvised bathing-suit, a sweater tied by the sleeves about his great middle.

Decide to Join Party

The Spanish dancer leap-frogged over him, took the tip of the diving-board, and sliced downward like a quick thin blade. Voices in the moonlight had the musical flow to them of water. Over the ledge they peered, secure, arm in arm, their bodies flat to the soft moss, seems, unseen.

"Berry, there's Leslie! In the black suit."

She felt his head move, but even as she spoke she pressed it down again into her lap.

"She must be looking for us! Why the dickens did we do this, Berry? It's this loony moonlight. We've been gone over an hour. Leslie shouldn't let herself get this tipsy. Thank goodness, she's going to dive. It will sober her. Berry, hadn't we better slide around to the house and get into bathing suits and ooze quietly into the crowd? Oh, Berry, I hate to!"

He raised his tousled and troubled-looking head.

"Guess we'd better," he said, with a sudden kind of soberness.

"Berry," she cried, and caught his face in the cup of her hands and drew it to hers closely. "Berry darling—tell me the low down—let me hear you deny, yourself, the horrid rumor that you and Leslie—oh—oh—no—"

Due to loud series of shouts through cupped hands which Tom Edgerton was directing at an electrician, the entire scene below suddenly slipped into the incredible beauty of a moon-silvered darkness, the cone of searchlight shooting upward like a great tusk of ivory, drenching the hilltop forest in glare, drenching the figures of Jennifer and Berry, lying there so closely face to face on their bed of moss.

To the bathers beneath, it was as if the heavens had opened in the fashion that was supposed to reveal God seated on a throne of mother-of-pearl. Only, there sat Berry and Jennifer instead, bathed in incalculable amperes of luminosity.

Married to Berry

The figure on the tip edge of the diving-board was a figure transfigured.

"Leslie," cried Henrietta Edgerton to her daughter—the only voice to find itself in that blinding shift of scene—"Leslie, don't!"

The spring-board began to jiggle. It made a creaking noise. Then came the voice of Leslie, poised on the tip of the spring-board, her arms shooting out as her silhouette became a cross.

"There you are!" screamed Leslie, and danced up and down on the spring-board. "There you are!"

"Leslie!" shouted Henrietta Edgerton.

"There you are!" called Leslie up to the glare on the hilltop. "Pretty ones! I'll tell the world! I'll tell the world."

"Leslie!"

"World, that's my husband up there! We were married yesterday. Never mind why. Keep this marriage a secret for him a few weeks, so he can settle his affairs?

"The devil I will! What affairs? His 5-and-10-cent affairs.

"The devil I will!" screamed Leslie, and dived.

At 4 o'clock of that translucent October morning, with a moon still retreating in a high sky, the only daughter of the thirteenth richest man in the world sat crouched in a huddle no larger than a spaniel outside the door of Dr. Gerkes.

She did not quite clearly know why she was there, except that inchoately, fragmentarily, her fuddled brain had telegraphed to her fuddled feet the road to Gerkes. She did not know why.

A small gray man, about as exciting as chalk dust. Behind that closed door he was sitting in a limitless world of ideas. The stones of Venice and the stones of Alexandria and the stones of Carthage were not mere stones to him.

Carried to Bed

Like the flint and arrow-heads on his tables, they looked up at him with the wide revealing eyes of immemorial man. Heaps and heaps of these strange lusterless stones covered the fine table-tops of that room. Wisdoms were behind that closed door—and quiet—

It was then that Jennifer scratched faintly at the panel, like a little dog, not so much because she particularly wanted admission into the room, but because she wanted some of the kind solicitude she seemed to sense there.

After a while, on limbs that were too wavy to carry her, the young Miss Rarick, in the white ermine frock and her coat dragging, began a tortuous and shocking journey down the hallway on all fours, knee after knee, the palms of her hands padding softly along the carpet.

Her maid, dozing as she waited, heard the soft noises, ran down the hallway and, horrified, lifted and carried her bodily to bed.

It was about then that consciousness that there had been scratching noises came belatedly to Dr. Gerkes, who had been bending to scrutinize a dated alar-stone, 575, of Maya civilization, said to have been unearthed from the City of Matzap Ceel.

It pleased Rarick to be a patron of the arts. He liked to think that opera committees came to him to make good their deficits. Little theater groups were appealing to him more and more frequently. Child musical prodigies of piano and violin virtuosity were constantly being brought before him.

It pleased him to sit, a Maecenas, in his library and make chapels of his fingers and pass judgments in which he was solely assisted by Hellman, who had graduated from a South St. Louis music school, and Alfredo Ludovici, the violin member of a chamber music quartet which Rarick had supported for years.

Visions Great Building

With the exception of the Firenzi Quartet, which, thanks to Rarick's generous maintenance, had become world renowned for the perfection of its ensemble, the success of most of Rarick's musical proteges was still to be achieved. To be sure, there was a 13-year-old Milwaukee lad, named Isa Friedberg, studying at Fontainebleau, and for whom great things were predicted; and little Leontine Bachrach, of Brooklyn, 13½, who played a piano recital at Town Hall with outstanding success, was making spectacular headway with his teachers in Munich.

But not infrequently, Rarick's fervor to serve the arts outclassed his critical judgments.

Frequently, the quartet, which had long outgrown private-home engagements, played at one of Jenny's functions when she decided to have a "bit of music." But after the Firenzi Quartet became closely associated with the name of Rarick, she abandoned that habit, because it smacked of home-made economy, buying instead the professional services of some stellar vocal or violinistic attraction whose fees were notoriously high.

Projects came to Rarick under the weaving motion of music. New loans. New stores. New policies. It was in his library, for instance, to evening after evening of the peregrinations of the small music of Schubert and Haydn, that the mammoth idea of the Rarick Building was born.

Layer by layer, to its dramatic 73-story splendor, it rose on a scaffolding wrought out of these strange spirals of inspiration that seemed to wind up through him when his imagination responded to a stimulus it comprehended not at all. Story by story, to its eminence as the tallest building in the world, this Taj Mahal of industry took form. It was to take 11 years to realize, $30,000,000 to construct, and it rose out of Schubert and Haydn and Chopin and Brahms.

"Five and Ten" Synopsis

John G. Rarick has made millions as a chain store operator. He buys a magnificent home after being urged by his wife, Jenny, and finds himself hating her. This is accentuated by his own temperamental inability to get close to Jennifer and Avery, his children. Rarick installs an odd genius, Dr. Felix Gerkes, in his house. Jenny objects, but to no avail. Jenny begins to be intrigued with Ramon Lopez, a youthful gigolo. Avery comes home from school to beg his mother to help him get leave from his father to have a couple of years to himself. Jennifer likes the handsome and rich Barry Rhodes, and Jenny urges her to try and win him. Berry kisses Jennifer while taking her in one of Leslie Edgerton's parties. Jennifer is not welcomed very cordially by Leslie and feels humiliated.

DAILY TRUE STORY — Where He Was

Prominent Chemist Gets Divorce From Wife

"Where were you?"

The first time Dave Porter heard his wife ask that question he smiled at her.

They had been married only six months then.

"Down at the works," he answered.

"You weren't in your office!"

"Part of the time—was it important, Flora?"

"Oh, no, nothing much—I just called up."

"But you must have wanted something."

"No—I just called up."

Dave didn't think much of it this time.

When Dave Porter came on to Hingham from the West as a chemical expert in the Hingham Glass Works he had many ambitions, all of them centering in his discoveries which he expected to bring him a fortune.

Dave was a good-looking chap and had many invitations, almost from the start, to go here and there. But he believed there would be time enough for that after he had at least started to make his way.

Old Mr. Hingham, head of the corporation and holder of most of the stock, found out in short order that the young Dave Porter knew his business. This was as it should be. The old man wanted to be sure.

But the old man had an idea that things had been going along all right for many years and should never be changed. As a result, he took little interest in Dave's suggestions for changes in certain methods.

Dave was stubborn. He knew he was right, so he bided his time.

He had been there six months before he met Flora Thurston. She was just the fluffy, irresponsible type of a girl who would attract a solid, sedate and scholarly young man like Dave.

It was at a sort of charity bazaar on the lawn of the Durkin sisters that Dave first saw her.

Introduced to Girl

"Who is that girl you bowed to?" he asked Jones, an assistant from his department.

Jones told him.

"Give me an introduction."

"Sure—but it won't do any good—she's snooty as all git out."

Dave got his introduction.

Flora had smiled at him and began to talk. When he told her that he was employed at the glass works, she said, "That's nice," and drifted away. She had lost all interest in him.

Dave was just a little bit hurt. He wasn't used to being smiled at and then ignored the next moment.

"You were right, she does seem to be a bit uppish," Dave confided to Jones.

"She probably asked you who you were, and when you told her, that was that," Jones answered.

"Why was that that?"

"You told her you were in the production office of the works, I suppose?"

"No, I merely told her that I worked there. I didn't say whereabout I worked or what I worked at."

"Flora Thurston is too busy chasing around with the sporty lads who don't have to work to bother with us," Jones said. "She's a niece of the old man."

"Niece of Mr. Hingham?"

"Sure."

"I see—lives up in his swell mansion—no wonder—"

"Nope—guess he's not crazy about her. She and her mother live over on Maple street in a house he gave them. He gives them an allowance. Now and then she and her mother are at his place when on rare occasions he entertains. She's often said that the employes of her uncle's works were just a lot of cattle."

Discuss Affair

A few Sundays later Flora Thurston stopped her car when she saw Dave and asked him to hop in.

She was mighty friendly, all of a sudden.

Dave was delighted.

He didn't know that old man Hingham had been telling Flora and her mother about Dave and how he was going to be a mighty rich man before many years.

Dave moved into his own special office at the plant, with plenty of assistants, and attended to new developments.

And during his spare time he went around with Flora. He had no trouble in doing this. In fact, Flora saw to it that she was the only girl he had time to go around with.

Bill Jones was discussing this with Fred Knight. Both were assistants in Dave's office.

"I'm afraid he's going to fall for her," Jones said.

"Why not tip him that she's N. G.?" suggested Knight.

"You can't do that—neither husband nor lover will believe anything about his woman—you only get hated for your pains," the wise Jones responded.

"It's a shame; Dave is one square shooter and that little fool he's so crazy about is just a joke — she's had more affairs—"

"My advice," Jones said sharply, "is for you not to talk like that to anyone."

When Flora told her uncle that Dave Porter was going to marry her, he eyed her sharply.

"You don't deserve him," he said, crisply. "I've not been blind these past years. You walk Spanish, hear me? Don't do a thing that can bring the breath of scandal—settle down and go straight."

Still Wayward

"Of course," Flora promised. She knew better than to deny any of the rich old uncle's insinuations.

Dave provided a handsome home, a brand new one, and took his bride there

Everything seemed to be just right, for months.

Dave was forging ahead and Flora was being quite discreet for a while, but in addition to her inclination to be giddy and still wayward, she was insanely jealous. She believed that Dave would, when opportunity arose, do exactly as she would do, and did do, when she thought it was safe.

So she began to telephone the office. If Dave were absent—if he happened to be in the pouring or rolling rooms or down in the chemical laboratory, where he couldn't be reached, Flora invariably became jealous and would ask, "Where were you?"

After a while he had a talk with her.

"There is no occasion to be jealous, my dear, nor will there ever be any occasion," he assured her.

"I was never jealous in my life," she insisted.

That very evening he stopped down at the hotel to talk with a brother chemist and when he came in Flora faced him angrily.

"Where were you?" she demanded.

He told her.

"That's what you say!"

And so on and on.

Employs Detective

Dave became more and more immersed in his work and Flora gadded here and there about the countryside in her car, parties at this and that house, boathouse drinking parties, dances at roadhouses with old-time lovers—but she was always home for dinner and most always she would say, "Where were you? I telephoned you twice this afternoon."

Of course she had not, but she thought it helped to make a good alibi in case some fool began to blab about her.

Dave was getting sick of it—and now that he realized what a wonderful young woman Mary Hanson was he was more than sick of his home life. Mary was in charge of the chemical formulas. She knew chemistry and she was beautiful, sweet and pleasant.

When Dave ordered a new set of books on chemistry and had them sent to Miss Hanson, Flora heard of it and was furious.

She demanded that Dave discharge the girl.

Dave told her not to be silly.

By the end of the second year everyone, except Dave, knew just how faithless his wife was. As for Dave, he was unhappy enough because of her eternal jealousy, her eternal question:

"Where were you?"

But all in good time Dave, driving out on business, saw Flora and a man just going into the Lakeside, a lake resort that was decidedly unsavory.

He watched for some weeks and saw more. He got a woman detective.

One day when Dave came home a half hour late Flora glared at him.

"Where were you?" she demanded.

"Do you really want to know?"

"You bet I do," she yelled.

"I was at a hotel with a woman—"

"Ah, so you admit it?"

"I was at the Lakeside, the woman was a detective. At 3 o'clock this afternoon we looked over the transom into Room 28—does that answer your question?"

"I—I—"

"That is where I was. Pack your duds and get out of here before I send for Mr. Hingham, your uncle, to come and get you."

She went.

After Dave got his divorce he settled down to real happiness.

His wife, she that was Mary Hanson, never asks him where he was.

WAKE UP, AMERICA!

American inventive genius asserted itself in no uncertain terms yesterday. Like a bolt from the blue, came the announcement from press and pulpit of the perfection of the triple-action super-safety garter and mudshield for men. Sirens shrieked, women fainted and strong men wept like babes. At noon the President had not yet issued a proclamation, but the populace went wild with joy, none the less. You see, no longer will the proud pedestrian blush with shame because his garter has slipped down over his shoe top, while hoodlums hoot and sneer. The triple-action has nine times the gravity resistance of the old-fashioned garter. Deny it if you can, you sissies!

The Fight Must Go On

Defeat of Musmanno Bill for Abolition of Coal and Iron Police Does Not End the Struggle.

The Senate, by a vote of 25 to 15, has defeated the amendments by which it was hoped to revitalize Representative M. A. Musmanno's bill for the abolition of the coal and iron police.

All honor to the senators who turned a deaf ear to the seductive influence of the corporations and stood firm for social justice! The Sun-Telegraph salutes them all, and particularly the Allegheny County delegation, which voted solidly for the revitalizing measures.

The citizens represented by the senators who opposed the measures and voted to perpetuate the evil will know how to deal with them. Indifference may have been responsible for the action of those whose districts lie outside of the coal region and who, on that account, have, perhaps, not been as familiar as they should be with the killing of John Borkowski and the other atrocities committed by the coal and iron police.

But that excuse cannot be offered for Rial of Westmoreland, Bell of Fayette, Painter of Butler, Scott of Clearfield, Baumer of Cambria, Ealy of Somerset, and Bowers of Jefferson and Indiana. They voted in full knowledge of what they were doing and will be held to account.

The fight, of course, must go on.

The defeat last night is a setback, but it has not discouraged Representative Musmanno, nor should it discourage others. Under his brilliant leadership victory will yet be attained and Pennsylvania freed from the disgraceful system under which it barters its sovereignty to corporations for the oppression of innocent workingmen.

Schooley on Taxation

The City Treasurer Makes Some Suggestions That Are Worth the Citizens' Attention.

City Treasurer Schooley's statement that Council has "sincerely adhered" to "a policy of the strictest economy in administration of city business" is laughable. No doubt he had his tongue in his cheek as he wrote it.

Otherwise his remarks on the municipal tax situation are worthy of careful consideration.

It is encouraging to note his recognition of the fact, as he puts it, that "any public official who is not already convinced that the tax burden on real estate has reached the limit upward is living in a fool's paradise."

The important part of the statement is that in which he submits possible sources of revenue which would relieve real estate owners of part of the tax load. They are valuable suggestions because they are definite and concrete. Schooley proposes, for example, a municipal tax on personal property, and the diversion to the city of at least part of some of the taxes now going to the state.

Nothing can be done, of course, at this session of the Legislature; but it is none too soon to begin studying the subject in preparation for the next session.

'Graveyard of Aviation'

Another Fatality in the Mountains Near Bellefonte Emphasizes Need of Change.

Eleven well-known Pittsburghers joined a year ago in a letter to the assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aeronautics, recommending that the Pennsylvania portion of the New York-St. Louis airway follow the Lincoln Highway. They condemned the Bellefonte route as "the graveyard of aviation."

The fitness of this characterization was again proved last Sunday, when a storm drove Air Mail Pilot James D. Cleveland to his death on the top of Nittany Mountain. He crashed into the peak in the darkness shortly after midnight.

The Lincoln Highway route, advocated by the Sun-Telegraph, has been developed, and is daily proving the wisdom of its selection. It is one of the safest of our airways.

The Bellefonte route, still used in the New York-Cleveland service, continues to take toll of life.

There may be, and no doubt are, good reasons why the Bellefonte route should not be abandoned in favor of another route; but there is nothing to prevent its being made safer.

Perhaps additional beacons should be established. A beacon on top of Nittany Mountain probably would have saved Cleveland.

Our Undeveloped Rivers

The Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango Can Be Made Useful to Western Pennsylvania Shippers.

A party of United States Engineers is surveying the Beaver River between Rochester, where it empties into the Ohio, and New Castle, where it is formed by the confluence of the Shenango and the Mahoning.

Another group is surveying the Shenango.

A third party is surveying the Mahoning between New Castle and Youngstown, and a fourth between Youngstown and Warren, O.

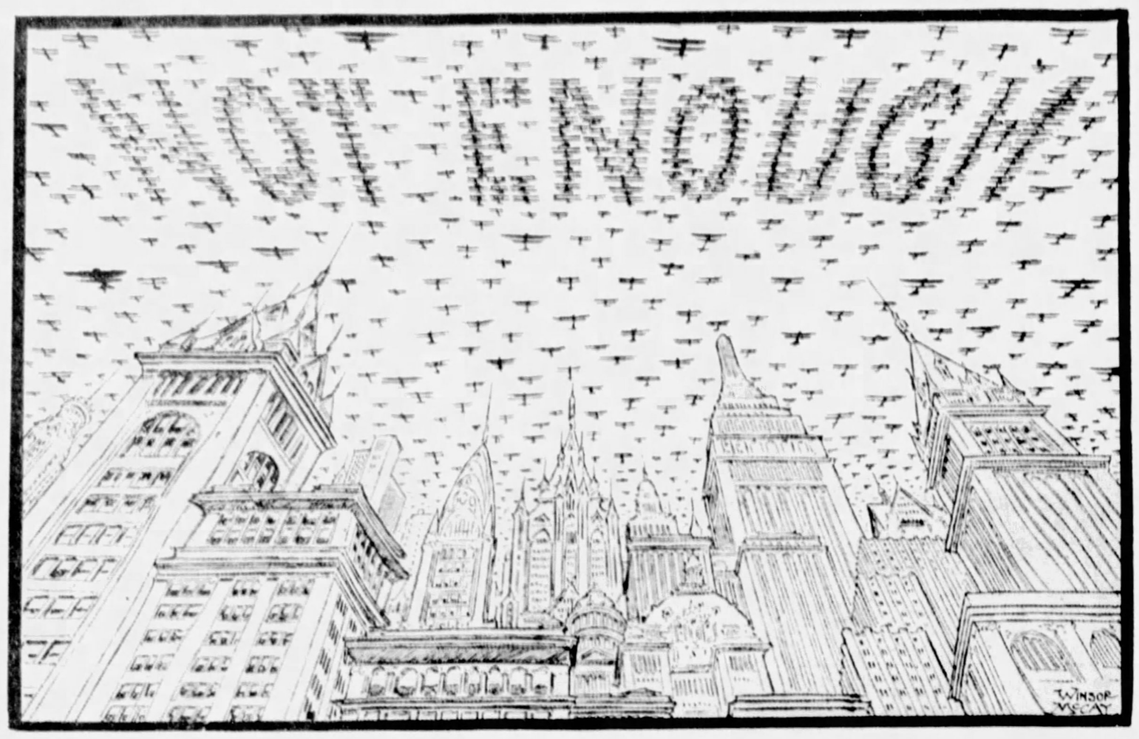
These activities are well timed. The Legislature has just provided for the completion of the Pymatuning Dam project, which will regulate stream flow in the Shenango and Beaver Rivers and help to make them navigable.

If the federal government follows up the work of the state government, thus providing a stage of water sufficient to float towboats and barges, it will be conferring a boon on the shippers of Western Pennsylvania.

The three streams, as yet undeveloped, run through highly industrialized valleys. With water transportation available an enormous tonnage of iron, steel and coal would be carried on the three rivers.

On the Monongahela last year 25,657,054 tons of freight were hauled. The figures give a hint of how useful the Beaver, Shenango and Mahoning might be.

A Good Many---But Not Enough



This picture shows the Army air display as it looks to the intelligent "man in the street." Six hundred planes are a good many. But such an "air force" would not supply as much as one plane for each of our principal cities.

The French, a small country and poor compared with us, can put into the air 5,000 fighting planes. And England far surpasses us in a protective air force.

However, the Army air display is encouraging, showing some perception of the fact that the airplane is the weapon of the future and OF THE PRESENT if a war should come in the present.

Our air fleet thus far is a SAMPLE air fleet. We should have the real thing.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 26.—While New York is a fashion capital it is also the mecca for the oddly dressed. Broadway is the especial parade ground for those whose habiliments are bizarre, but such idiosyncrasies are not confined there. They touch up Fifth, Madison and Park avenues as well as side streets.

A familiar figure along the Rialto is an old time English actor. He is a monochrome in brown—brown derby, dark tan vest, brown suit, brown spats, tan shoes and a huge cameo tie pin. Of late afternoons on the avenue may be seen those white haired twin brothers, studies in gray, save for red lapel flowers.

Louis Mann's collar and Raymond Hitchcock's gray derby are gone but Eddie Dunn's vests, suggesting a zebra galloping through the aurora borealis, remain. John Golden's black evening stock, too. Ziggy's lavendar collars and Morris Gest's fuzzy hat. And, of course, Si Goodfriend's eternal silk hat.

Al Jolson sports his leather short coat when weather permits. George White cannot be jeered out of his midget bow ties and F. P. A's screaming scarves still dazzle first nighters. Courtney Cooper's three gallon hat is worn on festive occasions and Frank Fay clings to enormously long pointed collars.

The Man in White, who for so many years patrolled Fifth avenue as a publicity move for operatic recognition, now sings in a far away Constantinople cabaret. But he has a successor sartorially in a mysterious gentleman in a blending of green, even to spats and walking stick.

In every section of the city there is at least one hollow-eyed shoeless, hatless and long haired "John the Baptist," gospeling from a soap box or merely roaming. Greenwich Village has the monocled lady with a parrot perched on her shoulder and Lafayette street Silk Hat Tony, the shoe shiner.

Overcoat Joe, encased winter and summer in his nine overcoats, still walks about scanning gutters for stray pins with which he decorates the front of his coat. It is now a shining armor. Joe was once a jockey, whose skull was fractured in a fall, clouding his mind.

I am one of those boyishly minded grown-ups who saves especially treasured gifts "for nice." Among such articles today in an old trunk I found a gold cigaret lighter, a pair of silk monogrammed hose, a walking stick with a blood red handle, a watch charm carved from a walrus tusk, a pair of cat-eye cuff links and a bright yellow beret. On one of my days off I'm going to fare forth wearing all of them and start a few runaways.

* * *

In the old trunk too I found a relic of adolescence. It was a celluloid flower for the buttonhole attached to which was a rubber tube and bulb to be concealed in the right pants pocket. The idea was that Gay Ninety hilarity of filling the bulb with water and pressing it at the auspicious moment. I tried it out on Mr. Lee Callahan who came to the kitchen door back home every morning to take grocery orders and not only got smacked silly but was kept home from the band concert night in the park.

* * *

I wonder if modern youth in smaller communities thrill over the weekly band concerts in the public squares or if the radio and movies have stamped them out. Older folk came in carriages and parked at curbs. Girls in fresh ginghams sat on the benches facing the grandstands and the boys cut capers in the grass, balancing feathers on their noses, playing leap frog and otherwise showing off. Afterward we paired off with the girls and if flush took them to Mrs. Jenny's ice cream parlor.

Last night strolling on the upper avenue I stopped in front of the high iron fence that encloses the gardens and four-storied brick mansion of Andrew Carnegie. While retrospecting a uniformed figure stepped out of the shadows and called: "Move on there!" And I did. But all the way home I kicked myself for not telling him to go to a certain place beginning with H—and I don't mean Hollywood.

Public Appreciation of Modern Science

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most extraordinary delusions of mankind is the pessimistic opinion that present-day civilization is not an advance, an improvement, over the past. From time to time, some eminent or authoritative public figure advances the view that progress is a delusion. A famous English divine, widely read on both sides of the Atlantic, recently said he could discover no law of human progress. Not a few present-day celebrities or notorieties have proclaimed their pessimism, their doubt regarding the gains of our age.

One of the most conspicuous illustrations of progress which can be found is afforded by the case of science. In this instance, there is no room for doubt; the proofs may be adduced in overwhelming number. If we go back half a century, we find that the scientist received little regard from the public and was often the butt of public ridicule. By his colleagues he was usually esteemed, but some of our most profound scientists were almost unrecognized, even in scientific circles, during their lives.

A conspicuous illustration is afforded by J. Willard Gibbs, one of the most eminent constructive thinkers in science this country has ever produced. For a time he labored at a great university without any compensation at all; and for many years he received what would be regarded today as the merest pittance. This great thinker was almost a recluse; his constructive ideas were matured in solitude. Foreign scientists recognized his merits; but at home he was neglected and almost ignored. Since his death he has come to be recognized, throughout the entire world, as a constructive force in science, who devised new systems and expounded new laws, in the realm of dynamics. He has had, in his field, few equals and no superiors.

The revolution to which attention is called is a revolution in the attitude of public and press towards science and scientists. A few decades ago, the scientists, with their long-winded disquisitions and unintelligible terms, were stock jokes of the daily press.

Within recent years, the American public has "discovered" science. The reason is not far to seek.

Science has demonstrated its incalculable potential value. People appreciate things which will or may bring them appreciable financial rewards. The great industrial plants maintain costly laboratories where salaried scientists are constantly at work, developing new processes, making economies in production, improving, devising, inventing.

It may be replied, perhaps, that these remarks apply only to inventors, to workers in applied science. This is true to a certain extent; but this growing appreciation of the material value of scientific discoveries has resulted in creating a respect and regard for pure science and its practitioners as well. The names of Einstein, Rutherford, Millikan, Michelson, Eddington, Jeans, for example, are constantly seen in the public prints.

Today, the public wants to know. It has become better educated, and has a smattering of science. A new curiosity has been bred in the public mind; to learn, if possible, the complicated ideas, theories and applications of the most profound scientific thinkers of the day. We all appreciate and hold the scientist in high regard. This is an undoubted sign of notable progress.

Isn't It So?

Truth is the club that knocks down and kills everybody.

Some people are as care-free signing a note as a petition.

Many a man who boasts of his blue blood has a streak of yellow.

The secret of happiness lies in letting the other fellow do the worrying.

A man can carry a lot of mortgages and still not be able to lift any one of them.

The fool is always willing to take a chance, whether he knows what to do with it or not.

Many a man goes to extremes. On the principle that a little learning is a dangerous thing, he tells his wife nothing.

Time's Stupid Tyranny

The clock, the calendar,
These seek to master me,
Though I keep ever fleeing from Their stupid tyranny.

"Tick-tock, tick-tock," I hear
The nagging voice all day;
It would not give me time to dream,
It would not let me play.

"Tick-tock, tick-tock," it runs
Through laughter and through grief,
As though to warn the stars and suns
Time's pageantry is brief.

The niggard calendar
Upon my study wall
Speaks every flying day to me:
"Soon gone, beyond recall!"

Yet I am so perverse,
I laugh at all the scheme;
And keep, despite astronomers,
My right to play and dream.

Utility Company 'Candor'

Officials of Southern Company Act Behind Closed Doors When Expert Questions Rates.

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

THE elaborate and costly propaganda maintained by the public utility companies has been the occasion of much comment. It has even been deemed worthy of the attention of the Federal Trade Commission.

Subsidized periodicals, press agent "news," speeches over the radio, and even furtive incursions into the texts contained in school books, have been resorted to. It has been a far-flung campaign, pressing into service every known means of access to popular attention.

Mr. Colby

The plain object of the companies is to allay dissatisfaction however it arises, either with the quality of service or the rates charged to the consumer.

A very slight familiarity with the material used in this propaganda reveals its close affinity to the "go-getter" and "put-it-over" concepts of modern business.

If you are not at once persuaded that the motives of the utility companies are those of pure self-abnegation and that their financial methods are free from the taint of profit seeking, it is not the fault of the various departments of "publicity" and "public relations" which the companies value so highly as adjuncts to their main activities.

THEIR spokesmen say they are only trying to get the facts into the public mind. "The truth shall make you free" seems to be their slogan.

But not all the facts, nor the whole truth. There is a little "catch" in this publicity campaign. The public is asked to swallow the facts as they are served up to them and to accept as truth only that which is on the bill of fare offered by the utility companies.

Some weeks ago the Atlanta Gas Light Company filed a petition with the Georgia Public Service Commission for an increase in the rates which it might charge. The petition did not state what changes or rate increases were sought.

And right at this point the policy of candor with the public seemed to strike a snag.

A hearing on the petition was set for May 6, in which the city of Atlanta decided to take part. It was very important from the public standpoint, that the reasons for an increase in rates should be known.

FOR the purpose of making its intervention effective, the city of Atlanta appropriated the modest sum of $1,500 which it proposed to pay to the Municipalities Utilities Rate Association of Georgia for expert services in analyzing the position of the Atlanta Gas Light Company, and in opposing any modification of existing rates that might not prove warranted, when subjected to competent examination.

The Rate Association of Georgia includes a number of municipalities within the state. Many public officials are members of it, and its purpose as an organization is to protect the interests of municipalities and domestic consumers in coping with the utility companies.

Four days before the date of the hearing, on the application of a Mr. Smith, described as a taxpayer, an injunction was obtained restraining the city of Atlanta from paying this modest fee to the Municipal Utilities Rate Association or appearing against the Atlanta Gas Light Company and opposing its application for increased rates.

Mr. Smith was called before the City Council of Atlanta, but did not explain very clearly how he came to bring the action, although the source and instigation of such suits is rather well understood.

BUT the city of Atlanta was not prepared to surrender simply because of the injunction. It had the good judgment to obtain the assistance of Dr. John Bauer, recently a member of the staff of the St. Lawrence Power Development Commission—a widely recognized authority on rate problems, valuations, cost analyses and accounting, as such questions arise in connection with public utilities. He reached Atlanta on May 4, and addressed the Municipal Utilities Rate Association the following day on the principles underlying the rates charged by utility companies.

The questions involved in the company's petition were becoming generally understood as never before. It was rather alarming to the company. Something had to be done.

The manager of the local radio station, sensing the public interest in the views of this distinguished expert, arranged with him for a lecture over the radio.

At this point the policy of complete candor in dealing with the public began to take fright. A request that a spokesman for the company should be permitted to follow Dr. Bauer with an address from the company viewpoint was promptly granted. But this afforded only momentary relief.

AS public interest grew, an expanded program was arranged for Dr. Bauer. He was asked to make a series of three addresses on the general subject of the relations between utility companies and the communities they serve.

This was too much. Something had to be done and at once. It was done behind the scenes. What it was, has not been revealed. Some reference was made to "influential representations"

The discussions of public utilities, the regulation of rates and the relations of the companies to the public were canceled, without explanation.

The Atlanta Gas Light Company is controlled by the Central Public Service Corporation, which in turn is controlled by the Central Public Service Company.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

What does the face of your wife reflect?

It very likely tells the story of how you treat her.

You wish to be thought a good husband, but what is the truth of the matter?

Does your wife look happy and contented and relaxed?

If she is well and not suffering from deep bereavement, her face is a pretty sure index of your character in dealing with her.

She may be a good actress and her pride may suggest to her that she appear happy whether she is or not, but there are certain tell-tale evidences which portray the truth.

Do you bring smiles to her when you enter your home?

Or are you kind and considerate only in the presence of others?

This may satisfy her pride in a sense, but there is a deeper grief that you are so gruff and arrogant when you two are together.

Demanding and selfish in the home, you push aside the sweetness of her disposition and leave the imprint of your roughshod brutality.

You don't like that word brutal, but if you do not show her as much consideration as you expert from her, you are brutal and her face tells, be she ever so loyal.

How about it, old man, do you treat your wife right?
